In Memoriam Majorum.

"There be of those that have left a name behind them,
That their praises may be reported;
And some there be which have no memorial,
Who are perished as though they had never been,
And are become as though they had never been born,
And their children after them."

PREFACE.

In the arrangement of the genealogical record, I have mainly followed the plan adopted in the New England Historical Genealogical Register.

Each person by the name of Sears has his, or her, serial number in Arabic figures, and family number in Roman numerals.

The column of figures on the left margin of the page is, from beginning to end, the general enumeration, and when any such number is starred, the asterisk denotes reference to a distinct paragraph or chapter further on, where a more full account of the individual and his family may be found. This applies to all in the male line who are known to have married, and whose issue I have recorded.

By the plan adopted, the different branches of a family of the same generation are grouped together, so that their connection may be readily seen, and individuals are placed as by right of primogeniture.

To trace the ancestry of any individual Sears, you have only to take the number at the head of the chapter or paragraph, and turn back to the same number in the margin, and you will there find his parentage, etc., and the same process continued will take you back to the first generation.

The double-dating, which occurs in the mention of early generations, is in conformity with the general practice of the period.

In public records previous to A. D. 1752, the old-style system of dating prevailed; March was the first month, the year beginning March 25.

The new style, adopted by Pope Gregory XIII in 1582, became that of Great Britain and her American Colonies in 1752, from which time January became the first month.

To correct dates of the old style, or Julian manner of computation, to conform to the new style or Gregorian calendar, ten days should be added to all dates to the close of 1699, and eleven days thereafter. But even this does not exactly conform to the solar year.

Some apparent discrepancies in dates of marriages, birth of children, etc., are accounted for by the early mode of dating.

To condense the record as far as possible, I have reluctantly been obliged to omit many anecdotes, which, though characteristic of the parties concerned, are yet of but local interest — and have included but three generations in the female lines;— I have also generally made use of the customary and well-known abbreviations; and towns once named in an article are thereafter designated by first syllables — e. g., Barns. for Barnstable, Br. for Brewster, Den. for Dennis, etc., and b. for born, adm. for admitted, bap. for baptized, d. for died, d. s. p. (decessit sine prole,) for died without issue, m. for married, gr.-st. for grave-stone, Ch. Rec. for Church Records, T. C. for Town Clerk, T. Rec. for Town Records, and others which, in their connection, will suggest their own meaning. Wherever (?) occurs, it will be understood to indicate uncertainty. Where a date is placed in brackets, [ ] it is because I have found different dates given for the same event, and have not certainly ascertained which is the correct one, or I have desired to call attention to the fact that authorities differ.

It should be borne in mind that many changes have taken place in boundaries and town names.

Plymouth Colony was merged in the Province of Massachusetts in 1692. The east precinct of Yarmouth was incorporated as the town of Dennis, June 19, 1793, and part of Harwich was set off as Brewster, Feb. 19, 1803.

In giving birth-places, etc., I have generally followed the original records, which do not usually take note of the popular names for localities or district subdivisions; for instance, a child born in South Yarmouth is entered as of Yarmouth; or if in East Dennis, as of Dennis, etc.

I have been taken to task for writing that a person was of Yarmouth, his descendant gravely affirming that his "grandfather lived and died in Dennis," when in point of fact there was not then any such town.

In Colonial and Provincial times the title of Captain was given only to officers of that rank in the army, militia and navy; commanders of vessels in the merchant service were styled Master or Skipper.

The early Scarses called "Capt." in records were, therefore, of the militia, though some of them may also have been seafaring men.

Some persons may feel aggrieved that fuller mention is not made of themselves and their families.

It has been my aim to treat all alike, but while many, and I am pleased to say most, of the persons to whom I have applied for information have cheerfully interested themselves to procure for me required data, others have made no response, or such as was little better than none; if, therefore, some families are left out entirely, or imperfect, perhaps erroneous data given, it is not my fault.

No genealogist can expect absolute correctness, but I have been at great pains to make the record reliable as far as it goes, and to reduce errors to the minimum, and I will esteem it a favor if any of my readers will inform me of any errors that may come to their notice, and send me any additions to family records for use when occasion may offer.

During the seven or eight years that I have been engaged in collecting material for this work, I have had much pleasant correspondence with persons connected with the family, and many kind words of encouragement; and now that my book is submitted for their approval, I shall hope to again hear from them, and will cordially receive any friendly criticism.

I will only add, that while I have deemed it my duty to expose errors in the heretofore published accounts of the family history, etc., I have not "set down aught in malice," and I have not cared to record individual peculiarities or frailties.

ENGLISH ANCESTRY.

Some years since, at the earnest solicitation of members of the family, I undertook the task of revising the "Sears Genealogy" and bringing it down to date.

I did so in the belief, common to the family and public generally, that the English Ancestry of Richard Sares, of Yarmouth, as published, was entirely authentic, and that little more was to be learned on that head.

Soon after commencing my labors however, my attention was drawn to discrepancies in the pedigree, seemingly irreconcilable, and an investigation was found necessary.

The result of my researches proves beyond question that not one step of the pedigree can be substantiated by existing records, and on the contrary some portions are impossible, and others in conflict with known authorities.

I have been desired to give the facts publicity, in order that the pedigree may no longer be copied, and quoted as authority, as has been done in numerous local histories and family genealogies, and in the hope that, attention being drawn to the subject, renewed searches may discover the true origin of Richard Sares.

In the proper places I have alluded to many errors, and will here therefore only refer to those most vital to the pedigree, as printed in "Pictures of the Olden Time," etc., edn. 1857, Crosby, Nichols & Co., Boston, and edited by the late Rev. Edmund H. Sears, D. D.

Part II, p. 10. "John Sayer of Colchester, Alderman, etc., d. 1509, leaving by Elizabeth his wife, three sons, viz., John, Robert and George.

"The eldest of these, John, d. in 1562, leaving two sons, viz., Richard and George.

"The eldest of these, Richard, is the subject of the first of the sketches in 'Pictures of the Olden Time.' He was born in Colchester in 1508, married Ann Bourchier, dau. of Edmd. Knyvet, * * * , of Ashwellthorpe, co. Norf., second son of Sir Edwd. Knyvet, * * *. Richard became a fugitive to Holland in 1537, and d. Amsterdam, 1540, * * *. His wife, the Lady Anne, clung faithfully to her husband in his adversity, and incurred the lasting displeasure of the Knyvets. It is inferred that her father became so bitterly estranged from her, as to erase her name from all his family records, that she might be forgotten forever, for he gave to a younger daughter the name of Anne, while she was yet living. * * * George Sayer in consequence of Richard's flight, secured for himself possession of the patrimonial inheritance. This George d. 1577, * * * His descendant, and eventual heiress, married Sir John Marsham."

There is much confusion in the various printed accounts of the Sayer family of Colchester. Morant in his Hist. of Col., Book 2, p. 43, says, "John Sayer, Alderman of this town d. Feb. 14, 1509. John Sayer, his son, d. 1563.

"George Sayer son of the last, was an Alderman of this Corporation, and one of the Bailiffs. * * * Richard his eldest son, d. Sep. 1610. * * * George the second son, who departed this life the 3 July, 1596, married Rose Cardinall."

Wright in his Hist. of Essex, Book 2, p. 409, says, "John Sayer, Alderman, d. 1509, and his son John in 1563.

"George his son was an Alderman," etc.

Whether he means that George was son of the first, or of the second John, is not clear.

Morant errs in stating that the Richard Sayer who died in 1610, was the son of George. It is true he, (George,) did have a son Richard, but as he is not mentioned in his father's will dated 1573, and proved in 1577, it is probable he was then dead without issue.

But George does give £20 to his "nephew Richard," doubtless the son of his brother John, and the same Richard who died in 1610, "aged full four score," as inscribed on his brass in St. Peter's Ch. Col. The arms on that brass, quarter Sayer and Wesden. George Sayer, and John, his younger brother, married sisters, co-heiresses of Wesden of Lincolnshire, and as George's son Richard was dead before 1573, it follows that the Richard quartering the maternal arms of Wesden, must have been the son of John, and it is so stated in the Heralds Visitation of Essex, for the year 1612, pub. Har. So., 1878, Part I, p. 286.

If, as Morant says, the Richard who died in 1610, was the elder son of George, why did his younger brother, George, Jr., who died in 1596, succeed to the paternal estates in 1577?

Here we have an apparent case of a Richard Sayer the eldest son, being supplanted by his younger brother George, and I have no doubt that the person who constructed the pedigree of Richard Sares of Yarmouth, had in mind this erroneous statement of Morant. It is in the highest degree improbable that two elder brothers Richard were disinherited, and supplanted by two younger brothers George, in succeeding generations.

The Heralds Visitation of Essex, for 1612, says that "George Sayer of Col. in com. Essex, gentle, sonne & heire," and "John Sayer of Col. 2d sonne," were the sons of " . . . Sayer of Col. in Ess. Gentleman," which leaves it an open question whether George was the son of John Sayer the Alderman, or, as Morant says, his grandson.

That John, (bro. of George,) was a second son, is confirmed by his brass in St. Peter's Ch. Col., whereon his coat of arms is differenced by a crescent, the distinguishing heraldic mark of a second son.

The late John Sayer, Esq're., Barrister, of Pett Hall, Charing, and Lord of the Manor of Smarden in Kent, who died in 1886, was the representative head of the elder line of George Sayer of Colchester.

He was at great pains in compiling a pedigree of the family, entered in "The College of Arms," London, to eliminate the errors in the published accounts of the family, and to supply the omissions. An abridged extract from this pedigree was printed in the "Memorials of Smarden," pub. 1886, just before his death, and the proof carefully revised by him.

In this pedigree he gives as the children of John Sayer the Alderman, "1. George, d. 1577, 2. John, d. 1563, 3. Robert, living 1573," and I have no doubt correctly. Admitting this then Richard Sayer "The Exile," who is said to have died in Amsterdam in 1540, if he was the brother of George as claimed, must have been the son, not the grand-son, of the Alderman. The brass to the latter in St. Peter's Ch. Col., represents him kneeling with his wife, four sons and a daughter, but does not give his children's names. The question arises, what was the name of the fourth son, and what became of him? Most probably he died young, and perhaps the question may be answered in his father's will, or in the inquisition post-mortem, taken in those days to show who were the heirs to an estate, and liable to pay entry fine to the crown.

Up to the year 1570, the borough of Colchester enjoyed the privilege of Probate, and upon application to the town clerk, I was informed that the court-rolls were still preserved in his office, and were in his custody.

He further said that they were written in the ancient court-hand and would require the services of an expert, (which he was not,) to decipher. I thereupon wrote to an antiquarian in Colchester, who I knew to be an expert in such matters, to see if he could find the wills of John Sayer and his sons, and make certain extracts for me.

Upon application to the town clerk he was informed that permission to examine the court-rolls, and make extracts, could not be granted. My friend expressed great dissatisfaction at this decision, claiming that as a rate payer for many years in Colchester, he should have the right to search the archives, etc., and declared his intention of applying to the General Probate Office in London for the desired permission. And so the matter rests at present.

A special, but not exhaustive search in London, made by Mr. H. F. Waters, at my request, resulted in finding many Sayers wills, but none certainly identified with the Colchester family, except that of George Sayer, "the elder," who died 1577. He mentions therein, his children and grand-children then living, "nephew Richard Sayer," and "brother Robert's children."

The middle names of Bourchier, given to Anne Knyvet, and later to John Sayer, father and son, in the pedigree, are clearly anachronisms; as is also that of Jane Knyvet Sayer, born 1596, and tend to discredit it.

Middle names did not come in vogue with the gentry till long after, viz., temps Charles I. according to various writers in "Notes and Queries," London.

Rev. Augustus Jessopp, D. D. of East Dereham, co. Norf., Eng., has for years made the history of the Knyvet family an especial study with a view to publication.

Some time since he kindly drew up for me a pedigree of Edmund Knyvet, of Ashwellthorpe, and his descendants, which he informed me could be relied upon, as it was compiled from the original documents.

He found that Edmd. Knyvet had four married daughters, but none named Anne, much less two of the name; that he died insolvent, and in his will mentions none of his children by name;—if therefore, he did have a daughter Anne, she does not seem to have been treated differently from her sisters, in respect to inheritance.

It appears however, that Edmund Knyvet's son William, did have two daughters named Anne, one baptized at Fundenhall, 30 May, 1562, the other 2 Mar., 1566. I do not know if they were both living at the same time, but if they were, the circumstance would not be without precedent; instances of two children bearing the same name not being uncommon in those days, even three of a name being on record.

But do we find in this coincidence the basis for the "two daughters named Anne"?

It is a fact that Edmund Knyvet's daughter Alice, married one Oliver Sheres, of Wreningham, a village some five miles from Ashwellthorpe, and the name may have easily become changed to Seres, Sares and Sears, at a later date. Jane,

"daughter & sole heyer of John Bourchier, Knyght, late Lord Berners," made her will 8 April, 1560, and leaves to "Alice, my daughter, now wife to Oliver Sheres," £60, on condition that he shall settle lands in Wreningham, Ashwellthorpe and other towns, on himself and Alice. 1 May, 1565, Oliver Sheres of Wreningham, co. Norf., gent., and Alice his wife, demised to Anthony Grey of Shelton, gent., the manor house of Wreningham, "wherein said Oliver and Alice now dwelleth." "I suspect Alice died early, for I find in a Will of Mrs. Downes who lived in the parish of St. Martins-in-the-Fields, London, (whose husband was almost certainly a member of a good Norfolk family,) who made her will 1601, that she left to a daughter, Elizabeth Mawdit, "the £100, which my son-in-law Oliver Sheres owes me." Query, did Oliver Sheres remove to London?

As yet I have not learned what children, if any, he had, but may succeed in doing so later.

Did this marriage of Oliver Sheres and Alice Knyvet originate another step in the Sears pedigree?

The Registers of St. Peter's Ch. Col., of which John Sayer the Alderman and his sons were parishioners, commence only about 1653, more than one hundred years after the alleged flight of Richard Sayers to Holland, and from them therefore, we can learn nothing of the family previous to that date.

Briefly; — I conclude that John Sayer, Ald., who d. 1509, had four sons, viz.: George, d. 1577; John, d. 1563; Robert living in 1573; and another, name and date of death unknown, but who may have been a Richard; — that George had a son Richard who died vita patris; and that John, Jr., had also a son Richard, who d. Col., 1610, aged 80, leaving an heiress, Jane by name; and that neither of these Richards, sons of George and John, Jr., could have been the husband of Ann Knyvet in 1528.

The children of John Sayer, Ald., must have been born not long before his death in 1509; his wife survived him 21 years, and he was probably but a middle aged man at his decease, although attaining to the Aldermanic dignity.

P. 12. "John Bourchier Sayer, was born, say the family papers, in 1528. I suspect, however, that this is a mistake, and that the date is too early, for it would make his father but little more than 19 years of age at his marriage. * * * Another date has it in 1535. * * * He married Elizabeth, daughter of Sir John Hawkins, * * * and died in Holland, leaving by Elizabeth, his wife, four sons, viz.: John Bourchier, Henry, William and Richard. Of the last three we have no facts, except that they were born in Plymouth, Engd., and that they settled in Kent. Plymouth was probably the temporary residence of their mother, while their father was with Hawkins as a navigator. Of John Bourchier, I have given some account in the 'Pictures.'

"The date of his birth is given in the family papers as 1561.

"I have put it a little later for several reasons. He married Marie L., daughter of Philip Lamoral van Egmond, and acquired with her a large fortune, principally in money."

The biographers of Sir John Hawkins, generally state that he was born in 1520, but they are wrong, and probably follow some one erroneous authority.

He died Nov. 12, 1595, and his widow, (his 2d wife,) erected a monument to his memory in St. Dunstans-in-the-East, London, (of which he had been a parishioner many years,) with a Latin inscription setting forth his forty-three years of service by sea and land; and a wooden mural tablet with English verses, a copy of which may be found in Stow's London, edn. Strype, 1720, Vol. I, Book II, pp. 44, '5. It ends thus:

> "Ending his life with his experience,
> By deep decree of God's high Providence,
> His years to six times ten, & three amounting,
> The ninth, the seventh climacterick by counting.
> Dame Katherine, his first religious wife,
> Saw years, thrice ten, & two of mortal life." * * *

We see therefore, that he was but 63 years of age in 1595, and so born about 1532, and this is confirmed by reckoning his "43 years of service," back from 1595, which brings us to 1552, when he would have been about 21; — also by the fact that he was admitted a freeman of Plymouth in 1555-6, a step altogether necessary at that period to a man in his position, and one that would not have been unnecessarily delayed after he attained his majority.

He removed to London before 1573, and succeeded his father-in-law, Gunson, as Treasurer of the Navy.

His wife was then living, and as she died at the age of 32, she could not have been born earlier than 1541.

John Bourchier Sayer, Jr., is said to have been born in 1561, (although Rev. E. H. Sears thinks the date too early.)

At that time John Hawkins was but 29, and his wife 20 years of age.

Neither could have had a daughter of marriageable age at that date, nor for many years after.

These dates and conclusions, are confirmed by R. N. Worth, F. G. S., author of Histories of Plymouth, and of Devonshire, and of an address on "Sir John Hawkins, Sailor, Statesman and Hero," reprinted from Transactions of the "Devon Association for the Advancement of Science, Lit. and Art," 1883, pp. 40.

The Registers of St. Andrew's Church, Plymouth, to which parish the Hawkins family belonged, only go back to 1573, at which date John Hawkins was a resident of London.

As to the marriage with Marie L. von Egmond. The late Mr. S. Alofsen of Jersey City, a well-known and esteemed Antiquarian, (who came to this Country in connection with the Embassy from the Netherlands,) wrote to the late S. G. Drake, then Editor of the N. E. Hist. Gen. Register, a letter which is on file.

In it he states that "the Egmond family never had a residence in Amsterdam;" — that "the family genealogy brought down to the latter part of the last century, has been printed;" — that "it contains the name of but one Philip v. Egmond, viz., the son of Count Egmond;" and that, "if John Bourchier Sayer did marry one of the family, his wife must have been of an obscure and unknown branch;" — a fact that seems to me somewhat inconsistent with the "large fortune," even in money, which she is said to have brought her husband.

P. 13. "John Bourchier Sayer, married Marie L. von Egmond, Amsterdam, 1585, and had Marie L., b. 1587, Richard, 1590; John, 1592; and Jane Knyvet, 1596.

"These dates are copied from the family papers of the Searses of Chatham, and I think they are correct.

"Such a series depending upon each other would not be all wrong. John Bourchier Sayer purchased with his wife's fortune, property in England, adjoining the lands which he hoped soon to recover. Among the estates thus bought were Bourchier and Little Fordham Manors, both of which had in former times belonged to his ancestors."

There formerly hung in the parlor of Mrs. Richard Sears of Chatham, a chart pedigree of the family, given to her by her husband's nephew, which is now in possession of a descendant in Framingham.

According to this chart, Richard Sares was born in Amsterdam in 1613,—twenty-three years later than the date given by Rev. E. H. Sears.

While I think 1613, to be nearer the correct date of Richard Sares' birth, there is no evidence that it is the true one.

Both Morant and Wright, in their Histories of Essex, state that Bourchier Hall or Little Fordham in Aldham, derives its name from its ancient owners, the Earls of Essex. "Sir Robert Bourchier died possessed of Bourchiers Hall in 1328, and it remained in the family until confiscated. Queen Elizabeth regranted it to William, Marquis of Northampton, who sold it to George Sayer in 1574. It continued in his descendants, finally passing to the Marsham family by marriage, fell into decay, was divided and sold."

A part is now used as a farm-house. I find no mention that it ever belonged to the Sayers, previous to 1574.

The "Notices of the Sears Family," page 4, says "In 1577, George Seares of Colchester died in possession of 'The Abbots' in Stanway, under trust for Richard Sayers in Holland;"—and confuses it with Bourchier Hall, or Little Fordham, an entirely different estate in Aldham, a neighboring parish.

George Sayer bought Bourchier Hall, paying ingress fine in 1574, and died 1577; yet he is said to have held the estate under trust for Richard Sayer in Holland, who, the "Pictures" say, had died 37 years previous, viz.: 1540. The author of the "Notices" probably got his data from Morant's Hist. Col.,

Book II, p. 111, which gives a list of Geo. Sayer's estates as found by inq. p. m., but not a word is said therein of any Richard Sayers, and the words "under trust," etc., are undoubtedly an interpolation.

P. 14. Here Rev. E. H. Sears prints his only piece of documentary evidence, viz.: a letter from J. Hawes, dated Yarmouth, June 20, 1798, to Daniel Sears of Chatham, in which he signs himself

"Your affectionate, relative, and friend, J. Hawes."

In it Mr. Hawes refers to sundry "curious and important documents," * * * "I have heard from your brother Richard, that Knyvet Sares, or Sears, before he went to London, and some years before his death, collected and arranged these valuable papers with the intention of using them. They had long remained neglected and uncared for. Among them was a list of marriages, births and deaths, similar to that which I now send, and many original deeds and letters, with a long correspondence between the Sayers, the Knyvets and others in England. It seemed to be closed by a letter from John Bourchier Sares, dated Leyden, 1614.

"Your brother always speaks highly of this letter. * * *

"A highly interesting manuscript was compiled from these papers, and came into possession of Daniel Sears, your father.

"The original letters were taken to England, by Knyvet, and are possibly still there in the hands of some of the family.

"The manuscript was last seen and read so late as 1760, but neither the one, nor the other, are now to be found.

"It may be the originals are not lost, but the copy, your brother thinks, was either burnt, or carried away when the family mansion was nearly destroyed in 1763. * * *

"I send such facts as I have been able to collect, assisted by Richard and Mr. Colman."

I have been quite unable to identify the writer of this letter, or ascertain his relationship to the family.

The signature attracts attention by its variance from the common custom of the period, of writing the name in full.

The only male persons of the name of Hawes that I find residing in Yarmouth in 1798, and bearing the initial J., are John Hawes, Dea. Joseph Hawes the school-master, and his son, Joseph, Jr.

The latter is out of the question, by reason of his youth, etc., and a comparison of the letter with an article by the worthy deacon, printed in Swift's "Old Yarmouth," 1884, p. 223, shows such a difference in style of composition, that I feel certain they were not by the same author.

John Hawes was 31 years old in 1798, but not likely to be the writer of the letter.

The only marriage recorded between the Sears and Hawes families, during the last century, is that of Jonathan Sears and Elizabeth, dau. of Dea. Joseph Hawes of Yarmouth, in 1721. This Jonathan was a second cousin, once removed, of Daniel Sears.

I am aware that the Sears Genealogy says that Daniel Sears of Chatham, married in 1708, Sarah Hawes, daughter of J. Hawes of Yarmouth, (another mysterious J.,) and this error, for such it is, has been perpetuated on the Sears monuments in Chatham, Yarmouth and Colchester. On the Yarmouth town records, the name is clearly written Howes, and the will of Samuel Howes, of Yar., recorded Barns. Prob. Rec., IV, 90, mentions "daughters Sarah Sears, and Hope Sears," who married the brothers, Daniel and Richard Sears, and "Mercy Sears," who married their cousin, Josiah Sears.

The only Sarah Hawes living in 1708, and on record in Yarmouth, was the dau. of Dea. Joseph Hawes, she born 1696, married in 1719 to Thos. Hallet.

There is no tradition, or record found in Chatham, of the family mansion having been "nearly destroyed in 1763."

Benj. Bangs a merchant of Harwich, who chronicled in his diary more trivial events happening in Chatham at that time, makes no mention of the occurrence, and when the old building was taken down in 1863, the original timbers were found in place, with the bark still on, and there were no marks of its having ever passed through the fiery ordeal.

Daniel Sears though born in Chatham, was in business in Boston in 1798, having removed to that place with his mother, at her second marriage in 1763.

But why should he apply to J. Hawes for particulars of his family, instead as would have been natural, to his brothers, Richard or David? His bro.-in-law Mr. Colman, was also his neighbor.

We may admire the vivid recollection attributed to Richard Sears, after the lapse of thirty-eight years, of the letters, etc., read last when he was a boy of eleven.

P. 16. "John Bourchier Sayer, died 1629. By Marie L. Egmond, his wife, he left two sons, and two daughters, viz., Richard, John, Marie and Jane. The three latter, went to England, and settled in Kent.

"Richard Sayer or Sears. * * * His birth is variously given, but 1590, we think is the true date.

"He married Dorothy Thacher, at Plymouth, in 1632.

"The likeness of him was taken from a painting in Holland, in possession of the Egmont family, and is supposed to be correct. * * * He died 1676, and his wife in 1680. By her he had the following children, viz., Knyvet, Paul, Silas and Deborah. * * * Knyvet was born in 1635, married Elizabeth Dymoke, * * * went to England on a second voyage, and died 1686, at the residence of his relative, Catharine (subsequently Baroness Berners,) dau. of Sir John Knyvet, and wife of John Harris Esq. The evidences he carried with him were never recovered. He left two children, Daniel and Richard."

I have already alluded to the doubtful date assigned for Richard's birth. If born 1590, he would have been 42 years old in 1632, an unusual age to remain single, in those days of early marriages, and the statement that he married Dorothy Thacher at Plymouth in 1632, requires confirmation. His name is found there, only in the tax list of 25 March, 1633.

No record of his marriage is now to be found, and no Dorothy is known to the Thacher genealogists, except as found in the "Sears Genealogy." It is claimed that she was a sister of Antony Thacher of Yarmouth, and Richard Sares in his will calls him, "bro. Thacher," and Antony's son John, in an affidavit appended thereto calls him "my uncle Sares." Several other explanations of the terms of relationship may however be given.

Antony Thacher was twice married; — the name of his first wife was Mary ———, and she may have been a sister of Richard Sares; or Antony's second wife, Elizabeth Jones, may have been a sister of Richard's wife.

It is possible that Richard Sares married Dorothy Batts, at Marblehead in 1638–9.

She came over in the "Bevis" which sailed from Southampton, before May 2, 1638, with her brother, Christopher Batts of Salisbury, and his wife Anne, who was a sister of Antony Thacher. Antony Thacher's brother Peter, married as his second wife, Alice Batts, sister of Dorothy, so the families were doubly connected. The connection of Dorothy Batts and Antony Thacher, fully justified the terms of relationship in Richard Sares' will; see an almost parallel case quoted by the late Col. J. L. Chester, in N. E. Hist. Gen. Reg., XXI, 365; and the family connection perhaps influenced Richard Sares to join the party led by Antony Thacher, in the spring of 1639, which settled Yarmouth.

If however Richard Sares did marry Dorothy Batts, she must, I think, have been his second wife, for his eldest son was born in 1637–8, which would be before she came over, or at the latest, a few months after her arrival.

Thomas Thacher, of Beckington, co. Somerset, in his will proved 1611, mentions "bro. Antony," and Clement Thacher of Marston Bigot, in his will dated 1629, and proved 1639, names "bro. Antony" and others. Rev. Peter Thacher of Sarum, made his will in 1640, and mentions "bro. Antony," and "sister Ann, wife of Chris. Batts," and other relatives, among them his "wife's sister Dorothy."

It is natural to suppose that one of the brothers whose wills are here referred to, would have made some mention of their sister Dorothy, if they had such; and, we may ask, how did she, a single woman, happen to be in Plymouth in 1632, three years before her brother and his family came over?

In a note to the first edition of the "Pictures," the portrait of Richard "The Pilgrim," is said to be from the Egmont gallery in Amsterdam, which more definitely locates it.

There once hung in the west parlor of Madame Richard Sears of Chatham, a painting which Mrs. Sears, was wont to call "Sir Richard," and which has been said by some persons to have been the original of the engraved portrait. This is an error. The portrait was given after the Squire's death to his widow, by his nephew, and was a copy from a painting in possession of the latter. It resembles some of the family, but when, or where the original was painted, is a mystery.

There is no reason for believing that Richard Sares was ever in Holland, but some descendants from the Colchester-Sayers took service, and married in the Netherlands, and portraits of some of that family may have been preserved there; —— the picture bears also some likeness to an engraving of the Rev. Samuel Seyer, the historian of Bristol, Engd., in my possession.

It is evident that Rev. E. H. Sears did not know of Richard Sares' will recorded in Plymouth, or he would not have written that he had an eldest son Knyvet, born in 1635, died 1686.

In his will dated 10. 3 mo. 1667, Richard Sares names "my elder son Paule Sares," and in the codicil dated 3 Feb., 1676, he again mentions "my eldest son Paule Sares."

Paul made oath to the inventory, 15 Nov., 1676, before John Freeman, Assistant, who calls him "Paule Sares eldest son of Richard Sares, deceased." John Freeman lived in a neighboring town, and probably personally knew the family.

There is no allusion to Knyvet in the will, or codicil, although he is said to have been living twenty years after the former, and ten years after the latter was written, nor is there any reference to property in England.

Neither the name of Knyvet Sares, or Elizabeth Dymoke his wife, is to be found in colony, town, church or court records, nor any gravestone to either.

There is no record of administration upon their estates, nor of appointment of a guardian for their children.

The late Amos Otis, whose knowledge of Barnstable history and families was unrivalled, in his "Hist. of Barns.," gives from church records the names of three children of Elder Thomas Dimmock, the first settler of the name, but neither named Elizabeth, adding, "he may have had other children before he came to Barnstable, but it is not probable."

I believe that Richard Sares never had a son named Knyvet. The name was unknown upon the Cape until about 1845, the period of Mr. Somerby's researches; and it has never been adopted as a family name except in one instance.

Although "the family papers taken to England by Knyvet were never recovered," and the copies in Chatham were "lost or destroyed," a tablet was erected to his memory in Colchester in 1858, which states that it was "Inscribed by Catharine Harris in 1687"!

It did not, as may well be supposed, take the place of an older, and perhaps dilapidated one, nor has any original been found elsewhere to my knowledge.

An unfortunate fatality appears to have attended all the family papers. We are told in the J. Hawes letter that the originals taken to London by Knyvet Sears, were never recovered, and that the copies remaining in Chatham were lost or destroyed in 1763.

I have been informed that after the death of Mrs. Richard Sears of Chatham in 1852, the house was ransacked by persons having no right there, and many articles of value carried away, including family papers. This is partly accounted for by the fact that Mrs. Sears, like many other very old ladies, had a habit of promising articles to various persons, "when she had no further use for them," forgetting that she had already disposed of them, and there were thus several claimants for the same things. When she died some of these people, knowing her foible, and believing "possession nine points of the law," were unwilling to take their chances in the settlement of the estate, and so helped themselves.

Why any papers should be taken, I cannot imagine.

None of Richard Sears' descendants now living, ever heard of his having made any "genealogical collection," nor of his having a family Bible containing the record of the marriage of Richard Sares and Dorothy Thacher, and the birth of Knyvet Sears.

The Bible in which he kept his own family record is carefully preserved, but contains no others.

The "family papers" of Hon. David Sears of Boston, from which Rev. E. H. Sears derived the material for his account of the family, are believed to be no longer in existence. After his death in 1871, his house in Beacon Street, with much of its contents, passed to his eldest son, the late David Sears, Jr., who is understood to have found in it an extraordinary accumulation of correspondence and memoranda preserved by his father in the course of his exceptionally long life. David Sears, Jr., a popular and exemplary member of Society, did not inherit his father's tastes, and was more devoted to field-sports and yachting than to family history. Not being himself in the habit of keeping letters, and having to sell this house, he is stated to have caused masses of the above-mentioned manuscript to be destroyed after a very cursory examination. It is not unlikely that some genealogical material was included in this holocaust, and if so, whatever value it may have once possessed as evidence, is now nil.

At the same time the library of Hon. D. Sears was divided and scattered, and the old Bible containing the records of Richard Sares, which was once in Mr. Sears' possession, has not since been seen.

As he at one time expressed the intention of depositing it with some institution, it may yet be recovered, but so far, enquiries for it have been in vain.

The genealogical papers of Rev. E. H. Sears are not now to be found, and are supposed to have been given or loaned by him to some member of the Sears family, but were perhaps destroyed after using.

P. 19. "Paul Sears, b. 1637. He inherited most of his father's property. * * * He adopted the children of his bro. Knyvet after the death of their father in England, and they were brought up in his family. His will is on Old Colony records, in which his brother's children are named as his own sons. * * * The names of his sons were, Samuel, Paul and John."

Paul Sears died Feb. 20, 1707–8, in his 70th year, according to his gravestone in the old cemetery in Yarmouth, and was therefore born after Feb. 20, 1637–8. His will is recorded in Barnstable county, not in Old Colony (i. e. Plymouth,) records.

The names of his children on the Yarmouth town records have been obliterated, but the births of seven remain.

From other sources we have been enabled to learn the names of his five sons and five daughters. His last two children were his sons, Richard, born 1680, and Daniel, born 1682. In the "Sears Genealogy" these names are given in reverse order, Richard being called the youngest, and born 1684.

Their gravestones in Chatham prove the contrary, and copies of the epitaphs are given in the appropriate places.

In his will Paul Sears gives his real estate to his sons, Samuel, Paul and John, charged with payments to "their brothers," Richard and Daniel, towards their purchase of land in Monamoy.

Until positive evidence to the contrary is produced, we hold the probate records to be the highest authority, and cannot doubt that Richard and Daniel were the true sons, and not merely "adopted sons" of Paul Sears.

To sum up briefly: — There is no evidence that Richard Sares of Yarmouth was descended from the Colchester family of Sayer. It is true that John Sayer, Jr., of Col., who died in 1563, had a son Richard, but it is no less certain that the said Richard was not disinherited and exiled to Holland, nor did he marry a Knyvet; on the contrary he was his father's heir, and married first, Alice Spooner, and second, widow Ellen Lawrence, and died in Colchester, Sep., 1610, leaving a daughter, Jane, his sole heir. He was then aged "full fourscore," so born only about 1530, while according to the "Pictures," "Richard the Exile," son of John Sayer, Jr., was married, and in Holland in 1537.

John Sayer the Alderman may have had a son named Richard, but it remains to be proved, and is not claimed in the "Pictures."

There can be little doubt that George, ob. 1577; — John, ob. 1563; — and Robert, living in 1573, were his sons, and born in the order named.

Sir John Hawkins, Adm., could not have had a daughter of marriageable age in 1560, nor for years after, and John Bourchier Sayer if born in 1561, or thereabouts, was not his grandson.

The Egmont connection is alike mythical, and unsupported by proofs.

It is doubtful if Richard Sares was ever in Holland, or that he married a Thacher; and there is no evidence that he ever had a son Knyvet.

According to Probate records, Richard and Daniel Sears who settled in Chatham, were the sons of Paul Sears, and they must have been his youngest sons, so that the claim put forth by Burke in his "Visitations of Seats & Arms," that the Chatham branch is the "Head of the American Family of Sears in America," has no foundation in fact.

The claim to Ancestral Estates in England, is apparently unfounded, and all documents upon which the "English Ancestry" was based, have been destroyed.

For the benefit of future investigators, I will note the genesis of the Pedigree, etc., so far as can now be ascertained.

About the year 1845, the late Mr. H. G. Somerby was employed to collect data regarding the Sears family, and a pamphlet was issued, entitled "Notices of the Sears Family, from Sir Bernard Burke's works, and Somerby's Collections in England," etc. The manuscript of his collection is in the library of the Mass. Hist. So., Boston.

It consists of a mass of extracts from English local works, relative to the families of Sayer and Sears there, but showing not the slightest connection with the American family; and of "Extracts from parish registers, and family papers in possession of Hon. David Sears, Boston."

I do not understand Mr. Somerby's reference to "Extracts from parish registers," for as I have already said, the register of St. Peter's Ch., Colchester, does not commence until more than 100 years after the alleged exile of Richard Sayer, and that of St. Andrew's Ch., Plymouth, until after the removal of Sir John Hawkins to London; it is evident therefore that nothing pertinent to the American Ancestry could have been found in them.

Certainly Mr. Somerby in his researches found nothing to connect the English and American families, or he would have given the data, with reference to authorities, as he has done in other genealogies.

Not long before his death, in conversation with gentlemen well known in genealogical circles, he gave them clearly to understand that he did not wish to be held accountable for many of the statements in the Sears pedigree.

But this it must be borne in mind, is an ex parte statement.

Somerby did in fact furnish Sir Bernard Burke with the material for his articles on the Sears family, and the "Notices of the Sears family" was published with his approval, if not written by him, for my copy bears his autograph, "with compliments of H. G. Somerby," and he also was the agent in putting up the objectionable tablets in St. Peter's Church, Colchester. In view of these undeniable facts, I do not see how he could avoid responsibility for the errors contained therein. It was certainly disingenuous to quote Burke as authority, when the reverse was the case.

In 1852, Sir Bernard Burke published the first volume of "Visitations of Seats & Arms," which contains at page 52, of Part II, an account of the family, claiming that by right of primogeniture, the Chatham branch is the "Head of the American Sears Family." This was followed in 1863, in the 3rd series of "Vicissitudes of Families," by a sketch entitled "A Pilgrim Father."

Burke now repudiates these articles, and they are left out of later editions. In 1884, he wrote me that he received the material from Mr. Somerby, but had since made investigation, and found "that the details were not only not proven, but also incapable of proof, if not altogether wrong, and opposed to fact."

In 1857, Rev. E. H. Sears published "Pictures of the Olden Time," to which was added in a later edition for private distribution, a Genealogy of the family.

In his preface he states that he derived his facts mainly from Burke's "Visitations of Seats & Arms," and from "family papers," etc.

He doubtless simply acted as editor, and did not apparently deem it his duty to verify his authorities.

In the letter of J. Hawes, before quoted, he says he was "assisted in his collections by Mr. Colman and Richard."

This is confirmed by a manuscript in the handwriting of Hon. D. Sears of Boston, dated Feb. 10, 1845, in possession of Gen. C. W. Sears of the University of Mississippi, entitled "Memoranda of the Sears, from Minutes collected by J. Hawes and Wm. Colman to 1800, and continued by Richard Sears of Chatham to 1840," — "Copied from the original in possession of Mrs. Richard Sears of Chatham."

The manuscript contains many important errors, and varies from the records, and from the published genealogy. It was evidently written from memory.

I cannot now determine the share of either of the trio in the production of these "Minutes," but one fact will show how little Richard Sears could have had to do with them.

In this document his mother, Fear Freeman, is said to have been the daughter of John Freeman of Sandwich, and the printed genealogy makes a similar statement.

She was in fact, the daughter of Benjamin Freeman of Harwich, by his wife Temperance Dimmick, as is shown by his will recorded in Barnstable.

Richard Sears was nine years old when his grand-father died, and twenty-four when his grand-mother died. They lived in adjoining towns, and it is absurd to suppose that he did not know his grand-parents' names and residence, or that such a gross error could have escaped his notice and correction.

Mr. Colman was his bro.-in-law, and resided in Boston; his part in the matter is not evident.

Of J. Hawes I have already written; if his letter be accepted as evidence, then the story is apparently traced back to Daniel Sears who died in Chatham, in 1761, aged 49.

It appears by the records of the Probate Court in Barnstable, that on Feb. 10, 1758, "Upon inquisition of the Selectmen of Chatham, Daniel Sears was adjudged non compos, and his wife Fear Sears was appointed his guardian."

Swift's "Hist. of Old Yarmouth," pub. 1885, states that "the marriage of Richard Sears and Dorothy Thacher, and the birth of Knyvet Sears, are recorded in a Bible left by Richard Sears of Chatham, kept in the family for several generations."

A Bible answering this description was once in possession of Hon. David Sears, but has long since disappeared, and may have been deposited with some institution for safe-keeping. All that I have been able to learn in regard to it is, "it measured perhaps six inches by four, and the entries in it were in a small, fine hand."

Enquiries have been made of all the immediate descendants of Richard Sears of Chatham now living, who say "they have never seen, or before heard of such a Bible."

They would be very grateful for any information as to its present whereabouts.

In conclusion:—It is now evident that Hon. David Sears was most grievously deceived relative to the early history and genealogy of the family, and there is not one particle of evidence to show who Richard Sares' parents were, or where he was born.

There is little hope of tracing him except through the records of wills, etc., in England;—the names Sares, Sears, etc., are very common there in different counties, and that of Richard is of frequent occurrence in the early part of the seventeenth century.

It is possible there may have been ancient alliances of the Sayer, Knyvet and Hawkins families, and the family genealogist may have erred in placing "the flesh on the wrong bones."

About 1500, a family of Knyvets was settled in Stanway, a parish adjoining Colchester, and about that date one Edmund Knyvet died there, leaving his second sister, Lady Thomasine Clopton, his heir; and a family of Hawkinses was at the same period settled in Braintree, only twelve miles distant, of which one John Hawkins, a wealthy clothier, purchased estates in Colchester, and settled at Alresford Hall hard by, circa 1600.

I have already referred to the marriage of Oliver Sheres with Alice Knyvet, dau. of the sergeant-porter to Henry VIII; their descendants should be traced to the third generation.

There was more than one family of Hawkins in Plymouth, and another John Hawkins was made a freeman there, the very same year as the Admiral.

In another place I refer to the fact that Marblehead, (where we find Richard Sares resident in 1638,) was largely settled by people from the islands of Guernsey and Jersey; — the names of Sarres and Serres have been represented in Guernsey for several centuries, and are found there to-day.

There is a popular belief that the family of Sears is of Norman origin, and it is noticeable that in the eastern parishes of London, and adjacent villages, which contained many Huguenot, Flemish and Walloon emigrants, the name of Sears or Sares is common about 1600.

"Magna est veritas, et prevalebit."

FIRST GENERATION.

The parentage, place and date of birth of Richard Sares are alike unknown.

His name is first found upon the records of Plymouth Colony, in the tax-list of March 25, 1633, when he was one of forty-four, in a list of eighty-six persons, who were assessed nine shillings in corn, at six shillings per bushel.

He soon after crossed over to Marblehead, in Massachusetts Colony, and was taxed as a resident of that place, in the Salem rate-list for January 1, 1637–8, and on October 14, 1638, was granted four acres of land "where he had formerly planted." This would seem to indicate that he had then some family.

What his reasons were for removing can now only be conjectured. It has been suggested that he sympathized with Roger Williams and followed him in his removal, but this is improbable.

It may be that he wished to be near friends, former townsmen, or perhaps relatives.

Antony Thacher, who in his will he calls "brother," was then living in Marblehead, and this fact offers the best reason for his removal.

The early settlers of Marblehead were many of them from the channel islands, Guernsey and Jersey, and in these places the family of Sarres has been established for several centuries, and is still represented in Guernsey under the names of Sarres and Serres.

It may be that Richard Sares was from one of these islands, and a thorough search of the records there might produce satisfactory results, otherwise there seems to be no clue, not even the slightest indication to the place of his nativity, and only a fortunate chance may enable us to trace his ancestry.

Early in the year 1639, a party under the leadership of Antony Thacher crossed over to Cape Cod and settled upon a tract of land called by the Indians Mattakeese, to which they gave the name of Yarmouth.

With them went Richard Sares, accompanied probably by his wife and infant son, Paul. He took up a residence on Quivet Neck, between Quivet and Sesreit creeks, where in September of the same year their daughter Deborah was born, perhaps the second white child, and first girl born there; Zachary Rider being supposed to have been the first boy.

His first house was built upon the southerly side of the bluff near the sea shore, where the cellar, a mere hole for vegetables some ten feet square, was pointed out to my informant early in this century.

At a later date he built again a short distance north-west from the ancient house built by Captain John Sears, circa 1704, which is still standing, and the site of this later residence is still recognizable.

His first house was, perhaps, what was called "a palisade house;" "such houses were built by placing sills directly upon the ground, in these, two parallel rows of holes were bored, some six inches apart, for the insertion of poles, the space between being filled in with stones and clay, openings being left for a door and windows.

"The roof was thatched with the long sedge-grass found in the meadows, and as a substitute for glass in the windows, oiled paper was used.

"The chimney was built of sticks, laid up cob-house fashion, and well daubed with clay, or mortar made from shells.

"A southerly slope for the house was preferred, and the back of the chimney was then hollowed out of the hill-side, thus saving some labor in building.

"The fire-place was of stone, some eight feet wide and four feet deep, and the mantel laid so high that a tall person could walk under it by stooping a little.

"The oven was often built upon the outside of the house with the mouth opening in one corner, on the back side of the fire-place. The fire was built in the center, and on a cold winter evening a seat in the chimney-corner was a luxury unknown in modern times.

"Straw or sedge-grass served for a floor and carpet.

"Some of the palisade houses built by the early settlers were the most comfortable and durable houses built.

"That of Mr. John Crow stood for nearly two centuries, seldom needing repairs, and in fact the last owners did not know the peculiarities of its construction until it was taken down. The walls of this house were plastered inside and outside with shell mortar, and at some later period, it had been clap-boarded, thus concealing the original construction."

Tea was unknown, and china and porcelain are not found in inventories before 1660.

Forks were not in use in England when the Pilgrims left, and chairs were articles of luxury, the use of stools being almost universal.

An idea of the household furniture may be obtained from the inventories printed later on.

In early colonial times a large family was considered a great blessing in a pecuniary point of view. The boys assisted the father on the farm, and at seventeen were able to do the work of a man. The girls were also brought up to more than earn their own living. They assisted the mother, spun and wove the flax and the wool, and made their own and their brothers' garments, and in hay-time and harvest assisted with their brothers in the fields.

A man with a large and healthy family of children was then the most independent of men. From his farm and his household he obtained an abundance of the prime necessaries of life. The surplus which he sold was more than sufficient to pay the bills of the mechanic, and to buy the few articles of foreign merchandise then required.

Taxes were paid in agricultural products, at a rate fixed by law; and if land or other property was sold, unless it was expressly stipulated in the contract that payment should be made in silver money, it was a barter trade, payable in produce at "the prices current with the merchants."

Aged people were wont to remark that their ancestors estimated that every son born to them added £100 to their wealth and every daughter £50.

However heterodox this theory may now appear to parents or to political economists, it was undoubtedly true in early times.

The Searses with but few exceptions all married in early life, had large families, acquired good estates, lived comfortably and were respected and honored members of society.

The early settlers were engaged principally in agricultural pursuits, stock-raising and fishing.

Many whales were cast upon the coast, and the shore was divided in sections, under the charge of whaling squads chosen by the town.

Capt. Paul Sears and Lt. Silas Sears belonged to one of these gangs, and some of Paul's whaling gear is enumerated in his will and inventory. Capt. John Sears was also engaged in whaling.

Oil, fish and tar were exchanged with the traders visiting the coast for goods which were needed, and which they did not themselves produce.

They traded in their own vessels with the West Indies, bringing home molasses and spirits, and built vessels which they themselves manned.

The Cape seamen have always been famed for their skill and daring.

At a later date John Sears invented the method of making salt by solar evaporation, and was the pioneer in an industry that added much to the wealth of the Cape, until superseded by the salt-springs of Syracuse, etc.;—and Elkanah Sears of Dennis was the first to set out cranberries at Flax Pond in 1819.

The Cape farms produced good crops of Indian corn, rye, barley and some wheat, and all sorts of vegetables; berries were plenty, and cranberries were indigenous.

Game was plenty, and with fish abundantly supplied the table; cows and goats were kept for milk, and bees for honey.

Beer was regarded a necessity, and each family brewed at regular intervals. Spirits were consumed in considerable quantities, and the names of many of the best citizens are upon record as "licensed to draw wine," etc.

The mothers of the town were expert in the use of the loom and made most of the cloth used in their families.

In the summer they wore home-spun linen, and in winter flannel.

The sails of a vessel built at Hockanum at the close of the Revolutionary war were made of cloth woven by them.

Clocks were at first unknown, a sun-dial cut upon the sill of a southern window gave them the time of day, and it was long customary to face the house due south.

In 1745, but one clock and one watch were taxed in the town of Harwich.

The observance of the Lord's day was rigidly enforced, and no one was allowed to labor, engage in any game or recreation, or travel upon that day, under penalties proportioned to the offense.

The tithing men appointed in each town had with other duties, that of keeping order among the boys in church, and were armed with long rods, tipped at one end with a squirrel tail or rabbit's foot, for the purpose of awaking sleeping women, and at the other with brass or a deer's hoof, which they brought down with emphasis on the heads of male offenders.

The journey to and from meeting was, to many, long and tedious.

Those who had horses were wont to "ride and tie," i. e., one would ride a specified distance, and then alight and fasten the animal, and proceed on foot, leaving the coming pedestrian to mount and ride for the next stage.

The women and small children rode on pillions behind their lords and masters, but the young people of either sex were expected to make the journey on foot, and no doubt with congenial company they found the miles short enough.

In winter the only mode of keeping themselves warm in meeting was by the use of foot stoves, or a hot brick or stone.

In the intervals between morning and afternoon service, the men and boys assembled outside to discuss town affairs, the prospect of crops, or fishing; while the women over their luncheon, in the meeting-house, or at some convenient neighbors, had their gossip.

But to return to my narrative.

In 1643, the name of Richard Seeres appears in the list of "inhabitants of Yarmouth, between the ages of 16 and 60, liable to bear arms." June 3, 1652, Richard Seeres was "propounded to take up Freedom," and Richard Sares "took oath of Fidellyte at Plimouth," June 7, 1653. Richard Sares was chosen Grand Juryman, June 7, 1652, and Constable, June 6, 1660.

June 3, 1662, Richard Saeres was chosen Representative to the General Court at Plymouth.

These are some of the early spellings of the name on the records, but in his will, and in the deed to him of Sesuit, his name is written Sares, and such I assume to have been the correct form of spelling and pronunciation in those days.

Why Richard Sares did not sooner apply to be made a freeman does not appear.

To become a freeman each person was legally required to be a respectable member of some Congregational church, and none but freemen could hold office or vote for rulers. Many people avoided citizenship to escape petty offices and court duties which a freeman might not decline without suffering a fine, and the Government found it necessary to use persuasion and something like compulsion to lead desirable men to accept these duties and privileges.

It does not appear that Richard Sares was at first a member of the church in Yarmouth, and from the fact that he chose to settle upon the extreme verge of the town, near what was afterward known as the "Wing neighborhood," where Quaker meetings were sometimes held, it has been inferred that he perhaps had a leaning that way; — be this as it may, we find the name of Richard Seares as one of the Committee appointed Mar. 1, 1658, to levy church tax, and 30. 4 mo. (June) 1667, the name of Richard Sares is signed with fourteen others to a complaint against Nicholas Nickerson for slander of Rev. Thomas Thornton.

The original document is now in possession of Mr. H. C. Thacher of Boston, and a reduced fac-simile of it may be seen in Swift's "Hist. of Old Yarmouth," 1884.

The name of Richard Sares is well and plainly written, but it is not certain that it is his autograph, (and no other is known,) as it and several others may have been written by one hand, such is their resemblance, one to the other.

The document is not a legal one, and it was not unusual for parties then, as now, to allow their names to be appended by others to such papers.

His will dated 10. 3 mo. (May) 1667, and the codicil thereto, dated ten years later, viz., 3 Feb., 1676, are both signed with his mark, a by no means unusual circumstance in those days.

It will be noticed that he made his mark to his will a month previous to the date of the Thacher document, to which a full signature is affixed.

Mr. H. G. Somerby in his manuscript collections in the library of Mass. Hist. So. Boston, mentions a tradition that he held a commission in the militia, and lost his right arm by a gun-shot wound in a fight with Indians in 1650, but neither fact is recorded, nor is any such tradition known to Cape antiquarians. The mark appended to his will and codicil is apparently the letters R. S., one over the other. I infer that he had been able to write his name, but was then prevented by disability, perhaps rheumatism.

Oct. 26, 1647, he entered a complaint against Nepoytam, Sachamus, and Felix, Indians; and Oct. 2, 1650, he with sixteen others complained of Wm. Nickarson for slander, damage £100, and at same term of court we find his name with seventeen others against Mr. John Crow, Wm. Nickarson and Lieut. Wm. Palmer for trespass, damage £60.

In 1664, Richard Sares, "husbandman," purchased a tract of land at Sesuit, from Allis Bradford, widow of Gov. Wm. Bradford, for the sum of £20. A copy of the deed, and of a quit-claim from her son, Major Wm. Bradford, to Paul Sears, will be found farther on.

On 10. 3 mo. (May) 1667, he made his will, to which he added 3 Feb., 1676–7, a codicil which with the inventory are recorded in Ply. Rec., Book 3, Part 2, pp. 53–55.

Therein he mentions "wife Dorothy," "elder" and "eldest son Paule Sares," "youngest son Sylas Sares," "daughter Deborah," "son-in-law Zachery Padduck," and "Ichabod Padduck, son of Zachery Padduck," and requests "brother Thacher with his two sons as friends in trust," etc.

His inventory in the original record is footed up £169.06.06, a manifest error, the real estate alone being valued at £220, and the amount of the last item not being carried out.

Nor would the corrected sum represent his worldly condition fairly, as he had no doubt previously given to his children such portions of his property as he could conveniently spare.

In the proper places I give copies of the wills and inventories of Richard Sares and his sons, by a careful examination of which, the location of the original estates may be traced in part, and some idea be formed of the relative wealth and personal belongings of each.

It is to be regretted that no plan is now known to be in existence showing the bounds of the original estates in Yarmouth and Harwich, and recent attempts to construct such have not met with much success.

No gravestones remain to mark the burial places of Richard Sares and his wife, though they are supposed to rest in the ancient cemetery in Yarmouth, and they probably never had any inscribed stones; upright gravestones did not come in use in England until the time of Queen Elizabeth, and the early graves in Plymouth Colony were generally marked with a boulder.

Some years since a granite monument was erected in Yarmouth cemetery by the late Hon. David Sears of Boston, which is popularly supposed to mark the spot of their interment, but I am informed by aged members of the family that it was really placed over the grave of Paul Sears, his gravestone being removed for the purpose, although it is highly probable that Paul was buried by the side of his parents.

There is no stone to his (Paul's) wife Deborah, nor to his brother Silas, whose burial-place is unknown.

The stone to Paul Sears records his death in 1707–8, and it is the oldest inscribed memorial in the cemetery, although Swift in his "Hist. Old Yarmouth," accords that credit to the gravestone of Col. John Thacher, who died in 1713.

There are no reliable traditions extant of Richard Sares and his family, and our only sources of information relative to them are the public records to which I have referred.

In Plymouth Colony, the governor, deputy-governor, and magistrates and assistants, the ministers of the gospel and elders of the church, schoolmasters, commissioned officers in the militia, men of wealth, or men connected with the families of the nobility or gentry, were alone entitled to the prefix, Mr., pronounced Master, and their wives, Mrs., Mistress.

This rule was rigidly enforced in early Colonial times, and in lists of names it was almost the invariable custom to commence with those who stood highest in rank, and follow that order to the end. Our forefathers claimed, and were cheerfully accorded the title due to their birth and position, and it is unwise to claim for them any title which they did not themselves assume.

I do not find that Richard Sares was given the prefix of respect, and in the town records it is written that his wife, "Goody Sares was buried Mar. 19, 1678–9."

He was a farmer, hard-working and industrious, an affectionate husband and kind parent, a God-fearing man, and respected by his neighbors.

His descendants showed good breeding, and many of them were prominent in church and town affairs, and in the militia.

Their names may be found in the records of the Indian and French wars, the Revolutionary war, and that of 1812. Numbers served during the late Civil war, and shed their blood freely for their country.

The family has always been very religious in its tendency, in latter years leaning to the Methodist and Baptist persuasions, and rather given to isms; some of its members have been foremost in the temperance and anti-slavery movements, but it has never given rise to any prominent politicians, and while holding many local offices, not aspiring beyond the State Legislature.

Of good stature, and comely appearance, they are healthy and long-lived, enterprising and esteemed citizens wherever found.

"WORTH IS BETTER THAN WEALTH,
EXCELLENCE BRIGHTER THAN DISTINCTION."

lived together about 68 years, and by her, God blest him with a numerous offspring, especially in the third and fourth generations, having left behind him of his own posterity, 48 grand-children and 38 great grand-children, and of this latter sort no less than 30 descendants from his second son. The old gentleman, his wife, one of his sons and his wife lived for a considerable time in a house by themselves, without any other person, when their ages computed together, amounted to over 300 years. The last Will and Testament of Richard Sares, of Yarmouth, late deceased, as followeth;—

In the name of God, Amen. I, Richard Sares of Yarmouth, in the Colony of New Plymouth, in New England, do this 10th day of the third month, Anno Dom. 1667, make and ordain this my last Will and Testament, in manner and form following:—

First,—I give and surrender up my soul to God that gave it, and my body to the earth, from whence it was, in comely and decent manner to be buried, &c.; and all my lands and goods as God hath given me, I give and bequeath as followeth:

First.—I give and bequeath, and my Will is, that Silas Sares, my younger son, shall have all my land, that is, all the upland upon the neck where his house stands in which he now dwells, thus bonded and lying between the cart pathway as runs through the swamp into the said neck unto the land of Peter Werden, and so all along by the lands of the said Peter Werden unto the meadows as are betwixt the said upland and the sea, and so as it is surrounded by the meadows unto the aforesaid cartpath as runs through the swamp aforesaid, after mine and my wifes deccase.

To him, the said Sylas Sares, to him, and his heirs and assigns forever, (provided, and my will is, that whereas my son-in-law Zachery Padduck is possessed of, and now lives in an house that is his own proper right within the aforesaid tract of land, that he the said Zachery shall have and enjoy two acres of the aforesaid lands about his said house for and during the life of Deborah, his now wife; together with all ways, easements, and emoluments, to the same appertaining, without any molestation, and eviction or denial of him the said Silas, his heirs or assigns:) And my will is, and I do hereby give unto the said Silas Sares, all that tract of meadow land, as is, and lyeth between the aforesaid neck of upland, and the river, commonly called and known by the name of Sasuett harbor, river bound: also thus from the Great Pine tree as bounds the meadows between the meadows of the aforesaid Peter Werden, and my meadows, unto a knoll of upland called the Island, towards the said harbour's mouth, to the said Sylas and his heirs and assigns forever, after mine and my wifes decease.

Further,—I do give and bequeath to my son Sylas, after mine and my wifes decease, as aforesaid, one half moiety of all that my land called Robins, as is unfenced.

I mean only one half moiety, and part of the upland.

To him the said Sylas, his heirs and assigns forever.

And my Will is, and I do give and bequeath unto my elder son Paul Sares, all the rest and remain of my lands, whatsoever, and every part and parcel of them whatsoever, after mine and my wifes decease, both upland and meadow lands, which I have not in this my last Will, disposed of.

To him, the said Paul Sares, his heirs and assigns forever.

And my Will is, and I do give unto Dorethy my wife, all my lands whatsoever to be at her dispose during her natural life, and I do give unto her all my other goods and cattle whatsoever during her life, and at or before her death, to give and bequeath them amongst my children, at her pleasure, who also I do make sole executrix of this my last Will and testament: and do intreat my brother Thacher, with his two sons as friends in trust, to see this my last will performed:

Furthermore my Will is, that whereas I have bequeathed to my two sons Paul and Silas all that tract of upland called Robins, as is unfenced, by an equal proportion between them, my Will is, I say, that my son-in-law Zachery Padduck shall have two acres of the said upland before it be divided as aforesaid during his said wifes life: and after the decease of his said now wife, my will is, and I do give unto Ichabod Padduck, the said two acres of Robins, and also the aforesaid two acres of land adjoining to the house of his father, Zachery Padduck during his natural life.

In witness whereof, I have to this my last Will and Testament set my hand.

The marke of RICHARD (RS) SARES.

Anthony Frey testifieth to the former part of this Will that he saw Richard Sares sign it as his Last Will and Testament, this second day of March, 1676.

Before me, JOHN FREEMAN, Assistant.

Be it known to all to whom these presents shall come, that I, Richard Sares of Yarmouth, in the Colony of New Plymouth, as in this my will before mentioned, being now weak in body, but of perfect sense and memory, do by these presents ratify and confirm my Will, as it has been made on the other side, bearing date the 10th of the third month 1667.

And I do add hereto as followeth, that at my wifes decease my eldest son Paul Sares shall have and enjoy to his own proper use, the house which I now live in, and my bed and the bedding thereto belonging, and my clothing, and the cattle that shall be left at my wifes decease, and also my warming pan, and the earthen pott with the cover that belongs to it, and the iron pot and the table: and in witness hereof I have hereunto set my hand and seale, this third day of February Anno Dom. 1675.76.

The mark of (RS) RICHARD SARES.

I, John Thacher do testify, that myself and my brother did set our hands as Witnesses to this Will, as being his last Will and Testament, and when my Uncle signed this Appendix to the Will, he delivered the Will to me, and desired me to new draw the whole Will, and to leave out of the new draft, the legacy of land that is given to Ichabod Paddock, for saith he, I have anseized it in another way, but if I die before you have done it, then it must go as it is; and trouble took me off so that I did not redraw the will.

I having thus explained myself, do testify that this Will is the last Will and Testament of my Uncle Sares, so far as I know.

This fift of March 1676.

Mr. John Thacher attested to this Will before me,

Paul Sears took the oath of "Fidellyte" in 1657, held a commission as captain in the militia, and made claim for a horse lost in the Narragansett war, but I find no record of his services. October 30, 1667, he was one of the grand jury, in an inquest held on the child of Nicholas Nickerson. He was one of the original proprietors of lands in Harwich, between Bound and Stony brooks, known as "Wing's Purchase," as appears by deed of John Wing et als., to Paul Seers et als., dated Apr. 16, 1677, recorded at Plymouth.

The early town records of Yarmouth were destroyed by fire at the burning of the town clerk's house in 1674, and from the succeeding volume the first twenty-six pages are gone, and others mutilated and worn.

The names and dates of birth of his children have been supplied from various sources, and are believed to be correct.

I annex copies of the will and inventory of Paul Sears;—the will is signed with his mark, as is also the inventory of John Burge's estate, rendered by him, and recorded Barns. Rec. II, 1701, p. 130.

He left property valued at £467 03 03, to his "loving wife Deborah," and to his sons, "Samuel, Paul and John;" that to his sons being charged with a payment to "their brothers, Richard and Daniel, towards their purchase of lands at Manamoy;" having given to his daughters, (whose names are unfortunately omitted,) "such parts or portions as I was able or thought fitt."

In the ancient cemetery in Yarmouth lies a stone slab, removed from its place to make room for the granite monument to the Searses, which bears the following inscription, surmounted by a cherub's head and scroll work:

DEPARTED THIS LIFE FEBRUARY Y^E
20^TH 1707, in Y^E 70^TH
YEAR OF HIS AGE."

It is the oldest dated memorial in the cemetery.

His wife was doubtless laid by his side, but there is no stone to her memory.

George Willard, the father of Paul Sears' wife, was the son of Richard and Joane (Morebread) W., of Horsmonden, Kent, Eng., where he was bap. Dec., 1641; he settled at Scituate for a time, removing thence it is said to Maryland. There is some reason to believe that his wife was Dorothy Dunster, dau. of Henry D., of Baleholt, near Bury, Lanc., sister to Eliz'h D., who m. his bro. Simon Willard; and to Rev. Henry D., Pres. of Harvard College. [See Willard Mem., 1858, p. 339.]

Paul Sears was the first to adopt the present spelling Sears.

In the name of God, Amen, the Twentieth Day of February, 1707–8.

I, Paul Sears, Sen^r. of Yarmouth, in y^e County of Barnstable, in New England, being at this time ill and weak in body, but of Disposing mind and memory, Praised be God, Do make, Constitute, ordain and Declare this my Last Will and Testament, in manner and form following:

21. vii. DORRITY, b. Yar., about 1687; m. Yar., Feb. 8, 1715–16, Joseph Staples; was adm. 2d Ch. Yar., June 30, 1728; and d. Feb. 28, 1753, æ. 65, gr.-st., No. Dennis. (Joseph Staples was adm. 2d Ch. Yar., July 6, 1766; perhaps a son.)

Lieut. Silas Sears lived in that part of Yarmouth known as the East precinct, now East Dennis; was "propounded to take up Freedom," June 6, 1682; com^{d} Ensign, Oct. 28, 1681; Lieut. July 7, 1682; chosen Representative to the General Court at Plymouth, 1685–91; Selectman, 1680–94; Juryman, 1680–82.

25 Dec., 1689, "Silace Sears and others fined 20^{s} for not appearing and attending at Court, or disorderly departing therefrom;" — fines remitted later, "it being first offense of the kind."

1694, "L^{t} Silas Sears on Com. to seat men, women and others in the meeting house;" an onerous duty in those days.

1 Nov., 1676, Emott Bursell and Silas Sears appointed administrators of the Estate of James Bursell of Yarmouth.

It has been suggested that his wife may have been a daughter of the above James Bursell, but I find nothing whatever to confirm the supposition, which is based, so far as I know, simply upon his being chosen one of the administrators.

He left no will, and letters of administration were granted to his widow Anna, May 1, 1698. The "settlement" of his estate made May 5, 1698, a copy of which is annexed, mentions sons Silas, Richard, Joseph and Josiah; and daughters, Hannah, Elizabeth and Dorrity.

Rev. E. H. Sears states in the "Sears Genealogy," that Lieut. Silas Sears had a son Thomas, born Yar., 1664, who removed to Newport, R. I., and died there 1707, leaving issue.

About 1860, a gravestone was erected by Hon. David Sears in the old burying ground on Thames street, Newport, which bears the following inscription. [Copy of epitaph in N. E Hist. Reg., communicated by Hon. D. S.]

"HERE LYETH THE BODY OF
THOMAS SEARES,
SON OF L^{T}. SYLAS SEARES,
OF YARMOUTH, P. C.,
AND GRANDSON OF RICHARD
BORN IN 1664, AND DIED
AUGUST YE 16TH 1707,
AGED 43 YEARS.

"Beneath this stone the empty casket lies,
The polished jewel brightens in the skies."

P. Stevens & Sons.

This stone is surmounted by the arms of "Sears of Chatham."

The name of Thomas Sears is not found in town or church records of Yarmouth or Newport, nor in the Probate records of Barnstable county, or Newport, R. I.; and the fact that he is not mentioned in the settlement of the estate of Lieut. Silas Sears, nine years previous to his alleged death, should be considered good evidence that Silas Sears had no son of that name then living, if he ever had such.

Silas Sears, Jun., did have a son Thomas, born in 1702–3, named for his maternal grand-father, Rev. Thomas Crosby.

"His illness was short, he had scarcely ever a day's sickness; he lived nearly fifty years with his wife, but had no children."

His will dated Aug. 7, 1765, was proved Sep. 24, 1765, by his wife Elizabeth, Exec[x].; names Samuel, son of Bro. Samuel; Seth, son of Bro. Seth; Prince, son of Bro. Jonathan, deceased; Samuel Vincent, son of sister Hannah, and other near relatives.

"Elizabeth, wife of Joseph Sears, Secundus," was adm. 2d Ch., Yar., from Ch., Har., Aug. 3, 1735. Her estate was adm[d] upon by Thos. Clarke, Aug. 5, 1772, and was valued at £50 18 11.

29.* vii. JOSHUA, b. Har., May 3, 1697.

30.* viii. JUDAH, b. Har., Oct. 29, 1699.

31.* ix. JOHN, b. Har., July 18, 1701; bap. Aug. 24.

32.* x. SETH, b. Har., May 27, 1703; bap. July 18.

33.* xi. BENJAMIN, b. Har., June 16, 1706; bap. Aug. 18.

Capt. Samuel Sears was one of the earliest inhabitants of Harwich. His first house was just over the line that separates that part of Har., now West Brewster, and East Dennis, formerly a part of Yarmouth, and stood until after 1800, and was occupied by his sons.

The house of the late Capt. Constant Sears was built upon its site. He built again where Samuel Ripley Sears lived, and this house was demolished a few years since.

The will of Samuel Sears of Harwich, dated Apr. 7, 1740, was filed Mar. 6, 1741–2, by Judah and Seth Sears, Exrs., and names surviving sons, Joseph, Joshua, Judah, John, Seth and Benjamin; Jonathan, Joseph and Prince, sons of Jonathan, deceased; Samuel and Seth, sons of Samuel, deceased; and daus. Hannah Vincent and Tamsin Freeman; also grand-daus. Abigail Hall, Mercy Hawes, Ruth Sears, Desire Freeman, Mary Snow, Hannah Foster and Sarah Sears.

He was Constable in 1702; com[d] Lieut. 1706, and later Capt.; 1715, "Capt. Sears granted liberty to build a pew in the meeting-house;" 1723, "Capt. Sears pew No. 3, £40."

1722, "Provision made to refund Capt. Samuel Sears money which he paid to the soldiers the last time they went out on King's service."

His wife was admd to the Ch. in Har., June 15, 1701.

She was familiarly called "Marcy Sam," to distinguish her from Paul Sears' wife, known as "Marcy Paul."

She was the daughter of Tamsen Lumpkin, who m. 1st, Dea. Saml Mayo, who d. 1663, estate settled Apr. 26, 1664; 2d, John Sunderland, whose first wife had died Jan. 29, 1664–5.

Freeman in Hist. Cape Cod, says she was born 1665, probably an error for 1663, as John Sunderland's will mentions, "wife, daus. Mary Bangs, Sarah Freeman, and Mercy Sears," and she was doubtless the dau. of Dea. Mayo.

John Sunderland had been a parchment maker in Boston, and agent for John Scottoway before his removal to Eastham.

Feb. 9, 1651–2, Letters of Admn were granted to John Sunderland, on estate of Mary Sears of Boston, "her husband Daniel being at sea."

Who was this Daniel Sears, and was his wife Mary a connection of John Sunderland?

I find no record of adm^{n}. upon the estate of Paul Sears, and he perhaps divided his property before his death, but all early records in Reg. Deeds Barns., have been destroyed by fire.

He is buried by the side of his wife in the old family burying-ground at Bound Brook in West Brewster.

Capt. John Sears lived in the East precinct of Yarmouth, now East Dennis, and his house is still standing a short distance south-westerly from the family burying-ground at Bound Brook, and was until recently occupied by Capt. Constant Sears.

He was admitted to the 2d Ch., June 23, 1728; was a wealthy and prominent man, active in church and town affairs, and in the militia. For 15 years his name is annually found upon the precinct records as moderator, assessor and prudential committee. He was chosen Surveyor, 1711–14–18; Juror, 1712; Fence Viewer, 1720; Selectman, 1734–5; Ensign, 1722; Lieut., 1726; and Captain, 1736.

March 7, 1721–2, "Mr. John Sears" was appointed one of the committee to receive from the Treasury, the town's portion of £50,000.

In his will dated April 1, 1738, he calls himself "Yeoman," but in the Inventory is styled "Gentleman." Names wife Priscilla; sons, Elisha, John, Willard, and Nathaniel; daughters, Mary Paddock, Priscilla Howes, and Betty Sears. We note therein, an Indian Girl, at £3 10 0. Real Estate, £2380 02 01. Personal, £593.

His gravestone in the family burying-ground says he "died Apr. 9, 1739;" a manifest error for 1738, as his Inventory was filed June 12, 1738.

His wife was a grand-daughter of Dea. Samuel and Mercy (Southworth) Freeman of Eastham, and great gr.-dau. of Samuel and Apphia F., of Watertown, Mass. She was adm. to 2d Ch. from 1st Ch., Yar., Aug. 6, 1727.

RICHARD SEARS[3] [Paul[2], Richard[1]], b. Yarmouth, 1680; d. May 24, 1718, in 38 yr., gr.-st., Chatham; m. May 15, 1706, Hope Howes, dau. of Samuel H. of Yar.; (she m. 2d, John Rich of Eastham, who d. there in summer of 1747, of small-pox, leaving issue by her.) Children:

56. i. THANKFUL, b. Yar., Mar. 18, 1706–7; m. 1727, John Rich, Jr., of E.
57.* ii. PAUL, b. Chat., 1710.
58. iii. SAMUEL, b. Chat., 1712; d. Dec. 21, 1738, æ. 26 yr., gr.-st. Paul Sears rendered an account of his estate, Oct. 22, 1742.
59. iv. HANNAH, b. Chat., m. Feb. 23, 1737-8, Zoheth Smith of E., he b. Dec. 11, 1716; children, SMITH: [1.] Zoheth, b. Oct. 12, 1739. [2.] Richard, b. Mar. 18, 1741–2. [3.] Elizabeth, b. Feb. 6, 1745–6. [4.] Hannah, b. Mar. 9, 1746–7. [5.] Joshua Mayo.

Richard Sears purchased land in Manamoy, now Chatham, in 1707. 30 Mar. 1708, "the inhabitants gave Richard Sears leave to fence across the highway in two places, said Sears to make and maintain convenient gates on the highways, for those who wish to pass," etc.

He was on the grand jury, 1710; Town Treasurer, 1713; Constable, 1714–15; Selectman, 1717.

His estate was settled Sep. 19, 1723, and Daniel Sears and Hope Sears, adm[s]. discharged. "Hope Rich, formerly widow of the deceased was allowed £70 6 2, being her full part of the moveable estate, and right of dower;" Thankful Sears, £70 6 3; Hannah Sears the other third part of the personal estate; Paul, eldest son, two-thirds of the real estate, his guardian to pay to Thankful, £57 16 3, and to Hannah, £19 5 5. Samuel, youngest son, one-third of real estate, his guardian to pay Hannah, £38 10 0.

Daniel Sears of Chatham was app[d] guardian of Samuel, æ. 10; Thankful, æ. 17, and Hannah, æ. ——; and John Rich of Eastham, guardian to Paul, æ. 13.

The real estate was appraised at £500, and the personal at £280 18 11.

In the "Sears Gen'y," by Rev. E. H. Sears, Richard Sears is made the junior by two years of his brother Daniel, and born 1684. On the contrary it appears by their gravestones in Chatham old burying-ground, that Daniel was the younger; being born in 1682, and Richard in 1680.

On a half sunken gravestone in a south-easterly direction from the Sears monument, may still be read the following inscription:

"Here lyes y^e^ Body of Richard Sears, who died May y^e^ 24^th^ 1718 in y^e^ 38^th^ year of his age."

Samuel Howes of Yarmouth, in his Will, June 8, 1722, gives to his "dau. Hope Sears, 40^s^ in addition to what she has already had."

Tho^s^ Howes and Rebecca, his wife, made their marks to receipt for portion of her father's estate, June 10, 1758.

62. iii. SARAH, b. Chat., Apr. 11, 1714; d. Apr. 30, 1751; m. Aug. 1, 1734, by Rev. Mr. Lord to Joshua Atkins (who was pub^d^ in 1751, to Mary Doane); children, ATKINS: [1.] Desire, b. 63. iv. MERCY, b. Chat., July 17, 1716; d. Dec. 23, 1765; m. Stephen Ryder, who d. Jan. 18, 1766; children, RYDER: [1.] Jerusha, b. Oct 3, 1740. [2.] Mary, b. Feb. 4, 1742–3. [3.] Stephen, b. Apr. 20, 1745. [4.] Experience, b. July 23, 1747. [5.] Richard, b. Nov. 26, 1749. [6.] David, b. Mar. 31, 1752. [7.] Simeon, b. Mar. 16, 1758, and three other children. All of the ten except Simeon died in 1765–6, of small-pox, imported in a package of clothing, sent from the West Indies, and washed in the house. Another account says the disease originated in the family of Dea. Paul Crowell, a wealthy citizen who lived near Ryder's mill; in all 65 persons took the infection; the town expended £901 7 0, besides individual contributions. Mr. Ryder, his wife and ten children were stricken down with the disease at once. At that early day the science of medicine was comparatively in its infancy: but few of the doctors knew any thing practically about the malady. The two resident doctors died of the disease; finally a physician was brought from Boston to see the family, who pronounced the disease to be small-pox, of the most virulent and malignant type. The father, mother and nine children died of the foul disease. Simeon, a child of eleven years, was the only survivor, and the only heir of a large landed property. The bodies were buried on the farm, in a row of eleven mounds, where they remain to this day, an object of sad curiosity to the passer by. There were buried in this spot, in all about twenty, connected with the family. A sister of Mrs. Ryder, Rebecca Howes, died of the disease; also Nehemiah Doane, who m. Hope Sears. Simeon Ryder, the surviving child, was born in 1755; he lived and died on the place he inherited. He married 1st, Mercy Godfrey; 2d, in 1788, Patience Crowell, and had several children, of whom were Stephen and Simeon; the latter a noted shipmaster, and for many years a prominent railroad man and citizen of Alton, Ill., where he died in 1877, aged 82 years.

64. v. RICHARD, b. Chat., Apr. 26, 1718; d. 1746.

65. vi. DAVID, b. Chat., Apr. 20, 1720; d. 1746. Daniel Sears was app^{d} adm^{r} upon the estates of these two brothers, May 13, 1747. They were styled "mariners," and probably died, or were lost while on a voyage, as 12 months were allowed to elapse before taking out letters of administration. David was probably the one mentioned by Benj. Bangs of Harwich, in his diary in 1744, as having "got home from the Spaniards." They perhaps went on the Louisburg Expedition in 1745, in Col. Gorham's Reg^{t}, or as sailors, and never returned.

In the "Sears Gen'y" it is stated that "these two brothers went to England, possibly to recover the family estates, were officers in the Pretender's army, and both fell at the battle of Culloden, Apr. 16, 1746." In the "GEN. REGISTER," IX, 134, we read, "Capt. Peter Sears," of Revolutionary army, * son of Col. Sears of Chatham, killed at Culloden." There is no truth in either statement. Benj. Bangs, a merchant of Harwich, was in Boston, June 7, 1746, and on that date enters in his diary that he had "lately heard of the death of Richard and David Sears of Chatham." The news of the battle of Culloden was not received in Boston until nearly a month later, viz.: July 2, and was first published in the "Boston News Letter," for Thursday, July 3, 1746. "A letter from Belfast, April 25, gives undoubted intelligence of the entire defeat of the rebels on Culloden muire, on the 16th." Unless Mr. Bangs had a spiritual communication, he could not have heard of the brothers' death at Culloden, at the date of the entry in his diary, and I need say nothing of the improbability of two common seamen brought up in a Puritan family joining the Catholic Army, and being commissioned as officers. The Capt. Peter Sears referred to above was of Scituate, and son of Jonathan Sears of Halifax, Mass., of the line of Silas, and only distantly connected with the Chatham branch. Gen. Duvall, from whose "Minutes" the Register article is quoted, was a pension agent in Tallahassee, Fla., and would not be likely to know any thing of the family history. I have a copy of the letter which he addressed to Mr. Orin Sears of Hingham (probably the identical copy referred to in the Register article), and in which he gave the lists of Sears in Rev. army, quoted in REG., and it contains not a word about "Col. Sears of Chatham killed at Culloden."

66. vii. DEBORAH, b. Chat., Oct. 13, 1722; d. Jan. 6, 1796, æ. 74, gr.-st.; m. 1742, Joseph Atwood, son of Joseph and Bethia (Crowell) A., and gr.-son of John and Bethia (Sears) C., who d. Feb. 18, 1794, æ. 73, gr.-st.; children, ATWOOD: [1.] Bethia, b. Feb. 3, 1743–4; m. July 27, 1762, Benj. Godfrey; (who m. 2d, Sarah ——, who d. Jan. 23, 1815, æ. 75, gr.-st.) [2.] David, b. Feb. 3, 1745–6; d. June 25, 1751. [3.] Deborah, b. Sep. 3, 1748. [4.] Joseph, b. May 25, 1752; d. May 30, 1774. [5.] Sarah Sears, b. May 15, 1754; d. Apr. 3, 1828, æ. 74, unm. [6.] Salome, b. Aug. 31, 1758; m. March 8, 1783, Weal Cushman of New Bedford. [7.] Sears, b. July 25, 1761; d. Mar. 1, 1832; m. Oct. 31, 1782, Azubah Collins, and had, i. Joseph, b. Sep. 25, 1783. ii. Solomon, b. Aug. 5, 1785; m. Lucy Smith, and had Levi. iii. David, b. Aug. 29, 1787. iv. John, b. Aug. 20, 1789. v. Sears, b. Mar. 21, 1792. vi. James, b. Feb. 4, 1801. vii. Azubah C., b. Oct. 18, 1806. Of this family is Levi Atwood, town clerk of Chatham; and editor of the "Chatham Monitor."

Capt. Daniel Sears purchased land in Manamoy, now Chatham, in 1707; was Town Clerk, 1714–21, 1725; Selectman, 1719–1730; Ensign, 1722, and later Captain. 1722, "School to be kept at quarter of Ensign Daniel Sears, he to select the school master."

His will, dated "20 Jan., 1753, new stile," was proved July 27, 1756, by Daniel Sears, Exec^{r}, and mentions Daniel, Rebecca, Sarah, Mercy and Deborah. Paul Sears, James Covel and Wm. Nickerson appraised the estate Sep. 14, 1756. R. Est. £300, and personal £70 10 8.

In the "Sears Gen'y" it is stated that Daniel Sears married Sarah, dau. of J. Hawes of Yarmouth, and in a manuscript of Hon. D. Sears, referred to in the chapter on English Ancestry, see ante, she is called "dau. of Jere. Hawes."

The error has been perpetuated on the Sears monuments in Yarmouth, Chatham and Colchester.

She was the daughter of Samuel Howes of Yarmouth, gr.-dau. of Joseph Howes, and gt.-gr.-dau. of Thomas Howes.

The will of Samuel Howes, dated 1722, recorded in Barns. Prob. Rec., IV, 90, names daughters Sarah Sears, and gives her 20^{s} with what she has already had; Hope Sears and Mercy Sears (who had married respectively, Daniel and Richard Sears, brothers, and Josiah Sears, their cousin).

On the Yarmouth records the name is clearly written Sarah Howes. The first Sarah Hawes in Yarmouth, was the dau. of Dea. Joseph H., and born Apr., 1696, therefore but thirteen years of age in 1709, when Daniel Sears married. The first Jeremiah Hawes was born in 1711.

The old family mansion was taken down in 1863, having after the death of Madame Richard Sears been occupied by divers families, and allowed to become dilapidated. It was originally, perhaps, a one story, or one and a half story building with gambril roof, and added to until it occupied much ground.

In a letter from J. Hawes to Daniel Sears of Chatham, printed in the "Sears Gen'y," reference is made to its "partial destruction by fire in 1763," at which time the ever to be lamented loss of the "family papers," is said to have taken place. The old building, when taken down, bore no marks of having ever passed through the fiery ordeal; the original timbers were in place, with the bark still on, nor does "the oldest inhabitant" remember any tradition of such an event. Benjamin Bangs of Harwich, to whose diary I have before referred, makes no allusion to any fire in Chatham at that time, though chronicling more trivial events happening there.

An amusing anecdote is related in connection with the old house, and the marriage of Deborah Sears in 1741.

The ceremony was performed at home, and the guests remained for the evening, as there was to be a dance in honor of the occasion.

The "long chamber" had been cleared, and made ready, and in due time they were "tripping it on the light fantastic toe."

The bride, a buxom lass, and not sylph-like in form, enjoyed dancing immensely.

In the course of the evening her animation became excessive, and while dancing vigorously her foot broke through the floor, causing some confusion, and slight injury.

This tradition being remembered by some of the neighbors when the old house was torn down, an examination was made to see if there was any evidence of the disaster, and in confirmation of the story, they found a square of board had been let into the center of the flooring.

The gravestones of Daniel Sears and his wife may still be seen in the Chatham burying-ground, laid face down; one of them bears this inscription,

"Here lyes y^{e} body of Capt. Daniel Sears, who departed this life, August y^{e} 10, 1756, in y^{e} 74th year of his age."

Silas Sears, Yeoman, resided in the East precinct of Yarmouth, now Dennis, and was a prominent man there.

His will dated July 28, 1727, "in ill health," was proved Nov. 29, 1732, by Judah Paddock and Eleazar Sears, Exec^{rs}, and was witnessed by Peter Thacher, Joseph Hall and Edward Sturges.

It mentions "wife Elizabeth; sons Silas, Thomas, Eleazar, and James; and daus. Sarah Hamlin, Phebe Buck, and Deborah Gray." The old homestead fell to Eleazar.

He left R. Estate valued at £1200, and personal do. £299 3 7.

Richard Sears bought land in Plymouth, of Sam[l] Lucas in 1697, which he sold in 1699 to Eleazer Rogers, buying of him part of the Elder Brewster lot, which he sold in 1708 to Jon[a] Barnes.

In what year he settled in Old Lyme is not known, but Dec. 6, 1719, Joseph Southwick of that place sold land to "Richard Sears of Hingham, Suffolk co., Province of Mass[ts]." He had probably lived in Hingham, between 1708 and 1719, but his name is not found in the church or town records there.

I find no further reference to him in town or church records, of Lyme. As his sons Silas and James bought land there in 1727–8, they were probably married at that date, but their names do not appear again in the records.

I have been unable, after repeated applications, to obtain a search of Probate Records in New London, altho' offering to pay the usual fees therefor. I am told the files are in utter confusion and unindexed.

The old cemeteries in Lyme may perhaps furnish some data.

I have assumed that the Anna Sears of Old Lyme, who married Richard Smith, was the daughter of Richard Sears, as I find no other family of Sears on the records; and his mother's name was Anna, which adds to the probability, but it needs confirmation.

John Bass, in rear of Samuel B. Allen's, returning to the Cape about 1725.

The estate of Josiah Sears of Provincetown was settled in 1727, his widow Judith being app^{d} adm^{x}, Aug. 23, in that year.

The inventory amounted to £122 7 0, and dower was set off Apr. 25, 1728. The estate proved to be insolvent.

her son Selah Squires until her death, Dec. 8, 1807. She was buried in St. Paul's church-yard, in the rear of the church, a white stone marking her grave. [8.] Sears, m. a Southern lady, and settled in Charleston, S. C.

127. viii. JOHN, b. Norwalk, is mentioned in his father's will in 1754. Stephen Sayre, the American banker, and sometime sheriff of London (of the Southampton, L. I., family of Sayre), writing to Isaac Sears, Feb. 17, 1764, desires "to be remembered to bro. John."

A John Sears was married in Trinity Ch., N. Y., Oct. 24, 1780, to Sarah Halstead, who may be this John, but was more probably a son of Col. Isaac Sears, who had long been a member of that church. Some of the name are found settled in Virginia circa 1750.

128. ix. ANTHONY, b. Norwalk; is mentioned in his father's will in 1754.

Joshua Sears built and lived in the old house in West Brewster, at Bound Brook, nearly opposite the ancient Sears burying ground; and here the first seven of his children, including Isaac Sears, the famous "Liberty Boy" of the Revolutionary period, were born.

He removed to Norwalk, Ct., about the year 1734, (not 1724, as stated in "Sears Genealogy,") and was dismissed from the church in Har., to Ch. Norwalk, Mar. 28, 1736.

His estate in Har., was sold to Willard Sears of Yarmouth, and is still in possession of some of his descendants. It was occupied until 1880, by Miss Vienna Sears, and has since been renovated, and additions made thereto.

In 1732, Joshua Sears purchased of his brother-in-law, Josiah Thacher, Jr., one acre of the so-called "Home Lot," situated on Washington avenue, South Norwalk, and marked on the plan in Hall's "Norwalk" with the names of C. Raymond and W. Raymond; and in the house which he built upon this spot he lived until his death in 1752.

The house of Mrs. Charles Raymond, his great-gr.-dau., had for foundation stones those taken from the old homestead.

The Thacher house stood where the Pottery is marked on Hall's map.

Joshua Sears possessed other lands in Norwalk, which at various times he deeded to his children; amongst which was land at "Old Well," now South Norwalk, to his sons Nathaniel and Joshua.

Family tradition relates that he was an excellent man, a prominent citizen, occupying various positions in the gift of the town, a good husband and a generous father.

He was buried in Pine Island Cemetery, a blue stone marking his grave; — near by is a similar memorial to his son Nathaniel, and a nameless mound between father and son, is probably the grave of the wife and mother.

His will, dated June 11, 1754, was proved October 15, 1754, and mentions wife Mary; and children, Josiah, Mary Ketchum, Phebe Squires, Joshua, Isaac, John and Anthony; and grandsons, Nathaniel and Thacher. The estate was appraised at £1640.

In the "Sears Gen'y," his wife is erroneously stated to have been Mercy, dau. of John Thacher.

I find no record of her death, but her estate was adm. upon by her son Isaac, July 25, 1761.

Judah Sears' house at "Punkhorn," Harwich, now West

Brewster, was standing recently, a very ancient structure, now much dilapidated, and has been said to be the oldest house in Brewster. It is two stories in front, and one in the rear, and was occupied about 1863, by Capt. David Sears, No. 1812, the Swivel maker.

It is probable that the house of Capt. John Sears in Dennis, is the oldest of the Sears houses now remaining, and that of Joshua Sears in Brewster, the next; Judah Sears' being the third in point of age.

In the locality known as "Punkhorn," the manufacture of lampblack was carried on to some extent formerly, and a cart drawn by one ox, used for transporting the lampblack, was known as "the Punkhorn stage."

In the allotment of pews in the 2d Ch., Yar., Aug. 24, 1761, Mr. Judah Sears had ¼ right hand door, at £53 10 0 old tenor.

He removed to Rochester, Mass., with his family, and joined the church there in 1769, being then "near 70 years old." He was chosen Tything man in Roch., in 1764–7.

His will dated Feb. 5, 1773, was proved Sep. 2, 1776, and mentions wife Mary; sons, Alden, Nathan, Judah, David and Richard; and daus. Ann Gage, wife of Anthony Gage; Mary Hatch, wife of Jon[a] Hatch; Alice Church, wife of Charles Church, and Sarah Sears. Judah Sears was Exec[r].

Paul Sears removed to Rochester, Mass., in 1721, where he purchased land of the Winslows, which was partly in Dartmouth, the site of the old homestead being now in Acushnet. The original deed is in possession of his descendant, Nathaniel Sears of Hyannis, who has also many other old family documents, Bibles, etc.

His deed of gift giving his property to his children was dated Dec. 28, 1770, and filed Mar. 27, 1771. He was then too feeble to write his name, and died soon after.

The children's names are perhaps not placed in the order of their birth; the town records are very imperfect, but the old church records, which I have not examined, may give further data.

He was a man of large stature, and of great strength and hardihood.

In 1746, he removed to Middletown, Ct., and purchased land on the east side of the Connecticut river, in that part of the town afterward set off as Chatham.

In Col. Rec. Ct., vol. X, we find the memorial of Rebecca Sears, adm^{x}, to the Assembly, setting forth that debts exceeded personal estate by £135 16 10, and asking liberty to sell real estate.

Mar. 9, 1732, Eben^{r} Nickerson deeded to Joshua Sears, for the consideration of £532, "about 36 acres of land with the buildings, &c., eastward of Point of Rocks, Harwich, 3 Lots: First, the eastern-most originally laid out to Capt. Jon^{a} Bangs; ——. Second, to successors Mark Snow; ——. Third, the westward to Thos. Clark, bounded on Dea. Chillingsworth Foster, Nathaniel Hopkins, John Freeman, and Clark & Cole lot."

I have found no record of marriage of Theophilus, or Benjamin Sears; but think Dr. Willard Leonard Sears, b. Glastenbury, Ct., Sep. 16, 1816, derived from one of them, perhaps Benjamin, as he named his eldest son Benjamin Willard Sears.

He was well known in commercial circles, having been in the salt trade many years. He went to Pernambuco in early life, where he remained several years, and on his return started in the fish business on Cape Cod. He subsequently was located at the West, but after a short stay came back to Boston, to engage in the salt trade, which he followed until about 1872, when he retired with a competency. He was among the first of the natives of Cape Cod to cultivate with success the cranberry, which has since ranked among the prominent products of that region. His children were: i. Ella, b. Edmund Sears and wife were admitted to the church in E. Yar., May 12, 1745.

He was a sea captain during many years.

It is related of him that at the time of the "Boston Tea Party," he was unloading his vessel in the vicinity.

He went on board the vessels and participated in throwing the tea overboard.

Upon his return to the Cape soon after, though he had been long absent from home, on entering the house he went straight to the "bowfat," and without saying a word to any one, seized the teapot and caddy, and threw them into the garden with a crash.

His astonished wife whispered to the children, "your poor father has come home crazy."

He then proclaimed that from that time henceforth none of his family were to drink tea, or wear upon their persons any articles of British manufacture.

His four sons were in the Revolutionary Army, but nevertheless, when a landing was threatened on the Cape, he mounted his horse and galloped to the spot to offer his services. He set up the first chaise, and owned the first ingrain carpet in the town.

His will, dated June 20, 1796, was witnessed by John Chapman, Peter Sears and Joseph Sears; a codicil bears no date. He mentions wife Hannah; daus. Mary Sears, Eliz[h] Homer, Jane Hallet, Temperance Clark and Hannah Sears; and sons Christopher, Elkanah, Edmund and Joshua.

After his marriage, Willard Sears purchased the house belonging to Joshua Sears, in Harwich, on the opposite side of the road from the old family burying-ground at Bound Brook, which had been previously occupied by several families.

At his death it remained some time unoccupied, and was said to be bewitched. Every pane of glass in the house was broken by mischievous boys.

It was occupied by Miss Vienna Sears until her death in 1880, since which it has been repaired, and some additions made, and bids fair to stand for many years.

It was built about 1719, and is worthy of note as the birthplace of "King Sears," the "Liberty Boy."

Willard Sears was adm. to the Ch. in E. Yar., Dec. 16, 1764; a few months later he was taken sick with a fever, and died after a short illness.

His first wife, Susannah Howes, was a descendant of Elder John Chipman, John Howland, Gov. Thos. Prence, and Elder William Brewster.

The inventory of his estate taken Oct. 18, 1765, was filed Oct. 22. He is styled "Yeoman of Harwich;" the estate was valued at £425 0 10.

Nath[l] Sears of Yar., was app. guardian to Mary, Ebenezer, Reuben, Edmund and Willard; and his widow Margery, guardian to her daughter Susannah. John Sears of Yar., Adm[r].

Rev. E. H. Sears, in his Gen'y of the family, says he removed to Maine. I find nothing to confirm the statement, and his wife died in Chatham, but she may have returned.

DANIEL SEARS[4] [Daniel[3], Paul[2], Richard[1]], b. Chatham, Mass., June 1, 1712; d. Jan. 10, 1761, æ. 49, gr.-st., Chat.; m. Harwich, Oct. 31, 1745, Fear Freeman, dau. of Benjamin and Temperance (Dimmick) F., of Har.; she b. Mar. 23, 1721–2; (m. 2d, by Rev. Stephen Emery, Nov. 1, 1763, to Samuel Ballard of Boston; his 2d wife); d. Boston, 1808, æ. 86. Children:

277. i. Sarah, b. Chat., Feb. 13, 1747; m. Boston, Apr. 4, 1765, by Rev. Andrew Elliot, to William Ballard, son of above-named Samuel and —— (Pickering) B. of B.; he b. June 13, 1741; d. 278.* ii. Richard, b. Chat., Jan. 30, 1749.
279.* iii. David, b. Chat., Nov. 29, 1752, (Aug. 12.)
280. iv. Fear, b. Chat., 1754; m. William Colman of Boston; d. 1797; child, Colman: [1.] William, ("trader," Boston, 1815.)
281. v. Daniel, b. Chat., 1757; d. unm., Watertown, Mass., Nov., 1814. In 1798, he was a merchant on Sears' wharf, Purchase street, Boston, residing on Common street, probably with his mother, who lived at what is now the corner of Tremont street and Temple place. At the time of his death he kept bachelor's hall in Watertown, and had apparently given up business. His death is recorded in Boston, but not in Watertown, and his estate was adm. upon in Mid. co., by his brother David; succeeded by David, Jr., and Wm. P. Mason. He left a house and ⅛ acre of land in Dedham, appraised at $1,000, and household goods, etc., $511; was styled "Husbandman" and "Yeoman." Mary and Penelope Aspinwall kept house for him, as appears by court records.

Daniel Sears lived in Chatham, in the house built by his father, and taken down in 1863.

He was Coroner, 1751; Town Treasurer and Clerk from 1733 to 1754; Selectman, 1756, 1757; and was a Lieut. in the Militia.

It appears by the records of the Prob. Court, Barnstable, Feb. 10, 1758, "Upon inquisition of the Selectmen of Chatham, Daniel Sears was adjudged 'Non Compos,' and Fear Sears, his wife, was app^{d} his guardian." Letters of adm. were granted to his widow in 1761, and she was app. guardian to the children, viz.: Richard, David, Sarah and Fear. Inventory foots up R. Est., £689 6 8. Personal, £716 4 3. Mar. 11, 1772, ⅔ was set off to Richard, he to pay David, Daniel, Sarah Ballard and Fear Sears in money; he also had land in Dartmouth, bought by his father of Joseph Ellis, set off to him, he paying his bros. and sisters their part.

The "Sears Genealogy" says, "Fear Sears was the daughter of John Freeman of Sandwich;" but she was the daughter of Benj. F., of Harwich; as is abundantly proved by his will dated Nov. 25, 1757, and proved Apr. 4, 1758; and by the town records.

The "Freeman Genealogy" says "she m. 2d, Samuel Ballard, a wealthy merchant of Boston, who brought up her son David in his counting-house, and dying childless, left him the chief of his large property," and adds, (apparently copying some gravestone, which I have not found,) "MADAME FEAR FREEMAN SEARS, d. 1808, æ. 86, a widow Ballard."

Mr. Freeman is quite wrong in his statement.

Samuel Ballard had by his 1st wife four children, who survived him, and had numerous descendants. He died in Boston about 1793, and his will recorded there, names: wife Fear; sons William, Samuel, Ebenezer, and grand-dau. Betsy Pope. The Sears children are none of them mentioned. He gives to his wife his house near the Common, with the furniture, and his chaise, while she remains unmarried; also certain claims against persons in Barnstable county, due to her late husband.

In the Directory for 1789, he is called "hay-weigher," Common st. now Tremont st.; he lived in the third house south of Winter st., between Mr. Cole's and Mrs. Swan's houses, about half way to West st., or at the corner of Temple Place, then known as "Turnagain Lane."

Mrs. Sears, on her second marriage, took her children to Boston, but Richard soon returned to the Cape, and was brought up and received his education there.

In a letter from one J. Hawes, printed in the "Sears Genealogy," Daniel Sears is said to have possessed a manuscript history of the family, and other interesting family papers and documents now lost, a statement that needs confirmation.

299.* vi. THOMAS, b. Apr. 30, 1745.
300. vii. DESIRE, m. Timo. Foster and removed to Western N. Y.
301.* viii. JAMES, b. 1747.

302. ix. REBECCA, b. about 1750; m. Eli Crosby of So. East, N. Y., and d. Mar. 20, 1842, æ. 91, gr.-st.; he d. Nov. 22, 1827, æ. 78, gr.-st., in old Cem'y, one mile north of Milltown, N. Y.

303.* x. COMFORT, b. Mar. 20, 1751.

Oscar Weed, who lives in the old Sears homestead at Mill Plains, Ct., has a deed dated July 10, 1739, from Robt. Hebard, Jr., and Ruth, his wife, of the town and county of Windham, Ct., to James Sears, late of Yarmouth, county Barnstable, Province of Mass. Bay, of a tract of land in Windham, near the Shautucket river, containing 52 acres, the consideration being £275.

How long James Sears remained in Windham, if he lived there at all, is not known, but he probably removed to Mill Plains, then a part of Ridgefield, about 1740–45, although his name does not appear in "listable estates" of Ridgefield for 1746.

There was a James Sears, pathmaster, Kent, N. Y., (which is near by,) Apr. 7, 1747, and in 1756, of the Old Gilead Church in Carmel; but this may have been his nephew James, son of his brother Silas; or perhaps the son of Richard Sears of Old Lyme.

He was one of the organizers of the Congregational Church in Ridgebury, (the northern society of Ridgefield) in 1769.

After the death of his wife, Desire, he lived with his son Comfort, and tradition tells of his orderly habits and rigid religious observances.

When he first settled in Ridgefield wild turkeys and other game abounded.

It is related that one Sabbath morning a flock of wild turkeys alighted in his corn-field.

Taking his gun, he started to shoot them, but remembering that it was the Lord's Day, he returned, remarking, "you did not get me that time, Mr. Devil."

SETH SEARS[4] [Richard[3], Silas[2], Richard[1]], b. Plymouth, Mass., Mar. 18, 1699–1700; m. Newport, R. I., Dec. 2, 1733, Ann Jones. Perhaps dau. of Richard and Edith Higgins, of Newport, R. I.; she b. Sep. 6, 169–, and widow of —— Jonas. Child:

304.* i. GEORGE, b. Newport, 1735.

I have assumed that Seth Sears, son of Richard S., of Old Lyme, Ct., was the Seth who married Ann Jones, in Newport in 1733, as recorded in register of Trinity Church there; and that they were the parents of George Sears, whose gravestone says he was born there in 1735, but this needs confirmation.

The lineage of above-named George Sears as given in the "Sears Genealogy" is erroneous. Lieut. Silas Sears of Yarmouth, had no son Thomas, as I have shown in the proper place.

The name of Sears does not occur in Newport Probate Records till Dec. 10, 1801, when adm. was granted on the estate of George Sears; — there is no account of distribution of his property, nor mention of his children, of whom there were probably more than one.

The following names may belong to this family, viz.:

MARY SEARS m. Joseph Rider, Aug. 28, 1748. [Trin. Ch. Rec.]

MARTHA SEARS m. Isaac Chapman, Dec. 23, 1754. [Cong. Ch. Rec.]

Capt. JOHN SEARS[4] [Richard[3], Silas[2], Richard[1]], b. Plymouth, Mass., middle Nov., 1707; d. Lyme, Ct.; m. there June 13, 1734, Elizabeth Watrous, dau. of Isaac W. Children:

305.* i. JOHN, b. Lyme, Mar. 4, 1735–6.

306. ii. RICHARD, b. Lyme, July 30, 1738; bap. Aug. 6; d. ab't 1776, Horton, Kings co., Nova Scotia; as appears by a deed of gift dated Feb. 26, 1776, from his brother Seth to Judith Sears.

307. iii. ELIZABETH, b. Lyme, Oct. 9, 1741; bap. Oct. 11.

308. iv. MARY, b. Lyme, Aug. 24, 1744; bap. Sep. 30.

309. v. SETH, b. Lyme, Oct. 16, 1748; bap. Oct. 30; was in Hartford, Ct., Feb. 26, 1776, at which date he deeded to Judith Sears, certain land in Lyme, "except that which fell to me by my brother, Richard Sears, late of Horton, in Nova Scotia, lately deceased."

310. vi. CORNELIUS, b. Lyme, Nov. 11, 1755.

Capt. John Sears was a large land-owner. In 1737, Isaac Watrous deeded to John Sears and wife Elizabeth a piece of land, said Elizabeth being his daughter.

In 1760, he bought of Dr. Mather, a tract of 500 acres in Lyme. Numerous other deeds are on record.

John Sears, mariner, sold Henry J. Corwin of Newport,

R. I., a certain lot which was the estate of John Sears, Senior, and was given to his children in common, on condition that John Sears will obtain a good title, some of the heirs not being of age. Mention is made of bro. Richard, and other bros. and sisters.

In the Col. Rec., we find the memorial of Joseph Wade of Lyme, showing that he "borrowed of Capt. John Sears, late of Lyme, deceased, the sum of £800, old tenor, and to secure the payment, executed to said Sears an absolute deed of the house in which said memorialist lives, with lot adjoining, deceased to reconvey said house and lot on repayment. Deceased died before redemption."

July 22, 1802, æ. 58; will dated Apr. 4, 1802. Having no children of their own, they adopted Peter Sears, son of Roland S., of Ashfield, who was Ex[r] and heir to each. "Thankful, wife to Peter Sears, was dismissed from Ch., Dennis, to Ch., Ashfield, Dec. 16, 179—" (between 1795 and 1799). Capt. Peter Sears lived in East Yarmouth, now Dennis, and after he retired from the sea, kept store there, dealing in rum, salt, sulphur, molasses, tea, sugar, etc., "and a little more rum." He also manufactured salt. Mar. 20, 1794, he was on com. to repair the meeting-house, and to provide Mr. Stone's wood and hay. He appears to have removed to Ashfield, Mass, and probably lived with his adopted son Peter until his death.

He was a Lieut. in the Militia, and active in town and church affairs; was Constable, 1755; and Surveyor of Highways, 1765.

Rev. E. H. Sears says he removed to Windham, Ct., but I find nothing to confirm the statement, and his descendants are quite sure he never lived there. He died and was buried in North Dennis, Mass.

In 1778, he writes from Yarmouth, to his son Roland, at Ashfield, intimating that he was an old man; that his wife was living; that he had sons Zachariah and Roland, and several daughters; that his son, Zachariah, was a sea-faring man, and on a voyage to the West Indies with "Capt. Tailor of hianus;" addressed, "Mr. Roland Sears living at Ashfield, Yrs. to the Lord."

Gen. C. W. Sears of Univ., Miss., and Sol^{o}. F. Sears of Ann Arbor, Mich., have old family letters and papers from 1770.

"Roland Sears of Upton," was pub. Rochester, Mass., Nov. 11, 1738, to Mary Freeman, and soon after removed to Hardwick, Mass., where he purchased land on Moose brook, near Barre, in 1742.

He was a "bloomer," or iron forger, and his forge was probably on the site of the one long-called "Taylor's Mills."

He was chosen Selectman, 1767–71, after which he removed to Greenwich, Mass. In Hist. Hardwick, he is confused with his grand-son Roland Sears, No. 831.

His wife was dismissed from Ch. Hardwick to Ch. Greenwich, Sep. 13, 1779.

In 1776, he was rated on 1 poll, 9[s] 7[d].

333. ii. HANNAH is mentioned in her grand-father, Joseph Sears' will, in 1746, and was, perhaps, brought up in Yar.; she may be the Hannah who m. Jan. 21, 1773, William Crowell, son of Chris. and Sarah (Matthews) C.; he b. Mar. 25, 1734; children, CROWELL: [1.] William, b. Dec. 6, 1774. [2.] Molly, b. Mar. 26, 1776. [3.] Paul, b. Barnabas Sears was a "bloomer," or iron forger, and probably an associate in business with his bro. Roland.

He removed from Rochester to Hardwick before the birth of his dau. Mary in 1738, and his dau. Hannah was born there. From thence he removed to Brookfield, where he purchased one-eighth part of certain iron-works, Jan. 5, 1740, and died soon, as his inventory was rendered Oct. 28, 1741, £220.

His bro. Roland settled the estate, and appears to have adopted the dau. Mary, who was bap. Hard., Sep. 11, 1743, being styled in the record "nephew of Rolon Sears." Stephen was brought up in Yarmouth, as also was probably his sister Hannah.

Rev. E. H. Sears says there was an elder son "Barnabas, who was in the Rev'y war, was wounded and died in consequence." This is an error; it was a grand-son, No. 856, son of Stephen Sears.

339.* v. BARNABAS, b. Hardwick, Mar. 21, 1765.

Rev. E. H. Sears says Silas Sears removed to Rochester, Mass., but his name is not found in town or church records there, (prob. means No. 501.)

He was in Hardwick in 1765, and with his wife was admitted to church there, May 6, 1770; he died in the adjoining town of Greenwich in 1780; was in Capt. Joseph Hooker's Co., Col. Ruggles Woodbury's Reg^{t}, Aug. 19 to Nov. 30, 1777, 175 miles travel, wages £3 8 7; called "of Greenwich."

His will, dated Feb. 22, 1780, was filed June 6 following by wife Deborah, Exec^{x}, and mentions children in above order, which is not, perhaps, that of their births.

It is singular that so little is now known of the family of a man so prominent during a long period as was Col. Isaac Sears.

He had eleven children; his son-in-law, Paschal N. Smith, was also one of a family of eleven; and Hester Sears, his wife, it is said was the last survivor of the twenty-two.

The first seven children are, I think, correctly given, though the order, perhaps, should be changed.

Many of the records of New York and Trinity Church were destroyed by fire, and I find no will or administration recorded in the Surrogate's office.

Papers of the day speak of the daughters of "King Sears" as "beautiful and accomplished, and dispensing the hospitalities of their father's house like princesses."

John Q. Adams writes to his sister, Mrs. Wm. S. Smith, in 1785, giving an account of a dinner with Gen. Knox, Sec. of War, and mentions as among the guests, "Miss Sears," and says: "Miss Sears has been ill, and looks pale; but she is very pretty, and has the reputation of being witty and sharp. I am sure she does not look mechante."

Among the distinguished names in Mrs. John Jay's invitation lists, we find "Mr. Sears and family."

In reply to an inquiry of mine, Mr. Stevens, then editor of the "Magazine of American History," printed the following account, derived from papers in the archives of the Chamber of Commerce, N. Y.:

"Isaac Sears was one of the most prominent figures in the stirring scenes enacted in America during the latter half of the last century.

"His profession as the captain of a peaceful trader being broken up by the French war, he entered at once into privateering.

"In 1757, he took out the dogger 'Decoy,' of 6 guns, and later the sloop of war 'Catherine;' but his most daring exploits were while in charge of the sloop 'Belle Isle,' of 14 guns, owned by John Schermerhorn & Co., New York merchants, which put to sea in 1759.

"In September he fell in with a large French sloop of 24 guns and 80 men, and attacked her without hesitation.

"He was twice disabled, and forced to withdraw to refit, the third time he grappled the Frenchman, and a long contest took place, but the grapplings giving way, the Frenchman sheered off, with 9 men killed and 20 wounded. A gale springing up, separated the vessels.

"In 1761, he was shipwrecked on Sable Island, and with difficulty saved the lives of himself and crew.

"The prestige of these exploits gave him a great moral ascendancy over his fellow-citizens, and he seems to have fairly won the title of 'King,' which was given to him.

"In the resistance to the Stamp Act, and the daily struggles which took place about the Liberty Pole, Sears was always in the front ranks, and exposed himself without hesitation.

"A complete sketch of his life would make a history of this stormy period, for there is hardly an event connected with it, in which he does not appear.

"Fresneau, in his political squib against Gaines, the trimming editor of the 'New York Mercury,' gives an amusing account of him:

> 'At this time there arose, a certain 'KING SEARS,'
> Who made it his duty, to banish our fears,
> He was, without doubt, a person of merit,
> Great knowledge, some wit, and abundance of spirit,
> Could talk like a lawyer, and that without fee,
> And threaten'd perdition, to all that drank Tea.'

"He was one of the Com. of Correspondence of Fifty-one in 1774, and clung steadfastly to his old friend McDougal, in the division of that body. He was also one of the Com. of One Hundred, chosen by the citizens in 1775, and with four others, was appointed to superintend the fortifying of West Point.

"Was member of the New York Provincial Congress, and of the Assembly in 1783, and in 1776, was appointed by Gen. Charles Lee, Dep. Adj.-Gen., with rank of Lieut.-Col.

"He was known from one end of America to the other as a daring 'Son of Liberty.'

"When John Hancock passed through New York in May, 1775, he lodged with Mr. Sears at his residence, No. 1 Broadway, afterward Sir Henry Clinton's Head-quarters.

"In a letter to Dorothy Quincy, dated New York, May 17, 1775, he writes 'sat down to supper of fried oysters, and at 11 o'clock went to Capt. Sears (the King here), and lodged.'

"In the autumn of that year, Sears entered the city at noonday, with a company of Ct. Light Horse, and destroyed the Tory press of Rivington, which had made itself obnoxious to the Whigs.

"Before the war he was engaged in a small European and West India importing business, which does not appear to have been very successful, as he accepted the office of Inspector of Pot and Pearl Ashes, which he held until 1772, when he was removed upon the false charge of neglecting duty, which was made to punish him for his prominence in the public censure of the Assembly, although warmly espoused by George Clinton, Philip Schuyler and Nath. Woodhull.

"During the war he was engaged in some business in Boston, and made a partnership with his son-in-law, Paschal N. Smith, who appears at an earlier time as captain of an eastern trader. (In New York Directory for 1786, we find 'Sears & Smith, Merchants, 62 Water street.')

"This business was not successful, the firm failing in 1784–5, and Mr. Sears resumed his voyages. Feb. 4, 1786, he sailed with one of his sons for Batavia and Canton, in ship 'Hope,' Capt. James Magee (who had commanded the privateer 'Gen. Arnold,' belonging to Col. Isaac Sears and others, which was wrecked in Plymouth bay, Christmas, 1778, when most of the crew were frozen to death), in company with Mr. Samuel Shaw, First American Consul at Canton, and Capt. Thomas Randall, Vice-Consul, Canton, was taken with a fever at Batavia, from which he was recovering, when a flux set in, from which he died Oct. 28, 1786, and was buried on French Island, Canton harbor; a monument with a suitable inscription was erected over his grave. His son returned to the United States, and was living at St. Eustatius, W. I., in 1792.

"His son Isaac died at Washington, D. C., Feb., 1795.

"Capt. Sears was a member of the Corporation of Trinity Church, N. Y., and was chosen vestryman, Apr. 17, 1784, serving until Apr. 6, 1786, when he resigned and sailed for China."

Isaac Sears was at Cambridge with Washington, and at the evacuation of Boston took up his residence on Tremont street, opposite the north end of the chapel burying-ground, in the mansion of Gov. Phillips.

He purchased the Com. Loring house, now known as the "Greenough Place," at Jamaica Plain, near Boston, upon its confiscation by the State, and Drake says lived there for a time.

During his residence in Boston he engaged in fitting out privateers.

Isaac Sears was "a thorn in the flesh" of the Tories of New York and their sympathizers, and no man of the period was more vilified.

Various historians of New York have followed the example, and no epithet was too strong to apply to him by some of them.

He was no doubt a rough and uncultured seaman by education, but of sterling character and honesty.

His manners acquired on the quarter-deck, and prompt methods of action, did not at all suit the timid and wavering, any more than they did the pronounced Tories or Loyalists.

Maj. Samuel Shaw, our first American Consul to China, in his diary, which has been published, speaks in terms of praise of Col. Sears, his fellow passenger on the outward voyage. "To give his character in few words, he was an honest man, an agreeable acquaintance and a warm friend," and there is nothing like a long sea-voyage to bring out the idiosyncrasies of a man.

Many of his letters are preserved in the archives of New York and Connecticut, and they give a very good insight into his character and principles.

418.* vii. JOHN.

Alden Sears, "yeoman," of Rochester, resided for a time in Nova Scotia, and was one of the grantees of the town of Liverpool in 1761.

His wife dying, he returned to the States, living for a time in Pawtucket and Providence, engaged in boat-building and distilling.

He had been previously a seaman, and is said to have commanded a whaling vessel before he was of age.

Marrying again, he settled in Dighton, Mass., on the old Walker homestead, which, on the death of her father, fell to his wife. The old house is still standing, near 200 years old, and is a good specimen of early colonial times.

About the commencement of the Revolutionary War he resumed his voyages, and in returning from the West Indies with a cargo of molasses was captured by the British, lost his vessel and cargo, and was held prisoner several years.

An English officer, with whom he made friends, finally procured his release and supplied him with funds for his return.

His wife is said to have had full faith during all the years of his absence that he would return, although others had given him up as dead.

According to the superstitions of the times, there were many signs convincing to her that he would return.

One evening in turning her tea-cup, the peculiar position of the leaves was proof that he was then on his way home.

She rose hastily, saying: "Alden will be home to-night, and I must put the house in order, and dress and go to meet him."

Upon opening the door, she really saw him in the distance approaching the house.

They removed to Bristol, N. Y., in 1792, with others from the vicinity of Dighton. For his land he paid six cents an acre.

He was in Capt. Elijah Walker's Co., in Col. John Hathaway's Reg^{t}, and marched on "ye alarm of Aug. 2, 1780, to Tiverton, 18 miles' travel, 7 days' service, wages £1 8 0."

Capt. Elkanah Sears removed with his parents to Middletown, Ct., in 1746, and after his marriage in 1757, lived on a farm just west of Pocotapaug lake in E. Hampton.

In 1780 he was of committee appointed to provide necessities for the Continental army.

In 1794 he purchased land in Freehold, Albany co., N. Y., being part of the township sold to Benj. Spees et al., of Chatham, called "Lothania, of Maitland claim," the consideration therefor being £60.

May 9, 1778, he deeded land in E. Hampton to his son Isaac, and in 1795, another parcel to his son Willard.

"Many personal anecdotes are related of him. He was a man of large frame, tall and muscular, with a mind fitted for the body it inhabited, filled with a spirit of enterprise, and reckless of danger.

"After the War of the Revolution broke out, he equipped a vessel which he commanded himself, and which preyed on the British convoys.

"His vessel was captured by a British ship, and he, with one of his men, were made prisoners and confined on board.

"From what he heard and saw, he suspected that preparations were making for their summary execution in the morning.

"He expressed his suspicions to his man, and prepared to escape and swim ashore.

"His man thought the attempt desperate, but Sears replied: 'I would rather trust my neck in the water than the rope.'

"About midnight they eluded the sleepy guard, and let them selves down into the water, but were soon discovered, and fired upon from the ship.

"Sears reached the shore, but his man gave out. He took a boat, went out and picked him up, and both escaped in safety.

"Nothing daunted by his hair-breadth escape, he went to work immediately to fit out another vessel.

"After the war he became actively engaged in mechanical and agricultural pursuits."

He died of apoplexy on Sunday morning, Nov. 24, 1816, æ. 83. He was greatly beloved, and his funeral was largely attended,—his body was borne to the grave, on a bier carried by four of his old neighbors.

In his will he devised to his children some $15,000.

His house stood till 1848, when it was taken down.

"He enlisted in the old French war, and joined the expedition commanded by Abercrombie, against Ticonderoga and Crown Point, then in possession of the French under Montcalm.

"Abercrombie without waiting for his artillery, made a brave, but imprudent assault upon the fortress of the former place.

"The result was disastrous. His troops were mowed down in ranks before the guns of the fort.

"Sears used to describe the horrors of the carnage, and his own wonderful preservation.

"Three times we were marched up in front of those guns, and each time, the men on my right, and my left, were cut down, and I was left standing alone.

"The hardships of the campaign were great, but he survived them, and returned to Sandisfield, but died in middle life in consequence of them."

Elkanah Sears lived in the east precinct of Yarmouth, now East Dennis.

Was a soldier in Lt. Micajah Sears' Co., and marched on alarm at Dartmouth and Falmouth, Sep. 6, 1778; was on duty 3 days.

In the fall of 1819, Elkanah Sears with his son William, set out some cranberry vines at Flax pond (now called Scargo lake), in E. Dennis, and was the pioneer in the large and profitable business of cranberry raising.

Some years later Henry Hall of Dennis, having a marshy lot which produced some very fine berries, was led to follow the experiment of transplanting some of the vines to another portion of the same swamp, and the experiment proving a success, he and others continued their efforts in the same direction. But it took years of careful study, and laborious and costly experiment to ascertain the processes, soil and conditions necessary to success.

In 1888, the shipments of cranberries from Cape Cod were 80,128 barrels and 13,463 boxes.

In 1677, to appease the wrath of Charles II, who was angry with Massachusetts Colony for coining "pine-tree shillings," the General Court ordered a present to be sent him of "ten barrels of cranberries, two hogsheads of samp, and three thousand codfish," luxuries which it was thought would soften the ire of an angry monarch.

Capt. John Sears will long be remembered on Cape Cod in connection with his invention of the process of making salt by solar evaporation.

In 1776, he constructed a vat, one hundred feet long, and ten feet wide. Rafters were fixed over it, and shutters were contrived to move up and down, that the vat might be covered when it rained, and exposed to the sun in fair weather. But the works were leaky, and the first year he obtained but eight bushels of salt.

He was ridiculed by his neighbors, and his invention was styled, "Sears' Folly."

Capt. Sears persevered, the works were made tight, and the second year thirty bushels of salt were obtained.

In this and the third year the salt water was poured into the vat from buckets; a tedious and laborious operation.

In the fourth year he rigged a pump, procured from the wreck of the British man-of-war "Somerset," which had been cast away upon the Cape; it was worked by hand, which was still great labor.

In 1785, at the suggestion of Maj. Nathl. Freeman of Harwich, Capt. Sears contrived a pump to be worked by wind, thus greatly abridging the labor.

Covers to move on rollers were invented by Reuben Sears, a carpenter of Harwich; and Capt. Sears was further assisted in the improvement of the works by Capt. Wm. Crowell, Capt. Christopher Crowell and Capt. Edward Sears of Dennis.

These persons assigning to him their right and title in the invention, he applied for a patent, which he obtained in 1799.

Incidentally to this industry, the manufacture of Glauber Salts, once much used in medicine, became an important branch of the business.

Rev. Ephraim Briggs of Chatham, a skillful chemist, greatly improved the process of manufacture.

The salt business was for many years one of great value and importance to Barnstable county.

In 1832 there were in the county 1,425,000 feet of vats, producing 358,250 bushels, but in 1834 the industry was checked by the reduction of the duty.

The development of the Salt Springs in New York and elsewhere served to make the business unprofitable, and there are now (1887) few works standing and in operation.

Like many other inventive geniuses, Capt. Sears had fits of abstraction, and his neighbors gave him the nickname of "Sleepy John," which he held till the success of his invention caused it to be displaced by that of "Salt John."

He once undertook to build an Orrery, and rigged up an old cart-wheel, to the spokes of which he affixed his planets. This was hung up over the door of his shop, in which he used to fasten himself while at work on his hobbies.

One day his wife wishing to enter the shop forced the door, when the contrivance fell upon her, injuring her severely.

When asked what was the matter with her, a neighbor said: "John Sears' earth fell upon her."

He was in Lt. Micajah Sears' Co., and served 3 days from Sep. 6, 1778, on alarm at Dartmouth and Falmouth; and as Sergeant in Capt. Elisha Hedges' Co., in Col. Freeman's Regt., Sep. 13 to 18, 1778; 52 miles' travel.

Reuben Sears lived in that part of Harwich, now West Brewster.

Was chosen Surveyor of Highways, 1786.

He was a carpenter and salt-works builder, and was of great assistance to Capt. John Sears in carrying out his invention of salt-pans and covers.

He built for ——, the house in Brewster, in which he afterward lived; the thumb-latch on the front door bears the date of 1770.

He is said to have reported at Plymouth, for duty during the Revolutionary war, "walking the distance, 40 miles, in one day, carrying his gun and equipments, and a bushel of corn in a sack;" was in Capt. Benj. Berry's Co. on alarm Bedford and Falmouth, Sep. 7, 1778, 7 days' service, 112 miles' travel.

He was a staunch member of the old church, and when Rev. Mr. Simpkins promulgated his Unitarian doctrines, he demurred, and said, "if that be your doctrine, I worship here no longer," and turning to his children, bade them gather up his books and cushions, and left the church to return no more.

Late in life his daughter Abigail induced him to be baptized by immersion, and he was, with others, admitted into fellowship with the church at the water's edge; not understanding the proceeding, he did not consider himself a member at first, and soon after, not liking the doctrines of close fellowship, etc., left and went to the Methodists.

His death was sudden and unexpected.

He had been working in his garden, on an Easterly day, and in the evening, complaining of feeling unwell, he had his bed removed into the parlor. His daughter went for some hot water to warm his feet, which he said were cold; but before she returned, he was dead.

He was a very estimable man, and his brother Ebenezer was wont to say, "Reuben is a saint on earth."

Ebenezer Sears was master of a vessel in the coasting trade, and later a tanner, living in Yarmouth.

He served at various times during 7 years of the Revolutionary war; was a corporal, and one of the guard over the unfortunate Major Andre, the night previous to his execution.

In muster-roll, Mass. Archives, XXXV, 202, he is described as Ebenezer Sears of Yarmouth, age 18; 5 ft. 8 inches in height; ruddy complexion. He served from Sep. 1 to Nov. 24, 1776, in Capt. John Grannis' Co., sea-coast service, at Elizabeth Islands; also 1 mo. 10 days from June, 1776; Sep. to Dec., 1776, 3 mos. in Capt. Abijah Bangs' Co.; May 29, 1779, 3 mos. 2 days on brigantine "Active," Capt. Allen Hallet, at £2 14 0 pr. mo.; enlisted July 10, 1780, arriving at Springfield, July 19, 1780, to reinforce Northern Army, and served 6 mos. 22 days; wages £13 9 4; travel, 280 miles.

He is said to have been the first to carry the American flag to the east of the Cape of Good Hope, and hoist it in the Indian seas.

He made the voyage in the sloop "Stork," a vessel of 200 tons, with a short lower mast, and carrying a square foresail and standing royal-yard, a rig that may be frequently seen in the North Baltic seas at the present day.

Capt. Sears' sea-letter was signed by Gen. Washington.

The "Stork" sailed from a port in the North Sea, homeward bound, some years later, under Capt. Gideon Eldredge, and was never heard of after.

Willard Sears lived near the site of the ancient tide-mill at Stony Brook, Har., later Br., on land which he purchased of Major Nathl. Freeman; the land was known as Sachamus Neck, the residence of the Sachem of the Sauguatucket Indians.

The house which he erected was taken down some years since by Mr. Augustus Paine, (to whom he had sold the place,) and another built in its place.

He was an enterprising housewright, built many salt-works, and engaged also in ship-building and the manufacture of salt.

During the Revolution he was in the Militia, and on alarm at Falmouth and Bedford, Mass., 7 Sep., 1778; marched in Capt. Benj. Berry's Co., 112 miles' travel, and 7 days' service.

Previous to his death he divided his property among his children, and left no estate to be administered upon.

The births of some of his children have been incorrectly entered in Harwich town records; those given here are from the family Bible.

Willard Sears and his wife were buried in the "New Cemetery," at Brewster, the latter being the first interment there.

Richard Sears' father died when he was eleven years of age, and two years later his mother married Samuel Ballard of Boston, removed with her children to that town, and lived on the corner of Common st. and Turnagain lane, now known as Tremont st. and Temple place.

Richard soon returned to Chatham, and was brought up there, receiving a common school education, and, arriving at the age of manhood, settled upon the old homestead farm, and devoted himself to its cultivation. He spent seven years of his youth in the family and store of Gen. Joseph Otis of Revolutionary fame.

He became the largest real estate owner in Chatham; carried on his farm on an extensive and liberal scale, having a farmer to superintend, and a number of farm hands always employed; kept considerable live stock; a goodly number of cattle and sheep, which were pastured on the downs.

He kept a variety store next his house, which was on the Main street just left of the soldiers' monument; engaged in the manufacture of salt; and to some extent in shipping, in connection with his brother David of Boston.

The old house, supposed to have been built by his grandfather, Daniel Sears, was taken down in 1863, having, after the death of his widow, been occupied by various parties, and allowed to become dilapidated.

He was appointed Coroner in 1781; Session Justice for the county in 1814, and to qualify civil officers; Justice of the Peace, quorum unus, 1801; Representative, 1780, 1781, 1783, 1785, 1786, 1792, 1796, 1806, 1809, 1813, 1814; Senator, 1804, and Town Treasurer and Clerk, 1775, 1776.

Was in 1st Co. of Chatham, in 2d Regt. Militia, Revolutionary war, date and service not given.

Mr. Sears was tall, and of great dignity in manner; calm in speech and action; civil and attractive in his intercourse with his fellows.

He was a conscientious Christian man, and a strong supporter of the church.

His dress, up to a very short time before his death, was of the late Revolutionary period; he wore long hose, shoe and knee-buckles, ruffled shirts at all times, and his iron-gray hair brushed over and tied in a cue with a black ribbon.

Mrs. Sears, "Grandma," as she was called by her intimates, was, by nature, a courtly lady, capable of gracing any position, and uniting with her husband in practical religion, she was ever doing good, especially among children, aiming to instill into their minds the lesson: "Remember now thy Creator in the days of thy youth."

The "Squire," as he was called, would frequently invite his city friends to Chatham for fishing and gunning, and many distinguished men, as Webster, Otis, Quincy and others, have enjoyed the comforts and agreeable society of that hospitable roof.

The clergy ever found a home there, and always made it their stopping place when in town.

Most of the traveling, 80 or 90 years ago, from Chatham to Boston, was on horseback.

During the many years that the Squire represented the town in the Legislature, he was in the habit of riding all the way to Boston, where he remained during the session, the guest of his brother David, at his residence on Beacon street, enjoying its luxurious appointments and the cultured society to which he had access, returning to his quiet home in the spring, ready and eager to resume his country life and the duties connected with it.

The day before his death he was engaged in superintending his out-of-door business; but in the afternoon came in from a drive to the shore, complaining of a pain in the region of the heart, walked through the house to his bed-room, and lying down, never rose again; he died the next forenoon, very calmly and peacefully gliding out of existence, aged 90.

At the time of Mrs. Sears' death, a maid in the house was quite ill, and a nurse from the village was in attendance; hearing a movement during the night in Mrs. Sears' bedroom below stairs, she went down and found her sitting up and looking from the window.

In reply to the question, "Are you not feeling well, Grandma?" she said, "O, yes, only restless and wakeful. I often get up and sit at the window when the moon shines, and think."

She was persuaded to go to bed, and was soon sleeping, but breathing rather strongly; from this sleep she never awoke. She, too, gently departed this life; at 3 o'clock the next afternoon she no longer lived, and the old house was desolate then.

The family were originally buried in the family cemetery on the hill where is now the Methodist church; but after the death of Daniel Sears in 1854, their remains were removed to the Congregational cemetery.

The will of Richard Sears is dated Oct. 15, 1833, and mentions beloved wife, Mehitable Sears, and son Daniel; grandson Charles M. Briggs, and son-in-law Charles Scudder, trustees and executors; gr.-dau. Mary Prichard, widow of Gilman P.; gr.-sons George Briggs, Marshall S. Scudder and Charles W. Scudder, and "reserving forever the burying-ground as fenced for a family burying place, together with a convenient way to the same for the purpose of a burial place, and my will is that a fence be kept in good repair under the care and direction of my executors."

DAVID SEARS[5] [Dan'l[4], Dan'l[3], Paul[2], Rich.[1]], b. Chatham, Mass., Nov. 29, 1752; (another account says Aug. 12,) d. Boston, Oct. 23, 1816, æ. 64; m. Boston, June 6, 1786, Ann Winthrop, dau. of John Still and Jane (Borland) W., of New London, Ct., who died Oct. 2, 1789, æ. 33. Child:

701.* i. DAVID, b. Boston, Oct. 8, 1787.

Mr. Sears removed to Boston with his mother in 1763, and was brought up by his step-father, Samuel Ballard, who lived on Common st., now Tremont st., between Mr. Cole's and Mrs. Swan's houses, being the third house from Winter st., and corner of Turnagain lane, now Temple place.

He became one of the most successful merchants in Boston, having his counting-room on Central Wharf.

In 1775 he sailed for London in company with Daniel Greene and others, (who desired to avoid the troublous times consequent upon the outbreak of the Revolution,) traveled upon the Continent during several years, and made his business connections useful to his country.

Upon his return, he narrowly escaped capture by an English frigate.

He engaged to some extent in privateering, and in the summer of 1779 fitted out the "Mars," of 22 guns, under command of Capt. Ash.

During the Presidency of the elder Adams, he was chairman of a Com. of the Citizens of Boston for building a frigate, the "Boston," at their private expense, to be presented to the Federal government, himself subscribing $3,000.

He was in favor of Jay's treaty, and suffered considerable loss by French spoliations prior to 1800.

Mr. Sears was an able financier, and Director of the First Bank of the United States from its commencement to its termination; was often a referee in intricate cases of equity and mercantile usage, and his whole career was marked by incorruptible integrity.

That large tract of land in Maine, known as the "Waldo Patent," having been confiscated by the government, was sold; three-fourths to Gen. Knox, his wife owning the remaining fourth, and by him mortgaged to his sureties, Gen. Lincoln, and Col. Jackson, who assigned the mortgage to Israel Thorndike, David Sears and William Prescott of Boston, who foreclosed it.

The territory was originally 30 miles square, and included all the islands of Penobscot Bay, the sites of the towns of Searsmont, Prospect, Knox and Searsport.

Our institutions do not readily lend themselves to the maintenance of a great absentee proprietor, in remote parts of the country.

It was not an easy matter to secure a competent agent, and still less to deal with refractory tenants, or with that numerous class of settlers who persuade themselves that they ought to be allowed to occupy, rent free, the soil they have begun by appropriating.

It is therefore not to be wondered at that the heirs availed themselves of opportunities for selling this estate, and the only portion now remaining unalienated is the well-known Brigadier's Island.

Mr. Sears was a benevolent man, and a contributor to many charities.

He was a founder of the "Widow's Fund," in Trinity Church, in which he was a worshipper, and in which he was honored as a benefactor.

A too copious indulgence in that favorite repast of the olden time, a "Saturday salt-fish dinner," brought on serious indigestion, followed by a congestion which proved fatal.

He fell dead as he was getting into his carriage, in front of his residence, on the upper corner of Beacon and Somerset streets, Oct. 23, 1816.

Dr. John Sylvester John Gardiner, then Rector of Trinity Church, preached his funeral sermon from the text: "There is but one step between me and death," in allusion to the fact that Mr. Sears had fallen on the step of his carriage in a fit of apoplexy.

His wife, Ann Winthrop, was a dau. of John Still Winthrop, by his first wife Jane Borland, and a lineal descendant in the fifth degree of the old first Governor, and was an elder sister of Lieut.-Gov. Thomas Lindall Winthrop.

Comfort Sears, like his father, was strict in the observance of the Sabbath, and required the same of his children, though he never united with the church.

In February, 1793, his house took fire in the night, and was entirely destroyed. He turned out with only his shirt on, and got out the things; first of all a barrel of pork; in some way he injured his great toe, either by freezing or a bruise, and it was the cause of his death many years after.

He built another house on the same site, which is now occupied by James O. Weed, his grandson, and a very good house it still is.

It stands on "Joe's Hill," now called "Federal Hill," Millplain, Fairfield county, Ct.

Judge Joseph Crane, his wife's father, was descended from one of the first settlers, and owned a large tract of land in South East, N. Y., and "Joe's Hill" was named for him.

The line now runs over the range of hills, and that in South East is still called Joe's Hill, while that in Ridgefield is now called Federal Hill.

Eunice Crane was a sister of James Weed's wife Sarah, and of Darius Crane's, (of Hillsdale, Mich.) grand-father. See ante, No. 445.

795. iv. Dau.; d. at her bro's. house in Baltimore, Md., of confluent small-pox, and was buried in his lot, cor. Fayette and Green streets, with a marble gr.-st.

796.* v. (?) JOHN T.

George Sears lived in Newport, R. I., and was one of the Committee of Council on adoption of the Federal Constitution, appointed in 1784.

He died intestate, and letters of admn. were granted to his widow Abigail, Dec. 10, 1801, but I find no record of distribution of his estate.

In the old burying-ground on Thames street in Newport are grave-stones with these inscriptions, viz.:

"George Seares, Esquire, (grandson of Thomas) born 1735, and died 1801, æ. 66 years. Common Council, 1784.

"Abigail his wife, born 1737, died 1821, æ. 84 years."

"Ruth Sears, wife of Joseph Rogers, Esquire, and daughter of George Sears, born 1770, and died 1802, æ. 32 yrs."

These stones were erected at the same time as that to Thomas Seares, see ante No. 3.

I have no reason to doubt the accuracy of the dates given, and have adopted them in foregoing records; but George Sears, not Seares, was probably son of Seth, certainly not of Thomas, as the epitaph asserts, for the very good reason that there was no Thomas Sears at that time of adult age.

In the proper place, I give my reasons for including John T. Sears in this family.

The account of this family in each generation is imperfect, and needs revision.

The farm was sold in 1777 to Rev. Samuel Dennis, and he removed to the adjoining town of Greenwich, his wife being dismissed to the church there Sep. 13, 1779.

He taught school in 1772, — was on "Committee of Correspondence" in 1777, and a member of Constitutional Convention, 1779–80.

His military service during the Revolution was abundant and conspicuous. He was sergeant of the Minute Men, marched in Capt. Simon Hazeltine's Co. on the Lexington alarm, April 19, 1775, and was allowed for 150 miles travel, and 16 days service £1. 19. 11.

He returned and assisted Capt. Samuel Billings in organizing a company for the regular service, of which he was com. Lt. May 23, 1775, and was captain of a company in the camp at Dorchester Heights, Feb. 15, 1776. He was elected Major of Col. Holman's Regt., June 26, 1776, and served as Lt. Col. in the three months' service, Aug. 12 to Nov. 15, 1781, 3 mos., 10 days' service, and 140 miles travel.

In the troublous times which followed the Revolution, like many other officers and privates, he was concerned in the unlawful effort of relief, styled "Shay's Rebellion."

His offense was pardoned by the government, and he subscribed the oath of allegiance in 1787.

The children may have been born in different order.

Richard Sears was probably born in Hardwick, or in the adjoining town of Greenwich, Mass., but I do not find his name on record in either place prior to his marriage in 1771.

Richard Sears, from Ashfield, was a Corporal in Capt. Isaac Gray's Co. in Col. Jon. Brewer's Regt., 1775, which fought at Bunker's Hill; and Sergeant in Capt. Abner Pomroy's Co. in Col. Ezra Wood's Regt.; marched into N. Y. State, 160 miles travel, 7 mos., 27 days' service, wages £15 16 0.

Family tradition says he was at battle of Bunker's Hill, and his grandson, Walter S. Sears, of Adrian, Mich., possesses the powder-horn which he carried on that memorable occasion.

After the Revolution he removed to Hoosick, N. Y., and is supposed to have died there.

He was a member of Federal Lodge No. 33 of Mark Masons, at Hoosick, June 1, 1814.

His grandson, Rev. Hiram Sears of Effingham, Ill., and of the Seamen's Bethel Home, Cleveland, Ohio, earnestly requests any person having knowledge of Richard Sears or of either of his children to communicate with him.

Dike's Regt., 3 mos. to Dec. 1, 1776; marched on alarm at Falmouth, 174 miles travel; and on alarm at Falmouth and Bedford, in Capt. Benj. Berry's Co., Sep. 7, 1778, marching 112 miles, and doing 7 days' duty. His widow drew a pension in 1840, then aged 85, and living with her son Azarelah.

"In early life he went on whaling voyages, and incidents of hair-breadth escapes are related among his descendants, e. g., that once his boat was thrown so high by a whale that the men in another boat, a mile distant, could see the horizon under it."

In 1785 he was wrecked off Harwich, and barely escaped with his life. From an old and dilapidated paper preserved in the family I copy:

"The Particulars of the HARWICH TRAGEDY.

"Harwich, County of Barnstable, Apr. 8, 1785.

"On the morning of the Lord's Day last, a most melancholy . . . and Provincetown. The Particulars of this unhappy and sorrowful accident are as follows, viz.:

"A Schooner partly owned and commanded by M^r. Nathan Atwood, sailed from this harbour about six o'clock in the morning, bound to the above Place; but they had not been on their passage long before a plank started, as is imagined, and she gained water so fast, that before ten o'clock the ill-fated vessel, and unfortunate Schooner sunk down to the bottom headforemost, not leaving the least discovery of even the top of the masts, having on board M^r. NATHAN ATWOOD, and M^rs. MARY ATWOOD, his wife, and M^r. HEMAN FINNEY, her brother. A little time before she foundered, M^r. JONATHAN SEARS, and M^r. CYRENIUS FREEMAN, got a raft, which they made of some boards, and started for the shore which was at the distance of some three miles, but M^r. Freeman being very much bruised and chilled, (as these unhappy Persons were on the raft almost nine hours), expired just before he reached the shore, and M^r. Sears was almost expired when he arrived, being scarce able to extricate himself from the surf, which he happily effected by crawling, (though already much bruised and exhausted with the cold), on his hands and knees several rods, the surf breaking over his head several times, before he could get clear of it, after which he was obliged to travel in that wretched manner near a mile before he could discover any building. The first he met with was a barn, that fortunately for him, belonged to a good Samaritan, M^r. SAMUEL HOPKINS of Truro, the owner of which found him in that deplorable state, bruised and exhausted, almost to death, and had he not received immediate relief, which was afforded to him with the utmost humanity, tenderness, and compassion, he must have unavoidably perished in a few hours. Mr. JOHN CLARKE, got on another raft, but it being very windy, they parted from each other, in a short time after they set out, and Mr. Sears saw no more of him, but supposed he perished soon after. The wreck was not seen from the shore, as it was very foggy, at the time this sorrowful affair happened, or perhaps some assistance might have been given to the people. One thing we think worthy of remark, and which seems to make this truly Tragical Scene most affecting, is, the almost unparalled conjugal affection showed by Mr. ATWOOD, one of the unhappy sufferers, to his equally distressed mate, which being so rare an instance of magnanimity, fortitude and a cheerful resignation to the divine will of the ALMIGHTY, that we cannot omit to record it on this Sheet, as we think his conduct an honour to human nature, and ought to be handed down to Posterity, as it will serve to show that there is yet remaining in this Western Hemisphere, some private virtue, founded in a regard to the Fair Sex; as we find many instances transmitted to us in the History of the Oriental World.

"Mr. Atwood on perceiving the vessel sinking, jumped on to one of the rafts, that was prepared alongside of her, but on hearing the bitter shrieks and piercing cries of his dear Comfort, the Friend of his bosom, and the other poor drowning souls, which seemed to reach to Heaven, and who were on the verge of eternity, and begging for mercy from GOD, he, like some of the ancient BRAMIST women, when showing their affection for their departing Husbands, heroickly jumped back again into the sinking vessel, chusing rather to perish with her who had been the Partner of his joy, and affliction, than to have the anxiety and horror of mind in beholding so shocking and afflicting a Scene, and not having it in his power to alleviate her distress."

A doleful poem follows, which is not remarkable except for its antiquity, and is addressed especially to the Atwood family. "Sold at the office in Essex Street, near the Liberty Pole, 1785; where may be found Nos. I. II. III. of the 'Bloody Register;' Cash paid for Linen Rags."

He was one of the Loyalists of the Revolutionary period, and as such suffered persecution and exile.

He lost heavily in the burning of Norwalk, and his estate there, appraised at £166 13 4 was confiscated by the State, and fell into the hands of the Church family. (His mother m. 2d, Ebenezer Church of Norwalk.)

He was forced to leave the place, and sought refuge with the British army in New York, removed to St. John, N. B., in 1783, and cut the bush at the foot of King st. for the first settlement of that city, and his daughter Ann, was the first white child born there.

He engaged in business as a furrier and hatter at 397 King street, and his estate there is still in possession of his descendants.

He was afterward settled in Dracut, Mass., and in New Scotland, Albany co., N. Y. and died in Prophetsville, Ill., 1846.

He was a Presbyterian clergyman, and one of the most conscientious and devoted persons in existence.

His whole life was made up of untiring effort for the good of men.

He was one of the first to advocate total abstinence.

In one of his early sermons on the evils of intemperance, he depicts the sad condition from this cause existing among the clergy and elders, also the members of the church, and tells them of the ruin and disgrace they are bringing upon themselves and the church: — and here the very first idea of the possibility of total abstinence seems to have entered his mind, as he exclaims: "Brethren, these things ought not to be; far better than such a state of things should exist, would it be for all to even totally abstain from the use of all intoxicating beverages."

As an anti-slavery man he was "a thorn in the flesh" of the Presbytery and Synod to which he belonged, by his persistent introduction of resolutions denouncing the institution of slavery as "wrong in principle and opposed to true godliness."

He died in the firm conviction that God would order it otherwise in His own good time.

Family tradition says Silas Sears served during the whole of the Revolutionary war, and that he was one of the first chosen by Lafayette to go into his corps.

Silas Sears, called "of Scituate," was in Capt. Nath'l Winslow's Co., in Col. Whitney's Regt., from June to Nov., 1776, and was allowed for 77 miles' travel; — he, then of Rochester; was in Capt. Edw'd Hammond's Co., in Col. Sam'l Fisher's Regt., Aug. 15, to Sep. 13, 1779, 80 miles' travel, wages and subsistence, £2 12 0; served in Continental service with six-months' men, from July 6 to Dec. 8, 1780; arriving in Springfield for service in Northern army, July 8, 1780; was allowed for 5 mos., 14 days' service and 240 miles' travel, £12 2 10; description: Silas Sears from Rochester, aged 17, 5 ft. 10 inches height, dark complexion.

He afterward removed to Vermont, and settled on a farm near River Lamoille.

He is said to have married against his father's wishes, which occasioned a breach in the family relations.

In 1813 he started for Boston on horseback, but was overtaken by a messenger on the third day from home, and informed of the sudden and severe sickness of his family.

He at once retraced his steps, but when he reached home his wife and daughter Betsy were dead and Sally dying of spotted fever.

He lived opposite his parents, and his house was a regular stopping place for the ministers who traveled from place to place preaching, and many a time was crowded by those who came to meeting.

In early life he followed the sea, and became a shipmaster; after retiring he was a farmer and salt manufacturer.

Charles Sears was a very genial and pleasant man, and although deputy sheriff of the county, never made an enemy.

His method when he had an unpleasant duty to perform was to do it in a friendly way, often himself giving bonds for an unfortunate debtor, and encouraging and assisting him to discharge his obligations.

He kept the "Sears Hotel" at Yarmouthport many years; was mail contractor, stage proprietor, etc.

He was a large, portly man, of fine appearance, and courteous in manner to all.

JOSHUA SEARS[6] [Eben'r[5], Will'd[4], John[3], Paul[2], Rich.[1]], b. Yarmouth, Mass., Aug. 20, 1791; d. Feb. 7, 1857; m. Boston, Feb., 1854, Phebe C. Snow, dau. of Dea. Robert S. of Brewster, who d. Jan. 1, 1855. Child:

1433.* i. JOSHUA MONTGOMERY, b. Dec. 25, 1854.

Mr. Sears was long known as an industrious and successful merchant, capitalist and ship-owner.

He removed from Yarmouth to Boston in 1808, and soon engaged in business on Long Wharf, continuing in the same store till the close of his life, and accumulated a large property.

He was just in his dealings, painstaking, frugal, temperate, assiduous and far-seeing.

He was an original thinker, a great reader, with a tenacious memory, enabling him to repeat much that he had read, even whole pages of the Iliad, (Pope's translation).

Articles of noticeable ability were often written by him for the papers, and he would doubtless have stood high in any profession he might have chosen.

His married life was brief, but happy.

"Man proposes but God disposes," was the exclamation with which he bowed to the severity of bereavement.

Carrying his infant in his arms to the baptismal font, he seemed ever after especially solicitous that the education of the child should be religious, and when himself about to depart, his interest in this was deeply marked in the charge to his son's guardians.

Mr. Sears left legacies to numerous relatives, to the Seaman's Friend Society, and for a nautical school at Yarmouth.

The balance of his large property was left in trust for his son, Joshua M. Sears.

THOMAS WARREN SEARS[6] [Eben'r[5], Will'd[4], John[3], Paul[2], Rich.[1]], b. Yarmouth, Mass., May 10, 1812; d. Boston, Aug. 1, 1843, æ. 31; m. Boston, July 14, 1835, Eliza Alger, dau. of Cyrus A. of So. Boston (who. m. 2d, Holmes Hinckley.) Children:

1443.* iii. CYRUS ALGER, b. Boston, June 20, 1841.

Mr. Sears removed to Boston, and engaged in business as a merchandise broker and auctioneer, making a specialty of groceries and fruit, selling from the wharf and vessel.

He was one of the prominent citizens of South Boston, (at that time a beautiful and favorite portion of the city,) but died in the prime of manhood.

For years he had been marked with the seal of consumption, and no one knew it better than he, but he fought it, inch by inch, to the very last.

His last sale was in 1843, when the old brig "Pleiades," belonging to the Peabodys, just returned from a pepper voyage, was advertised by T. W. Sears & Co., at the head of India wharf.

The friends of Sears endeavored to persuade him not to attempt the sale in person, but he did, and his voice could hardly be heard as he leaned against the bulwarks, and told off the bids.

Though dying at the age of thirty-one, Mr. Sears had established the reputation of possessing abilities of the highest order in his profession, and gave promise of a very brilliant future.

Many are the stories that are told of his sense of humor, and his quick repartee, but he had finer traits of character, which formed a strong background and support to his external accomplishments.

At heart he was deeply religious and devotional, as may be seen in several prayers which he wrote, and which were printed in the "Christian World."

But the quality that most endeared him to his friends was his sensitive sympathy for others.

Generous from his sense of human brotherhood, he was also just from a sense of duty, and in winning men's love, he failed not to win their respect.

May 29, 1822; is of firm Gilman Bros., wholesale druggists, Boston; he lived many years in Sandwich Islands, and in 1887, received the order of Kapiolani from King Kalakaua, in recognition of services to the Queen, and was the next year advanced a grade; has served several terms in Common Council and as Alderman in Newton, and Rep. to Leg., 1889 and 1890; child, GILMAN: [1.] Ethel Sears, b. Feb. 3, 1878.

1452. ix. WILLIAM ALBERT, b. Boston, Feb. 10, 1845; drowned Worcester, Mass., Aug. 25, 1847.

Mr. Sears served in the militia at Yarmouth, during the war of 1812, acting as drill-master.

At the close of the war he removed to Boston, and learned the trade of carpenter under an Englishman named Hill, working for him three years upon the elegant mansion corner of Somerset and Beacon streets, built by David Hinckley, afterward occupied by the Somerset Club, and later by the Congregational House, and became an unusually careful and thorough workman.

He afterward worked at organ building, and assisted in putting up the organs in the old South Church, Boston, and Trinity Church, New York.

In 1822 he married Eliza F. Crease, whose father, a furrier, owned and lived on the estate cor. Washington street and Norfolk place, where R. H. White & Co.'s store now stands.

For several years he was associated in business with his bro. Willard as builders and contractors, during which time they laid out and fenced Mt. Auburn Cemetery, and erected the original buildings and gateways connected with it.

He was dignified and commanding in appearance, hasty in temper naturally, he kept it entirely under control, but was quick to resent an indignity.

Thoroughly conservative, he did not agree with his brother in many of his radical theories, but was through life a temperate man.

Willard Sears received an ordinary "district school" education in his native town of Brewster, and grew up pretty much like other Cape Cod boys, working on the farm, helping at the salt-works, and at his father's trade of carpenter, and early learning the lesson of self-reliance. At the age of 9, wishing to visit his brother who was learning a trade in Boston, he embarked on board the packet, and worked his passage by cooking for the crew, viz., captain and mate.

Mar. 26, 1822, he left the old homestead, and became an apprentice with Mr. Wm. Goodrich, an organ-builder on Harlem place, Boston, next the "Lion Theatre," who failed in the course of a year. Young Sears then worked for a few months on looking-glass frames, and later on gas-meters in the shop corner of Washington and Bromfield streets; there was on the premises a steam-engine, the first in Boston, which blew up one fine day, and scared the neighbors out of their wits, and in consequence the owner was forbidden to use it again.

This failed the man, a good Baptist, and the first Christian whose acquaintance Mr. Sears made in Boston; however, he recovered, and went on with his business. Mr. S. then left, and went to work for his brother in putting up the organ in the Old South Church; it was made in London, and as the builders in this country were opposed to its importation, they refused to put it up. A Mr. Cory was, therefore, engaged to come over and erect it, and keep it in tune for a year; he remained and went into business here.

During the winter of 1824, Mr. C. and Eben Sears went to New York to set up the Trinity Church organ. Christmas eve the boss invited all hands to his house to celebrate; they drank and sung until pretty drunk, and at 10 P. M. the brothers Sears went home, leaving the rest to make a night of it.

Upon his departure for New York, his employer left with Willard checks to make weekly payments to the men, and with which to buy stock. The rest of the men were foreigners, and kept up their carouse for three weeks until delirium tremens set in. Their poor wives came to Mr. Sears for money with which to buy food, which he gave them, without authority, and was much perplexed what to do. He then made a vow that he would never take alcoholic drinks, and this resolution he has adhered to, except in two instances; first, when urged by his pastor in Brewster while calling on him; and second, when about to join Essex St. Ch., Boston, he called upon the Deacon, an Englishman by birth, who would take no refusal.

In 1826, while building a block of brick houses on Haymarket place, he wished to break up the custom of furnishing grog to the men at 11 and 4 each day. About July 3 the ridge-pole was to be raised, and the usage then was that the men were at liberty to drink as often and as much as they pleased. The day was hot, and the men drank all the more; the staging was insecurely built and broke down, and some of the men had broken bones as well as bruises. Mr. Sears' brother had his collar-bone broken, and received other injuries which confined him to the house several weeks.

During his illness Willard offered the men ten cents more per day to give up their rations, and about one-half agreed to do so. In three days he had a full gang of young, smart and good men at work, and the next month's pay, for an equal amount of work, was one-third less than in grog-days. Seeing this result, the brothers never after furnished any liquor or drank any themselves.

The same year that the municipal government was established, Mr. Sears came to Boston, and soon became prominent in a series of events which resulted in a complete revolutionizing of the city fire department. He was at that time a member of the "Young Men's Moral Association," devoted to exposing and breaking up gambling, dance-houses, etc. As a Mayor's detective, young Sears discovered the weakness of the department, and its remarkable strength also.

There was a body of 1,500 young, smart, athletic men, organized in such a way as to be scarcely at all under the control of the city government. The city furnished the engines, and kept them in repair, and then the companies did about as they pleased, except when at fires, they were nominally under the control of the fire wardens, and even this was more by sufferance than discipline.

The volunteers worked well at a fire, and were prompt in getting there. Cash presents, gifts of liquors and eatables, were freely donated to the firemen by grateful persons whose property had been in danger; then followed the inevitable carousal, which did not cease so long as the materials lasted. The firemen represented every social degree, each having its own company, and none had more elegant, luxurious and prolonged carousals than the swell company of Beacon Hill.

Needless to say, fires were frequent.

One Sunday morning in 1828, Mr. Sears entered an engine-house. The members of that company were not graded low in the social scale, but were all the sons of reputable parents.

It was the morning after a fire, and sitting round, in a dazed condition, were half a dozen members, just recovering from their debauch, while more than 20 young men lay helplessly drunk on the floor, and among them several women, also stupefied. Such was the condition of things when Mr. Sears joined the Boston fire department.

His principles having become known, he was refused admission to the existing organizations, but procured leave to form a company, and became the Captain of it. No. 8, as it was called, was the entering wedge that finally split, and broke up the existing system.

Mr. Sears organized with young men pledged to reform.

On the wall of the engine-house hung the roll of membership, at the top of which were these words: "No drinking of liquor," "No using of tobacco," "No profanity while on duty." Each pledge had its vertical column, and list of members underneath. Every name must be in the first column, and most of them were in all.

In consequence of this innovation all the old companies were down on No. 8, and it was annoyed in all possible ways, and systematically obstructed whenever it started for a fire, and the bitterness was not softened by the fact that No. 8 was the most efficient company in Boston.

Capt. Sears resolved to bring things to a head, and on the next alarm of fire, No. 12 purposely obstructing his path, he gave his men orders to pass them at all hazards,— and as the result, No. 12 was a wreck. He was arraigned before the Mayor, who was very wroth, and threatened to disband the company. In reply, Mr. S. referred to the ordinance: "You will proceed at once to the fire, and break down all obstructions."

"There, Mr. Mayor, is the law, and we only obeyed it, and now I will resign; I have had trouble and annoyance enough, and will have nothing more to do with it."

At the Mayor's request he finally consented to continue in the department, but the annoyances did not cease, the city government would not repair the engine, and the work was done at his own expense. He finally disbanded the company.

For a few years thereafter the fire department went from bad to worse, until it came to a crisis brought on by the efforts of the municipal government to bring about a reform, and all the companies disbanded, leaving the city without a single company to protect property in case of fire.

At this juncture Mr. Sears was called upon by the presidents of the insurance companies, and requested to take charge of a company they had organized, composed of leading men of Boston, such as Capt. Williams, Dr. Hayward, Hon. Mr. Wheeler, Dea. Charles Scudder, and other gentlemen from Beacon street and Colonnade Row.

After some demur he finally consented, but at the first trial satisfactorily convinced them that they were not the right material for such dirty and laborious work, and that the only true, and the cheapest system for the insurance companies and property holders was a paid fire department, and this, too, out of regard for the morals of the youth of the city.

A committee was thereupon raised to wait upon the Mayor and Aldermen, and state their views upon the subject, and as a result the city established the paid fireman's system in 1838, the first in the United States.

About the year 1837, Rev. Sylvester Graham lectured in Boston, on Temperance, Physiology and Hygiene, advocating a vegetable diet, and the use of unbolted flour, now so popular under the name of "Graham flour."

The bakers and rummies became much incensed, mobbed him, and drove the ladies, to whom he was lecturing, into the street.

The ladies then applied to Mr. Sears for the use of the hall attached to the Marlboro Hotel, owned by him, and a day being set for the lecture, notice was printed in three papers that Graham would be mobbed.

The Mayor sent the City Marshal to Mr. Sears, ordering him forthwith to appear at the City Hall. Mr. S. was at the time employed with his men in pulling down some old plastering in the hotel, and was covered with mortar and dirt. He told the Marshal he was busy, had violated no law, and would not go. The Marshal then left, but shortly returned with a carriage, and the Mayor's compliments, requesting the favor of an interview, to which Mr. S. then consented.

An account of the interview may be found in the "Liberator" of March 24, 1837, under the head of "Mob Law."

The result was that the Mayor told him the building would be mobbed, and he could not protect him with the force at his disposal, and if he persisted in letting it be used by Graham he must take the consequences. Mr. S., seeing that little was to be expected from the city officials, decided to protect his property himself at all hazards.

He directed his workmen to place the old plaster in heaps by the windows, together with a quantity of lime, and await orders which he would transmit through his clerk. After parleying some time with the mob which assembled outside the barricade that had been erected to protect passers-by during the alterations, and finding they were bent on mischief and could no longer be delayed, he retired through a small door and gave a preconcerted signal. At once the workmen commenced shoveling out the lime and mortar from the upper windows. The mob, looking up to see what was to pay, in a moment had their eyes and mouths filled with the pungent dust, there was a strong wind blowing, and the street was presently filled with a cloud of lime. Flesh and blood could not stand this; the mob broke and retired, and Mr. Sears had won a bloodless victory.

The papers discussed the matter thoroughly, and the public finally decided for the right of free speech.

In a few weeks the Mayor called upon Mr. Sears and said: "If you will stop Garrison from writing any more about me, when you dedicate your chapel, I will protect you and your property, if I have to call in the State and navy soldiers, with all the police.— Sir, I was wrong, but do stop Garrison; he is ruining my character, and bringing me to disgrace."

At the dedication of Marlboro Chapel, he, without solicitation, put 30 police inside, 40 outside, and held the military in reserve.

Of course, Mr. Sears was one of the earliest abolitionists and free-soilers.

In 1834, Geo. Thompson, an English emancipationist, on his return from the W. I., came to Boston to deliver a lecture.

The use of "Faneuil Hall" was granted, but permission revoked by the city authorities. Mr. Sears and Amasa Walker then hired "Julien Hall" for the purpose, giving their bond for $17,000 to pay any damage that might be done by a mob. This also was revoked, and the only place that could be procured was "Ritchie Hall," over Dea. Gulliver's carpet store, corner of Temple place. The entrance was soon surrounded by an armed mob of Southerners and their sympathizers, and Thompson was finally taken out through a hoisting scuttle in the rear, placed in a carriage with J. S. Withington, and driven to the house of J. G. Whittier in Amesbury. He did not dare to return, but embarked shortly for England. During the disturbance Mr. Sears was on guard at the door; was struck several times, but not materially injured, and held the fort until Thompson had retired.

In 1836 Mr. Sears and Dea. Charles Scudder fitted out the first missionary to Jamaica (an Oberlin student), and established the first station there.

He was the first to take a colored apprentice, later procuring for him a commission as Justice of the Peace, guaranteeing his good conduct.

He was intimately connected with the "Underground Railway," and aided many fugitives on their way to Canada and freedom.

The "Marlboro Hotel" was opened by him as a temperance house, the first in this country. No liquor was to be sold in it, and at first no smoking was allowed, but this latter was conceded later.

The ladies and gentlemen's parlors were thrown open morning and evening for religious services. Grace was said before every meal, and for twenty-six years the observance of the services was continuous and uninterrupted. The chapel in the rear was a free hall for lectures and discussions on all moral and social questions. It was opened in May, 1838, and was run as a free hall and chapel for fourteen years. It was afterward let for the "Lowell Institute" Lectures. The house was patronized by a class of quiet, religious people who wanted such a stopping-place when they came to the city. John G. Whittier, Mr. Longfellow and Henry Wilson were frequent guests.

During a long life, Mr. Sears has contracted for and built innumerable edifices, both public and private, among them the Fitchburg Depot, Boston, and all stations and freight-houses to Fitchburg; eastern railway stations and old ferry-houses; Boston & Worcester Depot in Boston, and stations and freight-houses to Worcester; Old Colony Depot and stations to Sandwich; and much other railroad work in the east and west; some thirty churches, among them, the Swedenborgian, Dr. Kirk's, and Essex St., Boston; Catholic Ch., So. Boston; Cong. Ch., Bunker's Hill, Charlestown; Dr. Thompson's, Roxbury; Dr. Langworthy's, Chelsea; West Newton and Brookline churches, etc.; built and owned Marlboro Hotel and Chapel, and reconstructed the State's Prison at Charlestown.

He was one of the petitioners and obtained the charter for the Female Medical College, Boston, and a Trustee; put up the first sixty buildings in San Francisco, but lost by fire and shipwreck $250,000, being uninsured. He owned the ship "Roland" and cargo, and the cargo in bark "Henry Ware," both of which were lost upon the voyage.

Mr. S. obtained the charter, and called the first meeting to organize the Northern Pacific R. R., and was in the board of direction for five years.

For some years he has done little business beyond supervising the Alburgh Springs Hotel, Vermont, and the Mineral Springs connected therewith, which he purchased after having himself experienced their marvelous curative powers.

Mr. Sears is as we have seen by nature a radical reformer, a teetotaller, and anti-tobacconist, abolitionist and free-soiler; for a time a vegetarian, but this did not hold; he early took the anti-mason infection, and has never got over it.

He is a strict Sabbatarian, and a perfect type of the old Puritan; of downright and combative disposition, had he lived in Cromwell's time, he would doubtless have fought at his side.

Charitable by nature, his benefactions have been large and constant. Oberlin College long found in him a liberal patron, and it is estimated he gave in all $100,000 to that institution; as a trustee, he took the place of Ossawattomie Brown, and served many years. Many other religious, educational and charitable institutions have partaken of his bounty.

The poor and oppressed have ever found his heart and purse open, and many a fugitive from oppression has had cause to bless him.

Of a large and muscular mould, Mr. Sears has possessed great strength and endurance; dark in complexion, his jet black hair has only lately become an iron-gray; quick spoken, and decided in manner, he has had great success in managing large gangs of men.

Soon after his marriage he went to reside in Brookline, removing thence to West Newton, and later to the banks of the winding Charles at Watertown.

His pleasant estate there being absorbed by the government as a portion of the arsenal grounds, he removed to Newtonville, and now, (1887,) in his old age, resides in Newton with his wife and his only surviving sister, a wonderfully smart and active maiden lady of 88.

"Mr. Sears was educated in the best schools that Boston at that time afforded, and after a preparatory course of study in the Latin School, entered Harvard College in 1803, at the age of 16, taking his Bachelor's degree in 1807.

"He read law for a time, and soon after his marriage in 1809, sailed for Europe with his wife, and passed several years in foreign travel, at a most interesting period in Continental history.

"The sudden death of his father devolved on him the care of a large estate, and before he was thirty years of age he was called to assume that responsible position among the very richest men of Boston, which he continued to hold during half a century.

"Building for himself a costly and elegant mansion fit for the generous hospitalities which belong to wealth, he began early to make plans for doing his share in acts of public and private beneficence.

"In 1820 he was actively associated with the erection of St. Paul's Church, on Tremont street, and he subsequently gave that parish a fund which now exceeds forty thousand dollars in value; this was followed in succeeding years by various provisions for other religious, literary and charitable objects, which, while accomplishing valuable purposes at once, may not exhibit their full fruit for a long time to come.

"The 'Sears Tower' of the Observatory at Cambridge, built at his cost, gave the first encouragement to an establishment which has been munificently endowed by others, and to whose permanent fund he was also a handsome contributor.

"About 1820 Mr. Sears purchased some 200 acres of land in the suburbs of Boston, which has since become the beautiful village of Longwood, which he proceeded to lay out and beautify at great expense, giving to many of the streets and squares names which he believed to be identified with the family in this country and England.

"A capacious stone chapel, built after the design of St. Peter's Church in Colchester, Eng., and to which he gave the name of 'Christ's Church in Longwood,' contains, in its basement, vaults constructed as a last resting-place for himself and those most dear to him.

"For this church he prepared a form of service in accordance with his peculiar views, and which has been described as 'the Book of Common Prayer, with any thing of the nature of Calvinism carefully weeded out, mildly tinctured with the writings of Channing, but more strongly flavored with Romanism,' and stated service was maintained during the last eight years of his life.

"A block of houses near by, destined ultimately for the dwellings of such as had seen better days, and to be known as 'The Scearstan Charter House,' and an accumulating fund under the control of the Overseers of the Poor, Boston, which has added not a little, year by year, to the comfort and support of a large number of poor women, will bear testimony to his thoughtful and well-considered benevolence."

After the death of Mr. Sears, by an arrangement between his heirs and the city of Boston, his various endowments for the poor of his native place were amalgamated under the comprehensive title of "The David Sears Charity."

In 1886 this fund amounted to near $280,000, and will be much further increased by the rise in real estate.

"Mr. Sears often enjoyed such public honors as he would accept, and served as a Representative to the Mass. Leg. in 1816–18, 1824–25 and 1828, and as a Senator in 1826 and 1851.

"He was a Presidential Elector in 1868, and invited his colleagues of the State Electoral College to meet the President elect, General Grant, at his house in Boston.

"In early life he was a member of the Independent Corps of Cadets and Com'd Ensign. In 1818 he presented the company with a new standard, and provided for them an elegant entertainment.

"He occasionally mingled in the public discussions of the day, and an elaborate letter which he addressed to John Quincy Adams on the best method of abolishing slavery, while that was still a living question, will be particularly remembered among his contributions to the press."

In middle life Mr. Sears became interested in the subject of family history and genealogy, and employed the late Mr. H. G. Somerby to make searches in England to trace his ancestry, and expended a large sum in these researches. His kinsman, Rev. Edmund H. Sears, undertook to edit the material collected, but he had no practical acquaintance with genealogy, and allowed himself to become responsible for a series of romantic legends under the title of "Pictures of the Olden Time," to which was added, in a private edition for the family, a genealogical account of the English and American branches.

About the year 1848 Mr. Sears erected monuments and mural tablets to various members of the family in Yarmouth and Chatham, Mass., Newport, R. I., and in St. Peter's Church, Colchester, Eng., to which church he presented in 1852 a flagon and paten of elegant design and elaborate workmanship inclosed in a handsome wainscot box.

In 1855 he endowed the church with £100, in trust, for charitable purposes, to which he added, in 1858, a further sum, now known as "The Sears Dole."

Mr. Sears deposited with the N. E. Hist. Gen. Society, medals to be given those of the name of Sears proving their descent from Richard and Dorothy Sares, a description of which may be found in Gen. Reg., vol. 26, p. 182.

Subsequent investigation has developed that Mr. Sears was grossly deceived in regard to many particulars of the pedigree and early history of his family, so that the monuments erected by him, and the genealogies he printed, now for the most part only serve to perpetuate unfortunate delusions.

"Mr. Sears was one of the first to own and occupy a summer residence at Nahant, but finding it too bleak for his own taste, and tempted by the softer atmosphere of the Gulf Stream, he built, in 1845, a marine villa at Newport, to which he gave the name of 'Red Cross.'

"Its extensive grounds are built over, but the immediate neighborhood is still pleasantly associated in many minds with the remembrance of his refined, graceful and unostentatious hospitality.

"With his characteristic generosity, he conveyed to the municipality a fund of five thousand dollars, the income to be applied to benevolent objects.

"The summer of 1869 was his last at Newport; the next year his health became seriously impaired, and he died in Boston, Jan. 14, 1871, at the advanced age of eighty-three, his wife, with whom he had lived near sixty-three years, having preceded him by a few months.

"He will be long remembered by all who have known him as one of the courteous and dignified gentlemen of the old school, of whom so few are now left to remind us of the manners and bearing of other days."

James Sears removed to Canada with his father, and was pressed into the British service in the war of 1812.

He was with his command, within hearing of the guns at Perry's fight on Lake Erie, and heard a British officer remark: "This seals our salvation or our damnation."

"Yankee Sears" always declared that he never fired a gun at his countrymen, but took care to aim over their heads.

After his discharge from the service, he got over into New York State as soon as possible, his departure being hastened by turbulent Indians, who rifled his cabin, and drove him with his family into the woods.

From thence he removed to Ohio, and in 1819 to Indiana, where he settled at Knightstown, in Henry co., and where he died.

He is buried with his wife in the Quaker Cemetery in Roysville.

The house that Herman B. Sears was born in, was also the birthplace of George Belden Sears.

The old boundary line between Connecticut and New York passed through the house, and the room they were born in was on the New York side.

By a later survey the whole house is in Connecticut.

Mr. Sears was a public-spirited man, and interested in all improvements.

He was Rep. to State Leg. in 1835–6, and 1842.

He was greatly beloved by all his neighbors, especially the young, was an active church member, often on committees, and in 1829 sent to the Presbytery.

John McC., who emigrated to this country before the war, and with Col. Porter, commanded the art'y of the Pa. line in Washington's army. Col. P. and Maj. McC. married sisters. (Col. P. was father of Geo. P., Territorial Gov. of Mich., of David P., Gov. of Pa., and James Madison P., Sec. of War;) their wives were Todds, relatives of Mrs. Abraham Lincoln, and the Todds of Ky. Mr. McC. was wounded in the war of 1812, and went on crutches for seven years; children, MCCULLOH: [1.] John Sears, lives Glencoe, Balt. co., Md. Mr. Sears was a clerk in the store of George Gibbs, a merchant of Newport, R. I., (father of Mrs. Channing,) went to Baltimore, to take charge of a branch there, became a general shipping merchant, and was prosperous and highly respected. He was Secretary of the "Republican Society," in Aug., 1795.

He died suddenly of yellow fever, Sep. 17, 1800, at Christiania, Del., whither he had fled with his family to escape the pestilence, then epidemic in Baltimore.

His wife's mother, Mary (Greene) Fry, was sister of Nath'l Greene's father, and first cousin to Gen. Nath'l G., of the Revolutionary army.

The Greenes and Frys were Quakers, and had intermarried for several generations in Rhode Island.

1721.* i. JOHN AUGUSTUS, b. Danvers.
1722. ii. MARY ANN, b. Dan.; d. s. p., 1850.

According to family tradition, John T. Sears was brought to Marblehead, Mass., when a small boy, by Capt. John Chandler of that place.

It is said that his family lived in the interior, and that he was at school in a seaport town, with his brother George and sister Mary, when Capt. Chandler enticed him on board his vessel, and brought him away.

In 1812 he commanded the privateer "Lyon," and after the war, opened a ship-chandlery in Marblehead, and started and worked the anchor foundry at Danversport; he refitted and sailed the Herm. brig "Hannibal," in which he went as supercargo with Capt. Williams of Salem, and died of yellow fever while on the voyage.

In tracing the parentage of Mr. Sears, I find but one family in which the name of George occurs prior to 1800, viz., that of George Sears of Newport, R. I.

Unfortunately the family records are very imperfect, and town and church records afford few data of the family, and nothing is to be learned from those of the Probate Court.

Possibly the records of the Quaker Church may throw some light on the family genealogy.

The romantic story of John T. Sears is unknown to the descendants of George Sears, Jr., but I place him here for the benefit of future investigators, and give his story as it was told to me.

"A tall, erect figure, very kindly and benevolent to the poor, industrious, and with large executive ability, claiming that six hours' sleep was enough for any man.

"He had a sterling sense of honesty, and fair dealing.

"He was a patriot, and loved his country, enlisting in its service when but a mere lad of sixteen, and he often astonished his grand-children and friends with recitals of their privations and sufferings during the war.

Roland Sears of Greenwich, Hamp. co., Mass., 17 years, 5 feet, 8 inches in height, dark complexion, arrived Springfield, July 18, 1780, for service in northern army; he had previously served, Aug. 17 to Aug. 21, 1777, in Capt. Ephraim Jennings' Co., Col. David Field's Regt. at Bennington, 30 miles; Sept. 12, 1777, to Jan. 4, 1778, in Capt. Eben. Newell's Co., Col. Key's Regt.; and July 21 to Aug. 25, 1779, at New London, Ct., in Capt. Elisha Dwight's Co., Col. Elisha Porter's Regt., 85 miles from home. In 1787 he took the oath of allegiance, having been concerned in Shay's rebellion. His name appears in census of 1840, as a Revolutionary pensioner, then aged 77.

"Dea. Roland," as he was called, to distinguish him from his brothers, "Dea. Andrew" and "Dea. John," who lived near by, was a very conscientious, religious man, quite after the Pilgrim type.

"He offered grace at every meal.

"With the greatest reverence I recall my grand-father on his knees in the family prayers, in his earnest and devout expressions of gratitude and thankfulness; and his confessions of shortcomings. And the closing words of the prayer have never left my childish memory, and I often find myself closing the petition with them: 'And now Lord, what wait we for? Our wants and complaints are spread before Thee, and Thou knowest what we need, better than we can think, or even ask.'

"Many years ago, in a great movement in the Congregational Church, Dea. Sears avowed himself a believer in one God, a Unitarian; quite a grief to his wife, a sweet Christian lady.

"Later on, they both accepted the faith, that evil can never perpetuate itself, in the other life, and as the result every soul shall confess, and glorify God forever."

Rufus Sears was born in the east precinct of Yarmouth, now Dennis, Mass., in 1770, and was but a few weeks old when his father died.

He lived with his mother until eleven years old, (who meanwhile had married Gorham Baker,) and then removed with his sister, Desire, wife of Dea. Joseph Bangs, to Hawley, then an almost unbroken wilderness, with a few scattering log-houses, and lived with her until 21.

He then made a visit to his mother on Cape Cod, carrying his clothes and provisions in a pack, and traveling all the distance on foot; spent the winter with her, and in March, not wishing to go to sea, as the other young men were then doing, he shouldered his pack and trudged back to Hawley again.

When he left the Cape the farmers were planting; arriving at Hawley, he found the land still covered with the last winter's snow.

He then purchased and cleared a tract of land, put up a small house, and about 1793 married Priscilla Sears.

He professed to be a follower of the meek and lowly Jesus before he was 21, endeavored to train up his children in the right way, and was a Deacon in the Congregational Church for many years.

Mr. Sears was a farmer, and lived on part of the old homestead in South East, 4 miles from Brewsters on the Harlem railroad.

"Mr. S. did not seem robust in his early years; a tendency to asthma was with him in his boyhood, but there must have been much vigor in his frame.

"He was ill comparatively little; only two severe illnesses, and they of the shorter duration, and of a nature that might affect the strongest physical manhood.

"In his early married life, in the prosecution of an avocation for a little while followed, he was able to endure readily the fatigue associated with riding horseback even as far as Lake Erie.

"His death was the first break in the family circle; father, mother, and all the children God gave to them, have been permitted to live together till the father's four-score years have been reached.

"During the summer of 1884, when the illness began separating him from more active care, he was disposed to give the reminiscences of his early life; to tell of his father, and of his own wishes and hopes in his young manhood, and the memories of the church service and life in the old church.

"But especially was there always grateful dwelling upon the comforts and the blessings of his own home.

"His children were to him pride and joy, and with that trembling of the lip and moistening of the eye, they who knew him the more readily recall, he would speak of their unfailing kindness; of their anticipation of every want; of how good God had been to him and his.

"He did not seem to be an old man, the years had not so told upon him. The face was unwrinkled, and the frame was vigorous. Till the last summer he was permitted to be actively employed in the concerns of his home.

"When the difficulty of breathing, and the heart trouble abated, some thought him better, and there was the entertainment of hope.

"But especially upon his own spirit as the end drew near, there was the conviction of approaching death.

"He would tell the children of what he desired to have done upon the farm, as soon as he would not be here, while to his pastor, who was often with him, he spoke of his consciousness of himself as a sinner, and of his trust in Christ as a Saviour, and of the absence of the fear of death.

"It had been a growing peace, and as the spirit advanced into the depths of the shadow, the darkness had passed, clinging with tender affection to the beloved with him, yet content to go at the Father's call, so quietly the spirit slipped from earth.

"It was as the morning hour advanced that death came.

"And so for him 'the night passed, and the morning came.'"

In the life of Dea. Sears there were no striking events, nothing that could be called great or grand, yet the whole life, viewed in its course of seventy years, leaves the impression on the hearts of all who knew him, of completeness, of beauty, of harmony; his best eulogy is in the hearts of those who knew him best and longest.

One who knew him from youth to old age, testifies that he was never guilty of a mean action, even as a boy; that even then his conduct was irreproachable.

He was a perfect example of a man whose life was a continuous moral growth, and yet he sought for the deeper life based on faith in Christ.

His whole speech was a witness to the need of the Christ-life in the soul; but not only in words did his witness consist, it was in the course of his daily life, in the faithful performance of all his duties, that he gave testimony to Him who came to do His Father's work.

Those who loved him well, tell how scrupulously he performed every little duty in the family, and how anxious he was to relieve his family, and make their burdens light.

Like the true Christian, his light threw a cheerful glow around his household hearth, and made his home one of happiness and content.

ELKANAH SEARS[7] [Benj.[6], Elkanah[5], Josh.[4], Paul[3], Paul[2], Rich.[1]], b. New Durham, N. Y., June 22, 1795; d. East Rockport, Ohio, Nov. 15, 1886, æ. 91; m. Franklin, N. Y., Mar. 21, 1820, Desiar Phelps, dau. of Obadiah and Arminda (Phelps) P., (not related,) she b. Hebron, Ct., Sep. 12, 1794; d. Sep. 21, 1872. Children:

2456.* iv. CYRUS, b. Mere., Mar. 10, 1832.

Mr. Sears removed with his father in 1798 from New Durham, Greene co., to Meredith, Delaware co., N. Y., and was married at Franklin, in the same county, to Desiar Phelps, and settled on a hill farm in Meredith, where all his children were born.

He was bred a farmer, and followed that vocation until prevented by failing health, and the infirmities of old age.

In 1836 he removed with his family to Ohio, and settled on a farm near Bucyrus, removing later to Bucyrus, where he lived many years.

After the death of his wife in 1872, he went to the home of his only daughter, Mrs. Nicholson, with whom he has ever since lived, and under whose roof he died.

His life was quiet and uneventful; he tried to do his duty, and lived and died an honest man.

His death was caused by falling from a verandah to which he went every pleasant day to enjoy the fresh air and sunshine, and the beautiful outlook over Lake Erie and the adjacent shore.

After dinner he was helped from his chair, and made his way to his favorite resort. He had been out but a few minutes when it was noticed that he was not in his usual place.

Search was at once made, and he was found lying on the ground, to which he had fallen over the railing, a distance of about twelve feet. He never spoke and breathed only a few times before death came to his relief.

He was as well as usual, so far as known, and his vital organs were apparently almost unimpaired.

It is probable he slipped or stumbled while leaning over the railing, and was unable to save himself, owing to the crippled condition of his limbs.

2464.* viii. ASA BIGELOW, b. Aug. 25, 1838.

Mr. Sears was educated in N. Y. city; ordained to the Baptist ministry in 1822, and appointed a missionary to the Indians by the Baptist B. of M., Jan. 17, 1821, the appointment being confirmed by Gov. Lewis Cass of Michigan, under army regulations, July 16, 1822, and his salary fixed at $400.

He was appointed to teach the Ottawas, and with his wife arrived at Fort Wayne, Ind., August 1, 1822, his father, Rev. Benjamin Sears, and his brother, Benj. Sears, Jr., a lay minister of the Baptist Church, arriving the next day.

Articles of religion were at once drawn up, and on August 3, 1822, the first Baptist Church at Fort Wayne was organized.

The Rev. Corbly Martin of Staunton, Ohio, preached on the occasion, and the Rev. Elder Benj. Sears gave the right hand of fellowship.

The members of the first Baptist Church at Fort Wayne, who signed the articles and thus became the founders of the church there, were, Isaac McCoy, Christiana McCoy, Giles

Jackson, Mary Jackson, John Sears, Mary Sears, Johnston Lykins, Benjamin Sears, Jr., missionaries; and one woman of the Delaware tribe, one woman of the Miami tribe, and one black man.

Affliction, disappointment and bereavement soon followed Mr. Sears. His father died at Delaware, Ohio, on returning home to New York. His wife was attacked with sickness peculiar to the country and the season.

His brother Benjamin having labored in the mission but twenty-three days, was taken down, and after a protracted spell of typhus fever, died on the third day of November.

Rev. John Sears and his wife left the mission soon afterward — Nov. 26, 1822.

He was settled at Franklin, N. Y., from 1823 to 1827; at Ithaca, N. Y., from 1828 to 1830; Mecklenburg, N. Y., from 1832 to 1842; and at Newfield, N. Y., from 1843 to 1845.

In 1846 he removed to Lake Zurich, Ill., where he settled on a farm, which remained his home till his death in 1856.

He was converted in 1828, and baptized by Rev. Washington Kingsley.

He was a faithful and efficient worker in the cause of the Master, though for twenty-five years deafness deprived him of the blessing of the spoken word.

His end was peaceful.

Rev. Edmund H. Sears was graduated at Union Coll. in 1834, and at Cambridge Theo. School in 1837; began to preach as a missionary at Toledo, Ohio, remaining nearly a year, — was ordained Pastor of 1st Church, Wayland, Mass., 1839, installed at Lancaster, Mass., Dec. 23, 1840, as successor to Rev. Dr. Nath'l Thayer; resettled in Wayland, 1848; installed as colleague of Dr. Field, Pastor of the Unit. Ch. at Weston, Mass., in May, 1865, and succeeded him as Pastor in Nov., 1869.

"He visited Europe in 1873, and was severely injured by the fall of a tree in his orchard in 1874.

"He was a man of singularly modest and retiring nature. His health had long been feeble, and he shrunk from personal display of any sort. But as a writer, as a preacher, and as a man, he has left a memory which will be long and lovingly cherished by all who knew him.

"A saintlier soul has rarely been enshrined in mortal frame.

"But for his early impaired health and enfeebled voice, he would have been deemed eloquent in utterance, no less than in style, for his delivery had every attractive and impressive quality, within the limited spaces in which alone he dared to seek a hearing.

"Those who knew him felt that his place was with the beloved apostle, in closest union and sympathy with his Divine Master.

"There was a sweet serenity of spirit in his whole demeanor, speech and character, which made him in every relation of life unspeakably dear.

"Simple, modest, unassuming, even diffident, he was the last person to make of set purpose any manifestation of piety; but a beauty of holiness so pure and radiant as his could not be kept under cover.

"All who came within its sphere felt profoundly the sanctity, purity and loveliness of its character.

"His style was the transcript of his thought and feeling.

"There was a view of high poetic inspiration, not only in those lyrics which are finding their place in the worship of Christian sanctuaries wherever the English tongue is spoken, but almost equally in his prose, which is never otherwise than rhythmical, glowing and fervent."

Amongst other works of his were: "Regeneration," "Athanasia," "The Fourth Gospel the Heart of Christ," "Sermons and Songs of the Christian Life," "Christian Lyrics," etc., and he edited, with Rev. R. Ellis, "The Monthly Religious Magazine."

In 1857 he published an historical romance entitled "Pictures of the Olden Time," in connection with which he edited the "Sears Genealogy," from papers furnished him by Hon. David Sears of Boston, but which have since been found to contain much erroneous information based upon legends incapable of proof. See ante, "English Ancestry."

He published "Nohden's Grammar of the English Language," in 1842; "Classical Studies," 1843; "Ciceronia, or the Prussian mode of Instruction in Latin," 1844; "Memoir of Rev. Bela Jacobs," 1847; "Life of Luther," 1850; since republished in England with the title "Mental and Spiritual Life of Luther," 1850; numerous reports on education, occasional addresses, and contributions to reviews and other periodicals, and to "Appleton's American Cyclopedia."

In 1838, and for several years he edited the "Christian Review," and later the "Bibliotheca Sacra."

In 1864, he published a discourse on the "Completion of the first century of Yale College."

Dr. Sears was in public life from the time he returned to this country from Europe in 1837, until the year of his death, 1880.

By many he was considered one of the greatest men of the age, and no doubt he was the foremost educator.

He had made every effort to secure his own scholarship, as his parents were unable to render him much assistance, and what he possessed himself he earnestly wished others to share.

He never was in the company of the young, that on parting, they had not something to remember, which he had imparted in a pleasant manner.

His social and domestic life was not so full of incidents as might be expected, considering his peculiar gifts of wit, conversation and quick repartee, for he was a devoted student, even to the last days of his career.

Each year he was accustomed to take some one of the languages, and renew his intimacy with it.

He spoke and wrote with comparative ease, Greek, Latin, French, German, Spanish and Italian, and had a fair knowledge of Hebrew and Sanscrit.

In English he was a sure authority, and it was an absolute pain to him to hear it badly spoken by those who should use it correctly.

His wife was accustomed to say that she almost wished she was a book, as then she should receive his attention occasionally, and his children sometimes remarked that they wished company would come, so that the sound of his voice would be heard.

Such things rather pained him, while he treated them as jests, and he would lay aside pen and paper, and endeavor to "be sociable," but soon he would be seen in his own familiar place, utterly oblivious to his surroundings.

He had a very warm and affectionate nature, and although separated from all his brothers and sisters for many years, he seldom spoke of them without emotion.

Of his mother he had the tenderest remembrance; he always described her to his children, who never saw her, as one of the best and sweetest Christians.

His father was quick-tempered and uneven in his spirits, but the mother was uniform and mild.

He had an old uncle Simeon, who used to be rather severe with his mischievous nephews.

Although Barnas was his favorite, he was very impatient at his fondness for books, and when he found him stretched under the shade of a tree, or sheltered from sight in any sequestered nook, he would chide him for laziness, and not unfrequently lay his riding whip about the boy's legs.

In spite of his fault-finding, however, he was proud of his talents, and in later life often said, he "always knew that youngster would make his mark."

While religious in the deepest and truest meaning of the word, Dr. Sears was neither sectarian or narrow minded.

He had a broad catholic spirit, and saw good in all men.

When others were sitting in harshest judgment on some unfortunate one, he had a word of exculpation, or a loophole for possible escape.

In a little pocket diary, found in his coat after death, were a few rules for self-government. One was, "Criticise yourself severely, others mildly." Another was, "If not able to say a kind thing of the absent, keep silent."

These maxims were most faithfully observed.

He had inherited a quick temper, but by the time his family were grown, he had it under perfect control.

After he died, an old colored man-servant, who had lived with him many years, told his associates that he had never heard his master speak angrily, and a colored girl who waited on Mrs. Sears seventeen years bore the same testimony.

Every one loved him who served him, and while the whole country took sad note of his death, there was no sincerer regret anywhere than amongst the humble poor, who were connected with him in domestic life.

Mr. Sears was born in Lima, Livingston co., N. Y., in Apr., 1804, and in his seventh year removed with his parents to Sciota Valley, Ohio, where they lived during the war of 1812, enduring great hardships, their lives being frequently imperiled by the attacks of marauding Indians.

They were finally compelled to leave their home, and flee for safety to Fort Erie, their flight taking them across the Sciota river, and in making the passage their rude boat was upset, and two of his sisters and a brother were drowned.

Reaching the fort they availed themselves of its protection until after Perry's famous victory, they being within sound of the guns during the engagement.

They then removed to Cincinnati, and in 1814, ventured still further west, settling in Switzerland co., Ind.

In 1818, they again pulled up stakes, and struck out for the Wabash valley, where they finally located permanently.

Two years after, David, who was then in his seventeenth year, yearning for an education, resolved to return to his native State.

Accordingly, wrapping all his spare clothing in a cotton handkerchief, he started for New Orleans on a flat-boat, where he arrived safely, and went round to New York by sailing vessel, from whence he proceeded to his mother's people, living near Syracuse.

Something seems to have occurred which interfered with his plans for obtaining an education, for in the course of a year we find him on his way back to Illinois. The reason for this sudden move may, perhaps, be read in the record of his first marriage, which occurred in 1824, the woman of his choice being Miss Melinda Stokes of Shawneetown, Ill.

The young people commenced life on a farm of eighty acres near that place, and for a period of fourteen years Mr. Sears made farming his vocation, taking annual trips to New Orleans to dispose of his produce, which he shipped by flat-boat.

On these trips lucrative inducements were frequently held out to him by southern traders to enter the slave trade, but to accept such a proposition was contrary to the cardinal principles of his life, and he never attempted to better his fortunes in that way.

In 1836, Mr. Sears became possessed of a desire to see the Upper Mississippi valley, of whose wonderful fertility and beauty he had heard so much, and leaving his home, he directed his course to the point now covered by the busy little city of Moline.

Not a building of any kind then stood there, the lovely Rock Island had remained as nature had made it. The swift waters of the mighty river flowed wastefully past it on either side.

Five miles below, old "Black Hawk's watch tower" raised its head in primitive grandeur above the broad valley of the Rock river, whose enchained water power now turns the wheels of numerous industries.

The scene unfolded to the gaze of Mr. Sears was not only one of surpassing loveliness, but it also revealed, as his quick eye discovered, superior advantages for the location and development of large manufacturing interests.

The purpose of making this his permanent abiding place was immediately formed. The building of a habitation and removal of his family and chattels was soon accomplished, and then began the work which has made the name of Sears and the history of Moline's industrial progress inseparable.

In 1837, Mr. Sears, in company with J. W. Spencer, Calvin Ainsworth, and Spencer M. White, commenced building the first dam across the river between Rock Island and the Illinois shore.

In the fall of 1841, they erected a two-story saw-mill, and placed on the upper floor a run of burrs, for the accommodation of the neighboring farmers, the nearest flour-mill at that time being one hundred miles distant.

Thomas Patterson supervised the work as millwright, and Jona. Huntoon dressed and fitted the stones.

In 1843, the company built the "big mill," at a cost of some $30,000; it was a four-run mill, and the machinery the best that could be procured at that period.

Mr. Sears was noted for his readiness to adopt improved appliances for the simplification and lightening of labor.

He brought to Moline the first rotary saw used in the Mississippi valley above St. Louis, thereby incurring the transient displeasure of his employees, who looked upon it as an encroachment on their rights.

By an arrangement with his partners, he completed the new structure with his own funds, his right to the water power being made for a term of years.

He controlled the mill and its business until 1848, shipping its products to St. Louis and lower Mississippi river points.

About 1843, Mr. Sears in company with Charles Atkinson, laid out and plotted the town of Moline and its "Island City" subdivision, which consisted of a tract of thirty-seven acres, on the upper end of Rock Island, then held as a military reserve.

This tract he secured the right from Congress to enter at $1.25 per acre, the privilege being granted him in consideration of the benefits to navigation which had accrued from the building of the dam on the Illinois side.

Mr. Sears established a foundry, erected a store and other buildings in Moline, and thereafter for years had a hand in the advancement of every project which had the material improvement of the town for its aim.

In 1845, he built a saw-mill, and in 1859, a three-run flour-mill on Benham's Island, a narrow strip of land lying contiguous to Rock Island on the north, thereby developing a water power between the two islands.

He constructed a steamboat landing below the mill, erected a house and other buildings on the main land, and when in 1865, the government took possession of the island for the purpose of a National arsenal and armory, the commission awarded him $145,175 for his property and improvements.

In 1855, Mr. Sears purchased one-fourth of the present milling site of Minneapolis, (one-fourth of forty-nine acres, and one-fourth of the water power,) which he sold to the late Gov. C. C. Washburn for $4,000, and in doing so made a great mistake, as he frequently remarked, and as events subsequently proved.

He at the same time built a saw-mill and furniture factory on Lake Minnetonka, which with a bridge contract was the end of his building operations until after the war.

In August, 1861, he enlisted in 22d Illinois Regiment, and served honorably as Quartermaster for three years.

In 1867, he built the fine 300-barrel mill at Sears, now operated by his sons, David, William and George, and in 1870, a flour-mill at Cleveland, Mo., and another at Linden in 1873.

In 1875, he went to Tama City, Iowa, erected a large mill, and two years later dug a canal, put in a dam and otherwise improved the water power at Ottumka.

In 1880, he constructed water-works at Red Oak, Iowa, and the following year performed a like work at Joplin, Mo.

Mr. Sears was a man of sterling principles. Honest in all his dealings, he was respected by all with whom he had business relations. Liberal to an extreme, none ever asked his charity, who did not receive what he could afford to give.

He was a strong advocate of temperance, and practised what he preached.

Up to within a few moments of his death, he seemed to be in the enjoyment of good health, in his 80th year, apparently as hale and hearty as at any period of his life.

The history of his life is a record of good deeds, and worthy of emulation.

In November, 1836, Mr. Sears removed to Racine county, Wis., and was followed the next year by his wife. He located upon the land in what is now the town of Caledonia, in which town they resided until 1870, when they removed to the house in Mt. Pleasant, in which they died.

As in their earlier years, Mr. Sears preceded his wife to the wilderness, she following him after a year's separation, to join in the trials, hardships and privations attendant upon the life of pioneers in a new and sparsely-settled territory; so now, after a year's separation, she has followed him through the dark valley to "that better country," to enjoy with him an eternity of peaceful rest. Mr. and Mrs. Sears celebrated their golden wedding in 1883, a rare ceremony, which will long be remembered by those who were privileged to be present. Mr. Sears was a member of the Old Settlers' Society, and was highly esteemed by all who knew him. His wife was a loving and devoted mother, a kind friend, and a sincere Christian. Her children, friends and neighbors, and fellow-members of the Old Settlers' Society, will ever cherish her memory as fragrant of all that is pleasant and lovable. One brother survives her, Mr. Alvin Ames of Chautauqua, N. Y., and two sons and three daughters, with thirteen grand-children.

He erected some of the best buildings in Boston; the Chickering Piano Factory, and Gilmore's Coliseum.

He had a peculiar fancy for building high steeples.

He will be remembered by his associates as a man of large and muscular build, and reckless of danger, of which many incidents could be related.

He was one of six to organize the Methodist Society in South Boston, of whom he was the last survivor.

Those who have heard the story of their early struggles, will know how much he loved, by what he gave.

He was a Rep. in Mass. Leg., 1859 and 1860, and died venerable in character and years.

"The Peruvian government has decreed an immense concession to our fellow-citizen, Major Alfred F. Sears, and it has been confirmed with great unanimity by the Congress. This concession is to build an irrigation work in the department of Piura, the most northern of that republic, and carries with it the right to 750,000 acres of public lands. The water rents are made obligatory on the people of the district, and are secured by their crops.

"The studies and location of this work were made by Major Sears in 1874 and 1875, and the grant is the result of a three years' struggle on his part and that of his friends. Important American and English houses have already offered to raise the capital. The English house is known in this country as bankers and cotton brokers. The concern has a house in Piura, which is a cotton-producing district. The work embraces a dam eighty feet high and 4,000 feet long, by which is formed an artificial lake eighteen miles long and three miles wide. This lake will be navigable and feed navigable canals to a point near the coast." [Oregonian, Nov., 1889.] "It is now an open secret that Maj. Sears is the author of 'THE LOST INCA,' a dazzling tale of adventure in a Peruvian wonderland, containing graphic and accurate descriptions of natural scenery in Peru, fauna and flora, atmospheric phenomena and quaint folk legends."

They suffered greatly from the lateness and rigor of the season, and lost two children by small-pox. Settled in their new home they had a severe struggle to maintain themselves for the first two years, until they could get the ground cleared, and crops planted and harvested.

In 1858, at the request of her pastor, Mrs. Sears wrote a long and pathetic account of their trials and tribulations, which was read to the Sunday School in Rome, Wis., and which I much regret not having space to print here.

Mr. Sears was for many years an honored local preacher in the Methodist Church.

Prof. AMOS GOULD SEARS[8] [Eben'r[7], Eben'r[6], Wm.[5], Paul[4], Paul[3], Paul[2], Rich.[1]], b. Carroll, N. Y., Apr. 24, 1823; m. Rockingham, Vt., June 1, 1847, Susan Augusta Davis, she b. there, Nov. 18, 1827. Child:

Elgin, Ill., June 22, 1881, Mattie Lee Barclay, she b. there, Dec. 10, 1860; d. s. p., Chicago, Ill., Nov. 28, 1881, æ. 20; 2d, May 26, 1887, Laura Raymond Davidson of Elgin; he studied at Elgin, grad. Amherst Coll., Mass., 1875, and was adm. to the bar in Illinois, 1878; is now of firm Nath'l C. Sears and Charles Arnd, lawyers, Chicago, Ill.

Mr. Sears studied at Waterville, Me., and Amherst, Mass.; was a teacher, and Principal of Gallia Academy, Gallipolis, Ohio, for 11 years, and of Elgin Academy 11 years, when he retired, and now resides in Chicago, Ill., engaged in real estate business.

Prof. and Mrs. Sears took charge of Elgin Academy under unfavorable circumstances. The attendance had been low; the growing popularity of the public schools interfering with its prosperity; a debt was hanging over it, and the enthusiasm of its friends had waned.

They brought to the work just the qualities needed; were quick to perceive what to do, and proceeded to the work in hand with directness and energy.

The debt was paid, the grounds improved, the students came in greater numbers, the school was advertised, the alumni interested, and the students themselves began to help the work of building up.

The school grew to number more than 200 students; each year something was added to the apparatus and to the grounds; each year a larger class was graduated, and the school was elevated to a standing among the best in the State.

Prof. and Mrs. Sears won the confidence of the community, and compelled the respect and love of all with whom they were associated.

As teachers, they were eminently successful; and as business managers, they succeeded beyond expectation.

Mr. Sears is connected with the house of John H. Pray, Sons & Co., wholesale and retail carpet dealers in Boston. Both his daughters are fine musicians, and have played in public since they were eight years of age.

From the "Boston Journal" of June 30, 1885, I clip:

"TUSSLE WITH A BURGLAR. He enters a south end residence, but is pitched headlong from a window.

"Mr. David B. Sears, who lives at 58 Chester square, had a lively tussle with a burglar early Friday morning, and succeeded in throwing him from the chamber window.

"The robber fell heavily to the brick yard below, breaking his leg and stunning him. He was carried off by two confederates who were waiting for him, and all three are still at large.

"Mr. Sears and his wife occupy a room on the first floor, facing Northampton street. He is usually a heavy sleeper, but Friday morning he awoke suddenly and saw a man creeping stealthily through the window. He had climbed up from the yard by means of a trellis, and was crawling noiselessly into the room when Mr. Sears saw him. The latter sprang from his bed, and the burglar arose to defend himself. Mr. Sears struck out with both fists, and planted them squarely in the burglar's face. The force of the blow was sufficient to knock him headlong through the open window.

"There was a dull thud, and when Mr. Sears looked out he saw the fellow lying where he fell, groaning as if in great pain. At that moment two confederates looked through the gate, but dodged back when they saw Mr. Sears. But a moment later, having assured themselves probably that he had no fire-arms, they rushed to where their wounded pal lay and dragged him out of the yard. This was at 2:30 o'clock. Mr. Sears called for the police, but as no officer came round he went to bed again.

"An hour later an officer saw tracks where some one had been dragged through the street, and following them found a man lying on the sidewalk on Camden street, and asked him what he was doing there. He replied that he had been on a spree, and had fallen and broken his leg. The officer felt of the limb and assured himself that it was really broken. His charitable instinct led him to go for an ambulance.

"Neighbors who had been watching this little episode say that the officer had been gone but a few minutes, when two men drove up hastily with a horse and buggy, and lifting the helpless man into the carriage, drove off at a furious gait. When the officer came back with the ambulance, he hunted in vain for the unfortunate individual whose leg was broken."

The burglars were afterward arrested, and are now serving terms in the State's prison.

Mr. Sears was born in the "South Gore," now known as Webster, Mass., on the border of Douglass Woods, and near the Nipmuck Indian reservation.

Before he was five years old he formed an abiding friendship for a young Indian named "Nessmuk," (wood duck,) from whom he imbibed his love for woodcraft, and became a devotee of nature in her wildest and roughest of aspects; a lover of field sports; a hunter, angler, trapper and canoeist; an uneducated man withal, save the education that comes of long and close communion with nature, and a perusal of the best English authors.

Endowed by nature with an instinctive love of poetry, Mr. Sears early dropped into the habit of rhyming, jotting down his thoughts on paper, or as often happened, when in the woods, on birch bark.

Under the pseudonym of "Nessmuk," he has written much for the "Spirit of the Times," and "Forest and Stream," and has published a work entitled "Woodcraft," and a volume of poetry called "Forest Runes."

During the Civil war, Mr. Sears served in the "Bucktail" Regt. Pa. Vols., and was discharged for physical disability at Camp Curtin, Harrisburg, Pa. Now resides in Wellsboro, Pa.

In the spring of 1851, he removed to Wellsboro, Tioga co., Pa., and was for many years a partner with his brother George in the shoe business. His career of thirty-six years was marked with several reverses, but he kept up good courage, and energetically labored to surmount all difficulties.

Mr. Sears was a quiet, unassuming man, and possessed many excellent qualities of mind and heart. He was a good citizen, and a steady, faithful Christian worker. For more than twenty years he was a member of the Meth. Epis. Church, and Supt. of Sunday School in the country district for years He was a kind and indulgent husband and father, a faithful, helpful son, and brother.

APPENDIX.

Other Families of Sears.

In the course of my searches for members of the Yarmouth family, I have accumulated much data relative to divers other families, some perhaps deriving from Richard Sares of Yar mouth, but so far not certainly identified, and others perhaps distantly connected with him, though not in lineal descent.

For the benefit of future genealogists, I will briefly notice them.

ALEXANDER SEARS[1] (Seers, Scares,) of Salem, Mass., Inv'y filed by Hilliard Veren and Thos. Rootes, Salem, June 7, 1667, £61 8 6. Wife Mary, Exec'x, mentions sons Robert and Alexander. He m. Salem, before 1665, Mary Lemmon, dau. of Robt. L., (who made his will Aug. 2, 1665, proved June 25, 1667, in which he names dau. Mary Sears,) she bap. Salem, Apr. 7, 1639; m. 2d, Steph. Searle, before Nov. 26, 1667. Sep. 23, 1670, Stephen Haskett of Salem, brought suit against "Stephen Searle and wife Mary, adm'x, estate of her late husband, Alex. Sears, for £40, paid for her to several men of debts due them from said estate." "Mary Searle, sometime y^e^ wife of Alex. Seers," was witness in a case against Allester Greime and Sarah Lambert, Nov. 26, 1667.

Alex. Sears was probably not many years the senior of his wife, (she born about 1639,) and most likely had not long been in this country at the date of his marriage, which took place about 1656. His son Alex'r is sometimes called "Sandy" in the records. Does this indicate Scotch descent? Children:

3.* ii. Alexander.

ROBERT SEARS[2] [Alex'r[1]], b. 1656; was in Capt. Wm. Nov. 18, 1696, he signed petition for repeal of law relating to building with brick, and died Dec. 29, 1732, æ. 76, gr.-st., Copp's Hill. He m. Abigail ——. I find no adm. on either in Suff. Reg. He is styled "Captain," but I find no further mention of him, or record of any children. He may have removed, and possibly some of the Penn. and Va. Sears may be his descendants.
8. v. SARAH, b. Aug. 11, 1692; bap. Mar. 4, 1694–95.
9.* vi. ALEXANDER, b. May 23, 1698; bap. May 29.

3.

ALEXANDER SEARS[2] [Alex'r[1]], was taxed in Boston in 1688, and in 1695 was an inhabitant of Ward I; m. Rebecca Staines, dau. of Rich. and Joyse S., she b. Boston, Dec. 26, 1662; (her mother m. 2d, —— Hall). Alex. and Rebecca Sears were adm. members of Old South Ch., Jan. 11, 1712–13, and were soon dismissed to New North Ch. At the ordination of Rev. John Webb, first minister of that church, in 1714, "the members of the sister churches were entertained at Mr. Sears." Alex. Sears was one of the founders, and of the building Com. of the New North, or "Cockerill church," on Hanover street, in 1721, and his name appears first on the list of members, after the minister, May 23, 1722. He was a shipwright, and had a yard opposite the end of Prince street, on Fish (now Ann) street. Rev. E. H. Sears says, "Alexander Sears and his wife Rebecca were two most worthy people, who lived all their lives on Charter street."

The will of Alex. Sears, dated 1732, gives £50 to dau. Sarah Sears, spinster, with bed, bedding and furniture to make her equal to the rest; residue to his children, Rebecca Hill, Sarah Sears, Mary Treat, Joyce Marble, Ann Phillips, Hannah Snelling and Deliverance Atkins. Children, all b. Boston:

Capt. ALEXANDER SEARS[3] [Robt.[2], Alex.[1]], b. Boston, May 23, 1698, bap. May 29; d. Mar. 17, 1758, æ. 60, gr.-st., Copps Hill; m. May 24, 1732, by Rev. John Webb to Hannah Grant.

The will of Alexander Sears gives "out of personal estate to wife Hannah, £160, being part of what she received from her father; also, negro woman, Hester; all my household goods, plate, household linen, except one silver tankard and two silver porringers, which I give to my dau. Sarah Lord. To wife Hannah, improvement of all my real estate, and one-half my real estate to her heirs and assigns, to do with as she thinks proper; also my wearing apparell. To my dau. Sarah Lord, all those things I purchased for her housekeeping, and all other things necessary to be provided out of my personal estate, and the other half of my real estate after my wife's decease.

"All else to be divided between them."

The will of Hannah Sears, widow of Alexander Sears, gives "all to my dau. Sarah Lord and grand-son Jonathan, except negro woman Hester, who is given her bed and bedding, and £15, and if she chooses not to be free, and to live with her (my) daughter, is to be secured from being a charge, and is not to be sold to any one she don't like, but to choose for herself."

A fire broke out at widow Sears' house and barn on Charter street, April, 1759. Children:

19. i. HANNAH, b. Boston, Feb. 22, 1732–3.
20. ii. SARAH, b. Boston, Aug. 17, 1734; pub. Sep. 14, 1757, to Jonathan Lord.

DEBORAH SIERS was bap. in Old South Ch., Boston, Nov. 20, 1686; and a GEORGE SIERS was a petitioner for a license as retailer in Boston, 1732. I find no further mention of either.

Letters of adm'n were granted Feb. 9, 1651–2, to John Sunderland on estate of Mary Sears of Boston, "her husband, DANIEL SEARS, being at sea." There is no mention of children, or other heirs. May 17, 1626, license to marry was granted Dan'l Sears, (Seeres in margin,) of Stepney, Midd., Eng., sailor, and Elizabeth Herring of same, and they were married in the parish church next day, he being called " of Ratcliffe, sailor, and she of Ratcliff Highway, maiden." It has been suggested that he may be the Daniel Sears of Boston, 1651; if so, he apparently married again. John Sunderland was a parchment maker in Boston, and agent for John Scottoway; he removed to Eastham, and m. 1665, Tamsen Mayo, widow, whose dau. by 1st husband, Tamsen Mayo, m. Sam'l Sears. What connection, if any, between Jno. Sunderland and Mary Sears, I know not.

Soon after 1700, we find several of the name of Sears in Boston, some of whom were almost surely brothers, and there is some reason to think that one or more were descended from Edmund Seare, Notary Public, who m. Eliz'h Sewell, dau. of Rich'd S., of Nuneaton, co. Warwick, Eng., she b. 1618; was living in 1648. Her uncle, Henry Sewell, settled in Rowley, Mass., and d. there in 1657; from him derive the Boston family of Sewells. (See Sears of Ulster co., N. Y., post.)

About 1800 several families of Sears appear in Boston, but owing to the imperfect state of the town records I have been unable to trace them back or determine their relationship.

ANTHONY SEARS m. Boston, Mar. 30, 1704, Grace Kenney, who d. Sep. 13, 1712; 2d, Nov. 30, 1712, Eliz'h Needham. (An Eliz'h Sears m. Jan. 21, 1722, Wm. Maycock.) Child:

BARTHOLOMEW SEARS[1] was appointed viewer and sealer of wood for South End Wharves, Boston, 1726, and dismissed 1728. He m. Elizabeth ——, and perhaps removed to Stratford, Ct., as I find the will of Bart. Sears of Monroe, formerly Stratford, filed Jan. 2, 1772; but this may have been a son. He was perhaps a Huguenot emigré. Children, all b. Boston:

About the year 1750, several families of Sears are found settled in various counties of Virginia.

I do not learn that their descendants trace any connection between the different families, but they have a general tradition that they are of English origin, except perhaps the Sears of Prince George co., who claim that their ancestor was from France. While they may be correct as to the fact, I think they were of English origin, though a branch may have settled in France.

Some of the Fauquier co. family think their ancestor had resided for a time in Rhode Island.

PAUL SEARS[1] was probably an Englishman, or of English descent, and perhaps resident in France. The family tradition is clear that four sons came from France to Virginia early in the eighteenth century. Children:

2.* i. PAUL.
3. ii. REEDER, went to the Indian war; was gone a long time; ret'd to Va., and stayed a while; went west again, and was not heard of after.
4.* iii. RICHARD.
5. iv. DANIEL, bought 280 acres of land in Prince George co., Va., June 16, 1744; served in the Rev'y army, and was not heard of after.

2.

PAUL SEARS[2] [Paul[1]], emigrated with his bros. Reeder, Richard and Daniel from France to Virginia in early life; bought 180 acres of land in Prince George co., Sep. 28, 1730; 400 acres, Feb. 8, 1733; and 285 acres north side of Stoney Creek in Aug., 1745. In the early land records he is called Junior, but in 1745 the affix is dropped, from which I infer that his father had d. about that time. He m. Elizabeth Butler (who had bros. Jas. and Wm.) Children:

6. i. MARY, b. Prince George co., Va., 19, 4 mo., 1736; m. Simmons Fowler, and had an only dau., Martha, m. Peter Binford.

12. vii. SARAH, b. Prince George co., 23, 12 mo., 1747; m. Abidon Bailey, and had, Rebecca, David, Daniel, Josiah, Martha and Michael.
13. viii. ANN, b. Prince George co., 4, 6 mo., 1750; m. Wm. Hunnicutt, and d. s. p.

15. x. JEMIMA, b. Prince George co., 29, 7 mo., 1756; when aged, m. Wm. Walthall, and had no issue.

Gaditha, Tabitha, Sarah, Margaret, and Jemima were mentioned in the will of their brother John, as living with him in 1799.

There is mention of a Tabithy Irby as born Jan. 4, 1752, who is thought to have been an adopted dau. of Paul, Jr.

"A testamony concerning Paul Sears deceast, by his daughter Maria Sears. The scripture saith, when the Lords Judgements are in the erth the inhabetants shall learn righteousness.

"The awfull and suden maner in which an all wise Providence saw meet to brake the shekles of mortality to remove from workes to rewards this my beloved Parent, lays with weight on my mind that I showld make it publick for the good of others. He was born in Dinwidia county state of Virginia the 14th day of the 12th month 1768. His parents names were John and Sarah Sears who educated him in the Principles of the Christian religion profest by friends in which he was concurned to walk with circumspection. In 1794 he was married to Huldah Simmons a young widow with one child, to whome he was as affectionate a Father as he was to his own if any ods he rather exceeded.

"In 1797 my Mother came forth in worke of the Ministry and in 1810 when their youngest child was not tow years old she first received a surtificate to travel in the exercise of her gift to which he freely gave her up, not withstanding the double care that devolved upon him, six small children and no care-taker but himself within dores and without. His exercise and concurn for the upright walking of his family was great, endeavoring to restrain them from every rong thing, all his restraints however positive and puncktal ware sesoned with love.

"He had many triales to encounter in my Mothers absence from home yet he all ways gave her up with a willing heart and encoraging language telling her that his Spirit was at times permited to accompeny hers not only in her tride and proveing sesons but also in her rejoysings.

"Her reply would be, my dear maintain thy noble courage.

"For 17 years of their lives she was the most part of the time from home on religious service, several times visited North Carolina, Philadelphia, Pensylvania, Baltimore and Merilan, twice in Ohio and Indiana, once to Inglant, Ireland, Scotland and Walles, was near 2 years at diferent times engaged in visiting the slave holders of the State of Verginia in a part of which visit he bore her Compeny and they had to remark the tenderness of spirit and openess of most that was found amongst this tyranical part of the human family, he was firm in the beleaf there was no beter way to worke with the oppressor for the releaf of the opprest than by the spirit of Him who worketh by love. He bore her company in her last visit to the meetings of there own quarter which was finished a few weekes before her death. On there return home she told him her worke was done, and that he might prepare for a final seperation, the which he bore with Christian fortitude, and shortly after her death in the year 1827 he removed with his children to the state of Ohio and settled within the verge of Springborough monthly meeting, he had been for some years before this removal in the stasion of an elder, and tho not in that stasion after he came to this country yet his concurn and exercise for the supporte of the discipline was unabated, discoraging the aperance of evil whare ever he saw it, truly a peace maker with all with whome he had to do. His death was occashioned by a fall on the 9th day of 4th month, in the evening the family all from home but he and I, he went to pay attenshion to the Creatures, was on an uper flower in the barn when it gave way and he come down with it head for most, I herd the alarm and ran, when I got to him he said I am killed. I said, no Father, he continued, I am killed, all dead now from here down, laying his hand on the pitt of his stummack, which was indeed true for he never had any more fealing in them parts afterward & he continued saying, Lord have mercy on my Soul, he said his back and breast was broke all to peasces, the dearest object of my life, a destressing a sean beyond descripsion. I had to leave him a few minites to get assistance, when I returned I found him quite composed and engaged in fervent prayer, saying my time is come to leave the world all in an instant, Lord be pleased to have mercy on my Soul, thou has been with me through the many trials of my life, be pleasd to be with me now, be pleasd to preserve my children there Souls, Lord this world is nothing. On this came his son to whome he said, my dear child my time is come to leave you to brave the world all in an instant, he queried how he felt, he answered, nothing to depend upon but the Mercyes of the dear Saviour. I have been scuffling along all my life trying to do that which was right, I have no dependence but the Mercyes of the dear Saviour. After he was taken in the house he had considerable to say to his children earnestly entreeting them in all things to do that which is wright. He sufered violent pain in his breast, head and back, and great presure of water in his pipes, no power to cough, all which he bore with remarkable patiance, never making the least complaint, often praying for patiance that he might hold out to the end. He several times gave council and advice to those about him, seting forth the certainty of a never endeing eternity, and of the uncertenty of all the changeable things of time that we should above all things be concurned to do that which is right in the Devine sight, that will bring Peace at the solem close. Forth day the 14 he semd sensable his close was at hand, said to one of his daughters, when I expire I want thee to be quiet, and all of you, thee in particular. A while after he requested to sit up in the bed whare he sit about 3 hours unto the last. Soon after he was sit up he said, my breath gets shorter and shorter, soon after said, I am worrying along with death, I don't expect to see the light of another day. He continued to draw his breath shorter and shorter, and remarkable easy considering the pressure in his pipes. A few minutes before his close, he said, I was killed all but this little part, the ceat of life, that I might speak to you and now I tell you all farewell to geather. He departed this the 14 of the 4th month of 1841, aged 72 years and 4 months."

Family tradition says that "three brothers, Jeremiah, Mordecai and John, emigrated to this country from England, one of whom, Mordecai, is said to have been with the Indians in disguise who threw the tea overboard, and thereafter spelled his name Sayre, and it is so recorded in the family Bible; his descendants live on Long Island. One of them, Chas. D. Sayre, had a plantation in Brazonia co., Texas, and died of yellow fever at Galveston; also his wife, Catharine."

Possibly the family derives from the Sayres of Southampton, L. I. See Howell's Hist. South., ed. 1887.

"The last battle of the war was fought on John Sears' farm, and the last ball fired lodged in his house."

CHARLES LEE SEARS[2] [Wm.[1]], b. near Centreville, Fairfax co., Va., Feb. 8, 1775; d. Occoquan, Va., 1862; m. Bittie Worster; 2d, Susan Wells of Colchester, Va. Children:

14. i. ACHILLES DE GRASSE, D. D., b. near Centreville, Jan. 1, 1804; (and named for a favorite pedagogue, a connection of Count De Grasse of the Rev'n); at the age of 19, settled in Bourbon co., Ky., and studied law.

"Being a young man of graceful form, handsome features, gallant bearing and bright intellect, he was at once admitted to the front rank in the best society, and succeeded in winning for his companion through life, Miss Annie B. Bowie, one of the first ladies of the country, whose force of character impressed itself on every one. Her ancestors were from Maryland, but she was born near Millswood, Clark co., Va.; they were married March 25, 1828, and had four children, two sons and two daughters. They all died in childhood, except one, Mrs. Marietta Major, who now resides in Clarksville, Tenn.

"Dr. Sears was raised under deistical influences; his ambition to defend the doctrine successfully led him to investigate the subject, and the investigation interested him in religion. He and his wife were baptized at the same time by Rev. Ryland T. Dillard, at Bryants' station, in Elkhorn river, on the 19th July, 1838.

"Dr. Sears was solemnly impressed with the beautiful figure in emersion given as an ordinance to teach the resurrection, and from that moment felt impressed with the duty of preaching the Gospel, and determined to prepare himself for the ministry. He was soon called upon to pray in public, and licensed by the church to preach, and in a few months was ordained by a presbytery composed of Revs. R. T. Dillard, Edward Darnaby, and Josiah Leake.

"The ordination took place at David's Fork at a called meeting on Saturday before the third Sunday in February, 1840, according to Baptist forms.

"Thus he was pushed into the ministry before he was ready, according to his own thinking, and forced to combine practice with study, applying himself diligently.

"For days after the ordination, he engaged with Rev. Jas. M. Frost in a protracted meeting at the Forks of Elkhorn in Franklin county, Ky. He continued seven months, giving his time to protracted meetings at Frankfort, Georgetown, and Flemingsburg, and preaching once a month at Stamping Grounds, and once a month at the Forks of Elkhorn. He was not the pastor of either church, but the people liked his preaching, and even those out of the church joined in a pressing invitation for him to preach once a month, and sustained him liberally for the service.

"At this time the Missionary Board of Bracken Association at Maystick, appointed him missionary with a salary sufficient to support his family.

"It is wonderful how God blessed his work.

"While his family remained located at Flemingsburg, his home, he itinerated through three or four counties destitute of the Gospel, and holding protracted meetings with various churches soliciting his services.

"The first year he preached three hundred and sixty-six sermons, baptizing a great many converts.

"He held a meeting with Elder Curry, pastor at Shelbyville, Ky., in April, 1840, preaching twice a day for two weeks, which resulted in the baptism of one hundred and forty-nine persons.

"This was followed by a meeting at South Benson, where quite a number united with the church, then at Burk's branch, where he preached two weeks, and baptized sixty-six persons.

"His success and fame as a minister was spreading among the Baptist people throughout the State. The First Baptist Church sent a pressing invitation for his help, to which he acceded, beginning with a protracted meeting the last week in July, 1842, which continued eight weeks, resulting in his baptizing one hundred and twenty-five converts. He was then called to the pastoral care of the Louisville church, which he accepted on the 1st Sep., 1842, and this ended his evangelical and missionary labors for a time. He continued as pastor seven years, and during the time baptized over three hundred persons. He resigned the care of his church in July, 1849, to accept the appointment as General Agent of the General Association of Kentucky. He spent a year in this work, traveling and preaching.

"He held four protracted meetings at Silvesa, Mercer county, Henderson and Hopkinsville, Ky., and one in Indiana, in which over two hundred and fifty people were converted. He was called from this work to the care of the Hopkinsville church in July, 1850, which was then one of the strongest Baptist congregations in Kentucky. He continued as pastor of this church twelve years, during which time he baptized about three hundred converts.

"The war came up, and Dr. Sears, being intensely southern in sentiment, excited the prejudice of the Federal authorities, and had to surrender the care of the Hopkinsville church, abandon his home, and seek freedom and safety in the South, where he remained four years, preaching one year at Macon, and one at Columbus, Miss., as a mere supply to these churches, and the balance of his exile was spent as a missionary of the Southern Board of Missions in preaching to the Confederate army.

"Mrs. Sears remained in Hopkinsville to take care of their home and effects, surrounded by warm-hearted, influential friends, who notwithstanding the excitement then prevailing, never permitted her to be disturbed.

"Dr. Sears was not permitted to return to Kentucky until 1865, when he decided to locate in Clarksville, Tenn. There were then twenty-five Baptists in the city. Dr. Sears called them together and reorganized the church, and commenced a protracted meeting in the old church on what is now part of the Court-House square, which was successful, and he was chosen pastor in January, 1866, which relation has never been changed, and in no probability will be until he is called to that blissful reward which awaits God's faithful servants. Dr. Sears set on foot at once a move to build a good church house to cost about $25,000. Notwithstanding the congregation was weak, and the membership poor, the work was prosecuted with untiring zeal and energy, and by degrees the work was accomplished, and paid for as it progressed, and the cause prospered greatly in his hands during the time, the membership soon increasing over two hundred. The old saying, and generally a true one, that new churches always change pastors, was not verified in his case.

"He had become so engrafted in the affections of his congregation, that nothing could separate him from the love of the church, and the ties have continued to grow stronger with each succeeding year.

"Dr. Sears is now (1886) in his eighty-third year. His face is a little furrowed, and his hair slightly gray, but his eyes are bright, and he stands erect in the pulpit and preaches two sermons every Sunday with more power of eloquence and Gospel sweetness than ever. His meetings are well attended, and good attention paid to his ministry. He rarely ever preaches over forty minutes, and never reads a sermon. He is a student, prepares his sermons well, and often, when enthused with his subject, takes lofty flights, thrilling the hearts of his hearers by his Gospel eloquence.

"Dr. Sears and his wife celebrated their golden wedding eight years past, and every year since the ladies of his congregation pay some attention to the anniversary.

"Mrs. Sears was born July 25, 1797, and is now in her ninetieth year; still active, able to attend service regularly, visit, etc.; attends to her own housekeeping, cultivates her flowers, of which she is very fond, etc. She is a lady of superior intellect, and has given her husband great assistance in his studies, and much comfort through life, always looking at the bright side, possessed of a cheerful spirit and a hearty good will. Pleasing in manners, interesting in conversation, bright in repartee, sparkling in wit and humor, and keen in sarcasm when sarcasm best suits the demand, and at her present ripe old age few people are so charming in conversation.

"Dr. Sears figured conspicuously in the establishment of Bethel College at Russellville, and Bethel Female College at Hopkinsville. During his ministry of forty-seven years, he has, perhaps, baptized over two thousand persons, but has served in that time as pastor of but three churches. Few ministers have been called upon oftener to solemnize the rites of matrimony, and preach Commencement and introductory sermons.

"Dr. Sears has been a most zealous and active Free Mason through life; was elected Grand Master in Tennessee in 1870, and served the usual term of Right Eminent Grand Commander of Knights Templar of Tennessee. He is now Past Grand Commander, and a prominent member of the Grand Encampment of the United States.

"His days are full of love's labor, his years bright with honors worthily won, and his life blessed by the approving spirit of a loving and All-wise Providence." ["Chronicle," Clarksville, Tenn., 1886.]

WILLIAM SEARS[1], sometimes called Wm. Sewall Sears, is said to have been one of four brothers born in Boston, Mass., their mother being a Sewall of that place. I do not find such marriage recorded there, or mentioned in the Sewall Genealogies, but going back to an earlier generation, I find that Richard Sewall of Nuneaton, co. Warwick, Eng., by his wife Mary, sister of Sir Wm. Dugdale, Garter King of Arms, had a dau., Elizabeth, born 1618, who m. Edmund Seare, Notary Public, and was living in 1648. Henry Sewall, the elder bro. of Richard, came to this country, and died in Rowley, Mass., in 1657, æ. 81. From him descended the Boston Sewalls, and here, I think, we find the basis of the traditionary Sears and Sewall alliance. Probably Wm. Sears was born in Boston,

Dec. 16, 1713, son to Wm. and Eliz'h (White) Seers, who were married there, Mar. 12, 1710–11. Elizabeth owned covenant in 2d Ch., Feb. 20, 1714–15. Their children as recorded were, i. Joseph, b. Nov. 29, 1711. ii. William, b. Dec. 16, 1713. iii. John, b. Feb. 8, 1715–16. iv. Anthony, b. June 16, 1718. Which agrees with the tradition of "four brothers." Very likely an examination of the registers of Nuneaton, and wills of Sears of that place, might show a connection with the Boston Sears, and perhaps other branches of the family.

William Sears removed to White Plains, Westchester co., N. Y., (the family having lost their property in Boston by fire,) and thence, about 1760, to Montgomery, Orange co., N. Y., where he died, and was buried in the old brick church at Walkill. He m. —— Hart. Children:
